CENTRALIZED PHILANTHROPY

Representative Gathering Discusses Plans for Relief

Some one hundred and twenty-five people assembled at the Newton Club on Monday evening in response to the call sent out by the Social Service committee of the Newton Federation to consider the plan for centralizing the various activities of the city, civic, philanthropic, church and charitable. The meeting was called to order by Mrs. G. H. Wilkins, acting president of the Federation. Mayor Hatfield was chosen chairman and Miss Grace M. Burt, clerk.

Mrs. B. E. Taylor, chairman of the Social Service committee, was introduced as the first speaker. Mrs. Taylor in presenting the subject cited various things that have been accomplished by the Federation in the past, the police matron, river patrol, contribution to the Claffin Field fund and tuberculosis camp at the hospital. The committee has, however, been unable to meet the work as it ought, from constant changing of its personnel and the longer and longer vacation periods, which Newton people are indulging in the present time. For a long time they have felt the need of centralizing in order to conserve time, strength, and money, the very divided situation of the city making it all the more necessary.

At the present time the work which the Federation might do is beyond the powers of a volunteer committee. She then mentioned various matters which her committee hope to undertake. It is not the purpose of the Federation, she said, to form a new organization—there are enough organizations—but to establish a central bureau in charge of a well trained person who can bring into it all the information necessary for the better serving of the different existing organizations, for example, the Associated Charities, the District Nursing Association, the Hospital Aid, the Playground, the Church clubs, and even certain city departments. The Federation has undertaken to finance the initial steps and in the course of time when it has proved its usefulness it is hoped that the bureau will become self-supporting.

C. C. Carstens, secretary of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, then told of instances where such information as could be gathered in such a bureau has been of untold value. He said it is not impossible to have seven different nurses serve the same family, sent by as many different agencies and all gratuitously. There seems to be a passion just now to serve our fellowmen, but some organization of that effort is a blessing. Strange to say there is a feeling of "Woe unto him who interferes with our pet philanthropy," and so it seems to be almost the last step when a community gets together in its social service. Mr. Carstens emphasized the added strength which would come from the weaving together of the threads of service of the separate organizations.

There ought to be paid, trained service to draw these various cords together—a person giving time, thought, energy to the work. Volunteer service is good, but it is intermittent. It may be as good as paid service, except from its intermittent character. He did not quite agree with Mrs. Taylor in thinking that no new organization is necessary; he felt that there should be a new sort of organization—a committee or a board of directors to help in the steering of this co-ordinating process. It should be as simple and flexible as possible, as need requires, the different organizations being represented upon it. As suggestions he said, there might be a district nursing group, a social service group, a relief and personal service group, a recreation group to study the subject, for recreation is a subject that needs serious study. Whole-some recreation is essential to any child and a preventive of trouble. Under the neighborhood serving group he placed the day nursery associations, since they are dealing with the families with which the other organizations are also dealing. He then described what is known as the confidential exchange of information, which Boston have and a few other cities, and is being gradually adopted by other places. It is needed in every community of 10,000 inhabitants and therefore was long ago needed in Newton. This bureau of confidential information accomplishes two things, namely, stops over-lapping and makes it possible for various organizations to work together for a plan. It will be inevitable sooner or later. Isn't it time to do it now? It will give more to do and enable you to do it more efficiently.

George H. Ellis had been announced to speak, but he was detained in Lawrence, so the meeting was thrown open for informal discussion. Questions were asked relative to the enlarging of the scope of some of the existing organizations rather than forming a new organization, but in Mr. Carstens' opinion none of them would quite fill the bill. The Associated Charities was suggested, but there are many people, who might seek assistance of a Bureau of Newton Activities, who would never approach any organization bearing the name charity in its title. Mr. Melcher, who has been looking up matters concerning playgrounds and has accumulated considerable literature on the subject, suggested that it might be deposited at such a bureau for the benefit of those in other parts of the city to consult, similarly as such material is kept on file at the Town Room in Boston. After discussion it was voted that a committee of seven, including the chairman of the Social Service committee and the President of the Federation, be appointed by the Federation president to take up further consideration of the subject.

N. H. S.

At the school meet held last Saturday afternoon in Boston, Newton High won fifth place with a total of 6-4 points. Tucker won second place in the 1000 yard run, while Rider and Whitney qualified in the finals for 600 yards, Rider winning third place. In the relay race, Newton had a walkover with Brookline High winning with a third of a lap to spare. Newton's team consisted of Adams, McAllister, Raymond and Tucker.

The concert given by the Schubert Quartet, assisted by Miss Janet Chesney, reader, held Monday evening in the Newton Technical High School brought out a large audience. The vocal selections and readings brought forth much applause, after which dancing was enjoyed until 11. The quartet consisted of H. S. Tripp, first tenor, C. W. Swaine, second tenor, W. W. Walker, baritone, A. C. Steele, basso.

HUNNEWELL CLUB

Mr. Reno B. Welbourne gave an interesting lecture and entertainment, consisting of laboratory demonstrations of the principles of wireless transmission of messages Tuesday evening at the Hunnewell Club. The audience was greatly pleased with his illustrations of boiling water with ice as fuel and melting nails with a chemical ignited by means of a piece of ice. During the entertainment a mixed bowling tournament for ladies and gentlemen was in progress in the alley. Both affairs were largely attended.

There will be a bridge party this evening at the Hunnewell Club.

POLICE NOTES

A civil service examination for the police service will be held on March 25. There is an unusual opportunity this spring for immediate appointment as there are several vacancies to be filled.

RUNNING FOR TRAIN

Causes Death of Mr. John R. W. Shapleigh

Mr. John R. W. Shapleigh, a resident of this city for over thirty years, died suddenly Wednesday morning at the Newton railroad station from an attack of heart disease, brought on from hurrying to catch the train. Mr. Shapleigh was seen to run for the cars and was walking up the steps when the train started. He collapsed on the car steps and the body slipped to the station platform, at first giving the impression that he had been hurt by accident. Examination of the body, however, showed clearly that it was heart failure. The train was stopped and the body taken to the baggage room, to await the arrival of the medical examiner. Mr. Shapleigh was 65 years of age and a native of Lowell. He has resided in this city since 1878, living first at Newtonville, and for the past 21 years at 24 Newtonville avenue, Newton. For some years he was engaged with his brother in business as the Shapleigh Coffee Co., retiring about a year ago. Mr. Shapleigh took a live interest in civic affairs, served for some years as president, as treasurer and as a director of the Newton Y. M. C. A. and was deeply interested in its success. He was also active in Grace Church, and served for some years as its senior warden. He is survived by a widow, two sons, Roger S. Shapleigh of Denver, Col., S. Chandler Shapleigh of Pittsburgh, Pa., and two daughters, Amy, the wife of Lieut. Charles T. Leeds, U. S. A., now in California, and Miss Alice W. Shapleigh of Newton. Mrs. Shapleigh is visiting her daughter in California, and the funeral arrangements have not been completed.

"H. M. S. PINAFORE"

A revival of the Gilbert and Sullivan opera, "H. M. S. Pinafore," is now being rehearsed at Players' Hall, West Newton, under the management of Mr. William G. Hambleton, organist of Grace Church, Newton, as musical director; Miss Lillian F. Harrington of Newton Centre as mistress of the dance; Miss Ethel Howland of West Newton as stage and business manager.

Three performances will be given for the benefit of Players' Hall on the evenings of March 25, 26, and 27. The members of the cast have been drawn from the Newtons and Brookline and include many who have acted with the Boston Cadets, the Players, and the Lend-A-Hand Dramatic Club from time to time.

The parts are cast as follows:—
Sir Joseph Porter, C. K. B.
Mr. Thomas E. Stutson
Capt. Corcoran, Mr. Charles W. Cole
Ralph Rackstraw.

Mr. Albert Pickernell

Hebe, Miss Marion Clapp

First Lord's Sisters, His Cousins, and His Aunts, Miss Margaret Hatfield, the Misses Ruth and Margaret Baldwin, Miss Carolyn Clarke, Miss Julia Colby, Miss Elizabeth Drinkwater, Miss Evelyn Gorton, Mrs. Roy Pushee, Miss Ruth Stutson, the Misses Margaret and Virginia Tapley, Miss Alice Wyman, Miss Adelaide Chase, Miss Ethel Jaynes, the Misses Marion and Grace Miller.

Sailors.—Mr. Raymond Carter, Mr. A. O. Clark, Mr. Richard Clark, Mr. Henry Clarke, Mr. Eliot Carter, Mr. Lionel Drew, Mr. Clifford Eddy, Mr. Erskine Noyes, Mr. Osgood Perkins, Messrs. Lucius and Alfred Pratt, Dr. Charles Reese, Mr. Warren Tapley, Mr. Louis Washburn, Mr. Clinton Kyle, Mr. George Nicholson, Mr. Ellis Gammons, Mr. Harold Stanton.

Solo Dancers, Miss Lillian Harrington, Mr. Harold Whitney.

CITY HALL.

Nine applicants for the fire service were examined last Monday by the civil service board. An examination for clerks will be held on March 13 and one for police service on March 25.

BRILLIANT RECEPTION

Given by Mrs. William T. Rich for Son's Fiancee

A large and brilliant reception was given on Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. William Thayer Rich, at her residence on Sargent street in honor of Miss Mary Scribner Rand, whose engagement to her son, Mr. Wesley Everett Rich was recently announced. The large reception rooms were charmingly decorated with flowers, a definite color scheme being carried out in each room. The spacious drawing-room was beautifully decorated with a profusion of Radiance roses and smilax. In the living-room were Jacqueminot roses, Harvard red predominating and the hall was attractive with Easter lilies and asparagus vine, making a very pretty contrast in the subdued light. In the dining-room, where refreshments were served the table, mantle and buffet were gay with Killarney roses and lilies of the valley.

The sun-parlor, where frappe was served, was fittingly decorated with yellow daffodils, violets and lilies of the valley, the golden spring blossoms being used in effective arrangement on the tables. A delightful program of music was rendered by Hayden's Orchestra. Mrs. Rich was gowned in black velvet with point-de-Venise lace and wore a corsage bouquet of orchids and was assisted in receiving by Mrs. James Henry Rand, who was gowned in blue satin with white lace and wore a corsage bouquet of white gardenias. Miss Rand was in Killarney rose colored satin with over-dresses of lace and carried a large bouquet of Killarney roses. The ladies who poured were Mrs. Joseph C. Atkinson, Mrs. George Taylor, Mrs. James Watson Campbell, Mrs. Charles Kimball, Mrs. James H. Rand, Jr., Miss S. B. Rich, Mrs. Edward Hobart, Mrs. Liverus E. Howe, Mrs. George H. Talbot, Mrs. Chester Guild, Mrs. Lincoln Righter and Mrs. William H. Rogers.

The following young lady friends of Miss Rand also assisted: Mrs. Marguerite Shaller, Miss Helen Brant, Miss Evelyn Wadleigh, Miss Virginia Tapley, Miss Marguerite Brant, Miss Marian Jones, Miss Roberta Shaller, Miss Emily Wellington, Miss Marian Knowlton, Miss Louise Paine, Miss Margaret Kendall, Miss Rose Cary, Miss Mabel Rand, Miss Helen Robert, Miss Grace Riley, Miss Ruth Nicholson, Miss Emily Plant, Miss Ethel Wentworth, Miss Dora Gilbert, Miss Etta Bates, Miss Constance Righter and Mrs. Harold Billings.

FAELTEN SCHOOL

Miss Gladys Adella Copeland's recital in Faelten Hall, Tuesday evening proved to be a splendid example of the training given by the Faelten Pinafore School, where she has received her entire musical education.

One could see immediately that Miss Copeland stood well above her task and that the overcoming of technical difficulties was a mere matter of course.

Musically the performance was most enjoyable. Mr. Carl Faelten assisted in the final number.

GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan L. Damon celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary last Friday evening by holding a reception at their home on Putnam street, West Newton. They were assisted in receiving their many friends by Mr. and Mrs. Gardner I. Jones of West Newton, Mrs. Jones being their only daughter, and by Mr. and Mrs. J. Linfield Damon Jr., of Boston. Mr. and Mrs. Damon were married in Boston by the late Rev. A. A. Miner, D. D. Mr. Damon was for many years the proprietor of the Hotel Thorndike, Boston and the Atlantic House, Nantasket, but retired from active business some years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Damon have resided in West Newton for about twenty years.

METROPOLITAN COOPERATION

A Voluntary Association Proposed for District

The increasing number of bills affecting the so-called Metropolitan Boston District which are filed annually in the legislature, many of which threaten to seriously disturb the present local government conditions or promise to impose financial burdens in the district which can be ill afforded, has made it plain to the municipal officers in certain of the communities that some voluntary combination for the purpose of defense, and also to plan co-ordination which shall originate with the parties most interested, is a necessity.

This feeling has been brought to a head, as it were, by the recent filing in the legislature of the report of the Recess Metropolitan Plan Commission, with which a bill has been presented providing for the erection of a Permanent Metropolitan Plan commission. This calls for a commission of five men which will cost approximately $50,000 a year for maintenance, to be given general oversight of all affairs in the Metropolitan district. It is unnecessary now to go into further details as to this plan which is being seriously advocated and on which the legislature will give a hearing March 6, but its effect has been to call for the immediate creation of an association.

As a result of a meeting of 140 municipal elected officers held at the Exchange Club in February, it was unanimously voted that the Metropolitan Plan and Kiley annexation bills should be opposed. It was also voted that steps be taken to form a voluntary association of the different Metropolitan communities, and a committee was appointed to draft a scheme of organization. That committee has since had several meetings and the enclosed is a first draft of the proposed constitution of such a combination.

The aim has been to provide for a combination first of all which shall be voluntary inasmuch as no city or town need join unless it desires. Which shall be simple, in providing that each of the cities and towns shall have only one vote and that it shall do its work chiefly through a small executive committee, all of whose actions are to be subject to the approval of the general council of 40 and to be effective in planning that a central office shall be maintained in Boston which shall be a clearing house for all matters relating to the metropolitan district, where the real purpose of legislation can be studied and explanation given to city and town officials who have not the time of themselves to make such investigation.

Last, but not least, it is planned to make this an effective organization for the study of metropolitan needs and the working out of schemes of co-ordination which shall have the advantage first of all of being framed by men who are actually working for the municipal governments affected and who are acquainted with the financial conditions as well as needs. This will be done by a series of sub or standing committees.

The constitution proposed for the new association is as follows:

Article 1. This Association shall be called the Metropolitan Association.

Article 2. This Association is established to promote the spread of knowledge among cities and towns of all matters affecting their general welfare; to obtain and publish information concerning all proposed legislation; to consider any or all questions which affect the public; to aid in securing more active and efficient co-operation between the several cities and towns upon all matters where co-operation is found to be desirable.

Article 3. Any city or town within any of the existing Metropolitan Districts and any other city or town which may hereafter be admitted by vote of this Association may be members of this Association. Every city or town which is a member of the Association may elect one delegate to this Association who shall be a member of the General Council thereof and who shall be ex-officio member of any city or town which is a member of this Association. The Mayor or other governing body of any city, or the Selectmen of any town may become a member. Any former Mayor or any former members of the Board of Aldermen or City Council or Board of Selectmen may likewise become a member. Any City Solicitor or Town Counsel or any former City Solicitor or Town Counsel may become a member. Any person eligible to membership may become a member by application to the Secretary and payment of his dues.

Present members of the Board of County Commissioners of any county and present members of any State Board or Commission may become honorary members of this Association, and shall be entitled to all its privileges, except that of voting, and shall be exempt from payment of dues.

Article 4. Section 1. The officers of this Association shall be a General Council, which shall consist of one member from each municipality which joins this Association and elects or appoints a member to the Council.

An Executive Committee of not less than five and not more than nine members (who shall be elected by the Council); this committee shall choose its own Chairman, who shall be ex-officio chairman of the General Council and also of this Association. A Secretary-Treasurer who shall be appointed by the Executive Committee and who shall be ex-officio secretary of the Council and of the Executive Committee. He may be paid a salary and need not be a member of the Association and shall be subject to removal by the Executive Committee.

Section 2. The members of the General Council shall be appointed for one year by the several cities and towns. The members of the Executive Committee and the Chairman shall be chosen for terms of one or three years and shall hold office until their successors are chosen and qualified.

The Executive Committee shall fill any vacancies caused by the death or resignation of any member of the Committee.

Section 3. Subject to the control of the General Council at any general meeting thereof, the Executive Committee shall have the management of the Association and of its income, and shall have the right to appoint such assistants and agents as the Committee may deem necessary or useful to the Association; and the Committee shall have the right to remove any persons so appointed, and to prescribe their duties.

Section 4. The General Council shall have power to make, alter, or amend the Constitution and By-laws of the Association, but only after a stated meeting of the Association and after notice to all members of the Association of the proposed amendment, given at least one month before the stated meeting at which the proposed amendment is to be offered.

Section 5. A majority of the members of the Executive Committee shall constitute a quorum thereof, and the Executive Committee shall have power to fix the number of members of the Council which shall constitute a quorum of the Council.

Banking Needs of Wholesalers and Jobbers

Dealing each day with men in a variety of different lines, the officers of this bank are constantly in touch with conditions in practically every trade and industry.

But on account of our location in the midst of the wholesale and jobbing district of the leather, shoe and textile lines, we are particularly well prepared to meet the banking requirements of individuals and firms engaged in business of that nature.

Our nearness to the South Station makes it especially convenient for suburbanites to keep their personal checking account here.

Bones Stronger Than Oak.

The wonderful power of bone structure has been tested scientifically to show how that hollow bone bears strain. A very small bone, only one square millimeter (.0155 square inch) in diameter, will hold thirty-three pounds in suspension without breaking, while a piece of the best oak of the same thickness will hold up only twenty-two pounds. The bone is therefore half again as strong as the solid oak, thus showing that nature is economical in the weight given to bones, making them hollow and at the same time makes them stronger than if they were solid and much heavier. This principle has been recognized in mechanics, engineers using hollow steel tubes instead of solid to meet great strain.—New York World.

Tobacco in Vienna.

"They have a way of asking a stranger when he comes to Vienna," says a letter from that city, "Who is the largest, the most reliable, the smallest, the best and the worst dealer in cigars and cigarettes in Vienna?" Of course the stranger does not know the answer, and the native tells him triumphantly, "The government." The government has the monopoly, and every person employed in a tobacco shop—they call them 'trafik'—is a government employee."

THEATRES

R. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.—With Jesse L. Lasky's new opera, "California," Bert Fitzgerald, and Howard and Howard among the principal features, next week's bill at R. F. Keith's Theatre promises to be one of the strongest and most diversified of the season. "California" is the prettiest and most potent production ever staged by Jesse Lasky. The comedy is in the hands of Austin Stewart, who has the part of an English lord, owner of the railroad, the music being of exceptional quality, the catchiest number being a duet "I Love You, My Own." Bert Fitzgerald, known as "The Daffy Dill," will try to live up to his title by telling a lot of crazy stories and singing some insane songs. Howard and Howard return after a long absence with a new act; the Joseph Dekoe troupe present a remarkable acrobatic novelty; and other features will be Minnie Allen in a pianologue; and Mrs. Jimmie Barry in a new edition of "Hensfoot Corner."

PLYMOUTH THEATRE.—Crowned with the success of two metropolitan cities, "The Deep Purple," Paul Armstrong's powerful play of the Great White Way, added another laurel to its wreath of fame by scoring an instantaneous success upon its first presentation at the Plymouth Theatre last Monday night. The play presents one of the most graphic pictures of New York's underworld and exposes in a realistic manner the methods utilized by a gang of thieves in their efforts to work the "badger game" on a western mining engineer. How the plot is balked by the courage and resourcefulness of the engineer and the wit of Kate Fallon, a former thief, gives occasion for a series of strong scenes and life-like character delineations in the hands of an unusually good company. The play is a bit of real life transplanted to the stage that should interest the average theatregoer who is unfamiliar with how the underworld exists.

COLONIAL THEATRE.—The first performance of a light opera considered by such producing experts as Messrs. Werba and Luescher to be a suitable successor to their charming "Spring Maid," is an event of more than ordinary interest. At the Colonial Theatre on Monday evening, March 4th, this firm will present "The Rose Maid," an opera which gives every indication of becoming as popular as her earlier sister. The score of "The Rose Maid" is said to be exquisite in its dainty harmony and melody of the "catchy" variety and one song particularly, "The Rose Song," promises to achieve as great fame as any of the numerous hits of "The Spring Maid." The book of "The Rose Maid" is the work of Harry B. and Robert B. Smith, both of whose names have become extremely familiar to light opera lovers. This same twain of Smiths were sponsors for the book of "The Spring Maid." Adrienne Augarde, the English favorite, has been imported from London for the title role, in which her winsome personality and pleasing singing voice should be admirably displayed. There is a large chorus and an orchestra of forty under the direction of Max Bendix, formerly of the Metropolitan Opera House.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.—In considering the importance of the announcement that at the Hollis Street Theatre, Boston, James K. Hackett is appearing in his greatest success, "The Grain of Dust," it is very interesting to review the wide ground already covered by this ambitious young American artist. "Don Caesar's Return" was his first venture, and his old rival, Faversham, used the same subject matter at the same time in his first venture as a star. Mr. Hackett quickly followed this first success with "The Crisis," which was a very big hit in deed and others that followed in rotation were "The Chance Ambassador," "John Ermine of the Yellowstone," "The House of Silence," "Fortunes of the King," "The Walls of Jericho," "The Crown Prince," "John Glade's honor," a reprise of "The Prisoner of Zenda," "Monsieur Beaucaire," "Samson," and his extraordinary interpretation of "Jean Valjean" in "The Bishop's Candlesticks." So it can readily be seen that, despite the fact that Mr. Hackett can still claim to be a young man, he has none the less had a brilliant and varied career already both as an actor, an independent producer and an actor-manager.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.—At the Castle Square next week, John Craig will revive "The Private Secretary," William Gillette's farcical play which has been the success of many a season. It still holds its own as one of the funniest plays ever presented on any stage, and it has achieved equal popularity in Europe and in this country. The version given at the Castle Square is that which has been acted many times in Boston by Mr. Gillette himself. For three acts there are rollicking episodes that keep the audiences continuously a-laughing. The title role will be played by Mr. Craig himself, and Donald Meek and George Hassell will have prominent roles in the cast.

MR. PECK'S TRAVEL TALKS

Arthur K. Peck, Lecturer, Traveler and Writer, returns to Tremont Temple, Boston, this season with two courses of three illustrated Travel Talks on consecutive Friday evenings and Saturday matinees, commencing March 8.

His opening Travel Talk is "Holland, Quaint and Picturesque; the Land of the Windmill and Wooden Shoes." The following week his subject is "The Grand Canon of Arizona, the Southwest Wonderland." And for the concluding lecture of this series, he will present "Indian Country and Yellowstone Park."

As an extra for Easter week, Mr. Peck is planning to repeat for the entire week of April 1st, his success of last year, "Oberammergau and the Passion Play."

The opening Travel Talk, "Holland," is a subject which loans itself to very artistic illustrations, and Mr. Peck has brought within range of his camera many quaint scenes and costumes of the people of "Old Land."

Such studies as delight artists, viz., bloomed-trousered, stolid old gentlemen, arm-akimboed, voluminous-skirted hausfraus, and little children, wee miniatures of mamma and grandmamma, with cap, apron and wooden shoe, have passed before his camera in endless procession.

NEW METHOD OF POOR RELIEF

The Charity department has inaugurated a new plan to furnish aid to its outdoor poor in the most efficient and most economical fashion. A room has been fitted up at the City Home on Winchester street, Newton Highlands and supplies of flour, sugar, tea, butter, salt pork, salt fish, condensed milk, beans, peas, potatoes, corn, meal, oat meal, rice and soap are purchased in wholesale quantities and delivered at the homes of the applicants by department employees. In case of necessity, the former method of orders on a local store are still used but Overseer of the Poor Lowe is certain that a considerable saving can be effected by the new method.

Grocery orders issued by the department have averaged something like $6800 annually for the past few years and it has been found that in some cases money instead of groceries have been given the applicants and in one case a box of cigars was obtained on an order for the necessities of life. The new plan will prevent such abuses in the future. The system has been in use in Waltham for the past 16 years and in Boston for at least 25 years, as well as in other cities, so it is not an experiment in any sense.

Lower Falls

—Dr. O. L. Schofield is convalescing from his recent illness.
 —Master Patrick Healy has returned from the Newton Hospital.
 —Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Spring spent the holiday and week-end at Methuen.
 —Rev. Fr. P. H. Callanan has returned from Florida.
 —The meeting of the Community Club last Tuesday evening was a social one. Mrs. Wallace Boyden of Newtonville entertained the club by telling stories. Miss Ethel Hobart, Secretary of the State League of Women Workers, spoke to the club of her work and told many interesting facts about other clubs in the League.

REAL ESTATE

Alvord Bros. have sold for R. C. Jones to E. H. Richter the estate 105 Grant avenue, Newton Centre, consisting of a modern single house and about 7000 square feet of land, the whole assessed for $6400, of which $5200 is on the house and $1200 on the land.

The Executive Committee shall have power to appoint from the Council or from the Association at large, such standing committees as may from time to time seem desirable, and to fix the number of members on each Committee and the duties thereof.

Article 5. The Annual Meeting of the Association shall be held in October, and there shall be a stated meeting in March, the dates of each of these meetings to be fixed by the Executive Committee.

Special meetings of the Association may be called by the Executive Committee at any time, and may be called upon the written request of ten members. But no business shall be done at such special meetings except such as shall be specified in the call.

Notice of such special meeting, and a statement of the business to be done, shall be sent by the Secretary by mail to each member of the Association at least three days before the time appointed for the meeting.

At any meeting of the Association twenty-five members shall constitute a quorum.

Meetings of the General Council and meetings of the Executive Committee shall be held at such times as these bodies shall respectively appoint.

Article 7. The annual dues from each individual member shall be one dollar payable on the first day of October in each year.

Any member who remains in default for sixty days in payment of his dues shall cease to be a member of the Association.

Members of the General Council and members of the Executive Committee shall be exempt from the payment of dues.

The annual dues from each municipal corporation member shall be—dollars, payable on or before the first day of October in each year.

Article 8. Any city or town in any of the existing Metropolitan Districts may become a member of this Association upon sending to the Secretary a copy of the vote of its governing board or boards, or of its Selectmen, declaring the wish of such city or town to join this Association.

Any city or town not within the Metropolitan Districts may, in its corporate capacity, become a member of this Association upon application to and approval of the General Council.

Article 9. In all cases where the action or judgment of the Association upon any public matter is to be taken by vote, each city or town shall have one vote to be cast by its representative in the General Council.

SPECIAL UNION SERVICES.

The three Abundant churches will join in a week of special devotional services under the leadership of Dr. William R. Newhall, pastor of the First Methodist church of Somerville, who is an earnest and eloquent speaker. The general subject will be "Jesus and the Modern Man." The daily subjects will be as follows:

1. Sunday evening—"The Christian Program," at the Congregational church.
2. Monday evening—"The Secret of the Sanctuary," at the Church of Messiah.
3. Tuesday evening—"The Meaning of Temptation," at the Congregational church.
4. Wednesday evening—"Indifference to Jesus," at the Congregational church.
5. Thursday evening—"The Supreme Gift," at the Centenary Methodist church.
6. Friday—"The Faith that never Fails," at the Centenary Methodist church.
7. Sunday—"The Saving Confession," at Church of Messiah.

22ND ANNIVERSARY

Boynton Lodge, No. 20, U. O. of G. O. L., celebrated its 22nd anniversary in Denison Hall, Tuesday afternoon and evening. At the close of the regular meeting, a reception was given to Sarah A. Jewell in honor of her 84th birthday. A bouquet of flowers was presented her from Tennyson Lodge of Rebecca by Cathrine Buck, N. Grand, a pretty gift from sisters of Boynton Lodge presented by N. Lady Annie Preston. Then followed an original poem on her 84th birthday recited by Past Grand Chap. May E. Clark, reading by Ella Mason and song by Mrs. Phebe Littlehale. Remarks by R. W. L. Gen. Emma A. Teale, R. W. Con. Annie Marsh, P. R. W. L. Governoress Eliza Shannon, M. J. Mills, Jennie Andrews, C. Dickson and Florence Cory, R. W. I. Emily Osborn, Gov. Sec. Julia Burroughs, P. S. L. Susan Mitchell, P. R. W. C. Sarah Wetmore and Sen. Rep. of Home and Crescent Lodges who were all our invited guests. Supper was served at 6.30, then followed the entertainment which consisted of a play entitled "How the Story grew," presented by Ella Mason, Minnie Flaisted, Eliza Bradford, Mary Berry, Jennie Clark, May Clark, Phebe Littlehale, Annie Barney. Dancing was enjoyed until 12 o'clock. Visitors were present from Friendship, Olive Branch, Hamlin, Home, Crescent, Harmony, Naomi, Lowell, Pricilla, Columbia and Mayflower Lodges. The hall was tastefully decorated in the national colors, which are also the lodge colors. Much credit is due our Sen. Rep. Nellie M. Cook, and Past Lady Eva Fogwill who had full charge of the affair, being joint chairmen. Music was furnished by the Colonial Singing Orchestra. There was a large attendance of members and their friends, and the 22nd anniversary of Boynton lodge, No. 20, will long be remembered as a most enjoyable and successful occasion.

EDITORIAL

For President,
WILLIAM H. TAFT

The Boston and Albany management has a most annoying custom of barring the steps at the rear end of its trains in the South Station, requiring persons who wish to ride in the last car, to walk an extra car's length. It is also noticed that when the last car
is a smoker, the steps are not barred,
making a nice distinction evident between smokers and non-smokers. It would be interesting to learn the reason for this discrimination. Another vexing custom of the railroad is to place a lighted, but closed car at the end of its train, and only open it for use when enough passengers have expressed a desire for more room. This feature is particularly pleasant to persons living east of the various railroad stations, who have been forced to find seats in the fore part of the train, only to find the last car opened
when they pass it on their way home.

It does seem as if a little common sense in these two matters would add to the accommodations of the patrons of the railroad.

There cannot be much doubt as to where Newton Republicans will stand at the spring primaries to elect delegates to the national convention. While many have had the greatest respect for ex-president Roosevelt, there is a general feeling that he has made a great mistake in opposing President Taft's re-nomination. The more the Taft administration is studied the more one enthuses over the results
attained and the objects of the work
now in hand. Every administration makes mistakes, but it is felt that President Taft's mistakes have been due to his intense loyalty to his friends rather than mistakes of principle. Newton Republicans should cast a large vote in favor of President Taft.

While the proposed voluntary association of municipalities in the Metropolitan district is a far more reasonable measure than the half-considered and expensive Metropolitan plan commission, it is doubtful if any proposition can succeed unless it restricts its work to matters affecting the interests of the entire district. If it attempts to touch matters of interest to but one or a few municipalities it will soon create friction which will destroy its usefulness. As a bureau of information regarding legislative matters and the best methods of obtaining legislation it would fill a long-felt want.

The city stands to lose $50,000 of the national bank tax bill passes the Legislature. Immediate and active work should be done to kill this pernicious bill.

Is it a square deal?

NEW OFFICES

Messrs. Waitt and Burrage, the well-known and up-to-date real estate brokers and agents, are now located in most convenient and comfortable offices at 406 Centre street, Newton,
in quarters formerly used for the Newton post office. A suite of four rooms has been most attractively
fitted up with neat curtains, fine rugs,
and attractive electrolights, with a large main office for general use and finely appointed private offices for both Mr. Waitt and Mr. Burrage. In the rear is a large committee room,
which the firm intends to devote for public uses.

These new offices give Messrs. Waitt
and Burrage ample room to conduct their rapidly growing real estate and

MR. TROWBRIDGE DEAD

Mr. J. Elliot Trowbridge, a life-long resident of Newton, died of heart trouble at his home on Jewett street on February 24th. He was the son of Otis and Elizabeth Trowbridge and was the first male child to be baptized in the first Elliot Church. His parents were among those who separated from the Newton Centre Congregational Church to form the Elliot Church, his father being the first deacon.

His life has always been that of a sincere Christian and it has been said that he was one of the few men who lived up to his profession of Christianity even in business life. He was kind and genial, always having a friendly word for everyone. He was most unselfish, never thinking of himself, but always of others, even up to the time of his death. He was modest and unassuming, always preferring to keep himself in the background. It may truly be said of him, that he fought a good fight, he finished his course, he kept the faith. For more than 43 years he has been a well-known organist and choir director in various churches, the last 14
being in the Methodist Church in Newton Centre. Mr. Trowbridge has composed a large amount of sacred and secular music which is widely used today. Among his larger works are the oratorios "Emanuel" and
"Paul the Apostle," the "Mass in E," and the "Peace of Jerusalem," and
"The Heroes of 76." His last composition,
a collection of responses, written without reference to a piano until completed, is now in press. He has been connected with several piano concerns, 35 years being spent with the Mason & Hamlin Co. His opinion of instruments was sought by people far and near, for his word was as good as his bond. In his business life
he impressed all with his strict honesty, his kindly disposition, and unsparing effort to serve every one with equal courtesy. It is a little strange that he moved into his boyhood home
only last October.

The funeral services were held at his late home, Monday, at 2.30 P. M., Rev. H. Grant Person of the Elliot Church having charge assisted by the Rev. Geo. H. Parkinson of Newton Centre. The service was very simple without music. The floral tributes from his friends were very many and beautiful. The interment was private in the Newton Cemetery.

With love for all and malice for none, a Christian gentleman gone home to rest.

Foster street are visiting friends in Binghampton, N. Y.

—Mrs. Elsie L. Avery of Crafts street left today for a visit with relatives in Yonkers, N. Y.

—The Every Saturday Club meets
this week with Mr. and Mrs. H. N.
Milliken of Walnut street.

—Miss Gladys Avery of Crafts street has returned from a visit with relatives in Yonkers, N. Y.

—The Summer P. Lawrence Rebecca Lodge gave a successful whist party
last evening in Odd Fellows Hall.

—Mrs. Charles W. Hamilton entertained at luncheon today at her residence on Walnut street. Covers were laid for eight.

—Mrs. Roland F. Gammons of Brookside avenue is recovering from her recent illness and was able to return this week from the Emerson hospital.

—Rev. James Watson Campbell will deliver the third in his series of sermons on the Apostles' Creed, Sunday morning at the Methodist Episcopal Church.

—The Epworth League of the Methodist Church are making preparations for a play to be given Tuesday evening, March 5th. The play is entitled,
"The Cool Collegians," a comedy in two acts.

—The Mission Circle of the First Universalist Church met Wednesday at the residence of Mrs. W. B. Denson of Lowell avenue. Miss H. W.
Munro of Cambridge gave an address on "What the Baptist Women are Doing."

Post, No. 61, G. A. R., are making arrangements for an entertainment to take place in the headquarters at Newtonville, on the evening of March 14th. The program will consist of selections by an orchestra from the Perkins Institute for the Blind and a number of other interesting features.

—On the evenings of March 4th and 11th, Rev. Jay T. Stocking, pastor of the Central Congregational Church, Newtonville, will give illustrated lectures on his last Spring's trip to the Pacific Coast. The subjects will be,
"From Boston Harbor to the Golden Gate," (including the Yosemite Valley) and "Mt. Shasta and the Canadian Rockies." The proceeds from these entertainments will be devoted to the Emergency Fund of the church.

ALMOST ASPHYXIATED

Two children of Louis Andrews at 108 Oak street, Upper Falls, and an old lady, who was in the room with them, were almost asphyxiated this morning by escaping gas. It is thought that the children while playing turned on the gas. The odor was noticed by other persons in the house and the children and the old lady were rescued after being overcome
by the effects of the gas.

UNDER THE GILDED DOME

Possibly the most interesting matter this week from a local standpoint
was the report, leave to withdraw from the committee on Taxation on the proposition to pay the national bank tax to the municipalities where the banks are located instead of the cities and towns where the stockholders reside. As I have already pointed out, this little bill would cost the city of Newton over $50,000. While the committee has reported adversely
on the matter it is too early to congratulate ourselves on the outcome,
as seven of the fifteen members of the committee dissent, and may be able to make trouble on accepting the report. As 150 representatives come from places which will suffer financial loss in case the bill is substituted,
there is fair reason to hope for favorable action on the committee report.

Ex-President Roosevelt visited the State House and addressed both branches on Monday. The most noticeable feature of the visit, however,
was the cool reception given the once national idol. His remarks, too, were more fitting for the rarified atmosphere of the great western states than for the east winds of New England.

The honorable Samuel L. Powers of Newton was one of the speakers this week before the committee on Constitutional Amendments in favor of the proposition to strike the word
"male" out of the constitution. Mr.
Powers stated that he never could see any legitimate or logical argument against woman's suffrage. Ex-Governor John D. Long also was recorded in favor, saying that a distinction of sex in this matter was a relic of barbarism. It is a safe bet, however, that the committee will send in its usual report against the bill. It has always seemed to me that the advocates of woman suffrage aim at the hardest proposition of all when they concentrate their efforts on changing the constitution,—a project which arouses
all the latent conservatism of the whole state, regardless of the merits of the plan. It would seem as if a strong campaign for extension of woman's suffrage, to municipal elections,
would open the door, and eventually lead to full suffrage privileges. Besides, municipal suffrage can be obtained by a vote of a single legislature while a constitutional amendment requires a two-thirds vote of two successive legislatures and then a favorable vote of the people. In my opinion the end can be more easily obtained by the municipal suffrage route.

The postponed hearing on the parkway from West Roxbury to Watertown, across the city of Newton, will take place next Monday morning at 10.30. It is too bad that measures of this sort cannot stay dead.

Representative White has been appointed on a committee of conference
on the matter of amount of appropriation for band concerts in the metropolitan district. It is to be regretted that Mr. White stands by the sum of $25,000 voted by the House, while the Senate wishes to cut this luxury to $20,000. It would be a matter of congratulation if the whole appropriation should fall thru on account of lack of agreement.

Considerable opposition has developed against the bill reported by the Committee on Counties extending the civil service law to appointive county employees. In view of the present general application of the civil service law it seems strange that its extension to county employees should be opposed except by those who profit by the present exemption. The county
"rings," however, are said to have quite an influence and the progress of the bill will be watched with great interest.

The hearings on the annexation
and metropolitan planning schemes
take place next Tuesday morning before the committee on Metropolitan Affairs. In view of the statement by advocates of the planning bill that measures will postpone annexation, it should be noted that the committee classes the two measures together and assign them for hearing at the same time. The opponents of the planning bill present a working, voluntary association scheme, which appears on its face, to be practicable,
and it surely is not too much to say that it be given a trial before a $50,- 000 proposition is forced on the district.

SILVER WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Berg celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding Monday evening at their residence on Auburndale avenue, Auburndale, among a large company of relatives and friends. The house was attractively decorated with Marguerites and asparagus vine, and Mr. and Mrs. Berg received from 8 until 10.
The color scheme in the dining-room
was violet, a large shower bouquet of violets being in the centre of the table. The servers were Miss Edna Kennedy, Miss Laura Capetick and the Misses Gertrude and Ogot Berg. Mrs.
Berg was handsomely gowned in black satin with corsage bouquet of violets.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

MISS GRACE M. BURT, Editor.

The response which the Social Service committee of the Newton Federation met at its meeting at the Newton Club on Monday evening is certainly gratifying and it is to be hoped that when the committee appointed meets for further consideration, it will be deemed best to go on to bring the matter to a successful issue. For the financing of the undertaking the individual clubs have taken hold enthusiastically, already the Newtonville Guild and the Mothers' Club have made their efforts, the Pierian Club is doing so today, the two Newton Highlands clubs will on Friday of next week, while the Social Science Club will hold its subscription card party at the Hunnewell Club on Monday, March 11, (not 1st as previously announced.) The Newton Centre Woman's Club has sent out an admirable letter to its members asking for contributions instead of selling tickets. These so far are all the efforts that have come to the Club Editor's attention, but if there are others she will be glad to know of them. The spirit of co-operation has greatly increased among the clubs of the Newton Federation within the last few years. So heartily a response would hardly have been possible ten or even seven or eight years ago. This may easily be recognized as one of the good things which was accomplished by the Clifton Bazaar of 1907.

State Federation

The spring Presidents' Conference of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs will be held by courtesy of the Brimfield Club at its club house in Allston on Monday afternoon, March 4, at 2 o'clock. Topics for discussion include valuable work accomplished and plans for specific work for the welfare of the clubs and their local communities. This conference is open to the president, one vice-president and the secretary of each club. Present card with name and club represented at the door for admission. There will be a social hour at the close.

Local Announcements

The Newton Highlands C. L. S. C. will meet with Miss Ayer at 3 Forest street, corner of Walnut on Monday afternoon, March 4, at 2.30.

Mrs. Bowen of 11 Chester street will entertain the Monday Club on Newton Highlands on March 4. Miss Edith Bartlett will sing.

The Newtonville Woman's Guild will have a musicale for the program of its meeting on Tuesday afternoon, under the direction of Mrs. Albert P. Carter.

On Monday afternoon the Newton Mothers' Club will meet with Mrs. Herbert M. Cole of 20 Somerset road, West Newton.

The Social Science Club will hold its monthly business meeting on March 6 at ten o'clock. At 11.15 guests may be invited to hear Miss Mary C. Wiggins of the Massachusetts Consumers' League speak.

On Thursday morning the monthly Current Events lecture will be given before the Newton Centre Woman's Club by Mrs. Lella C. Pennock.

The Ladies' Home Circle will meet on Thursday, March 7, at 2 P. M. in G. A. R. Hall, Newtonville. As there is important business to be discussed, including plans for a spring work, it is hoped that there will be a large attendance.

The Monday and Shakespeare Clubs are uniting in a subscription whist on Friday, March 8, at Lincoln Hall, the proceeds for the benefit of the Bureau of Newton Activities.

On Friday, March 8, the West Newton Women's Educational Club will hold its annual musicale. Mrs. H. D. McIntosh, chairman of the music committee, has planned an especially fine program; selections to be given by Miss Marion Drake, soprano; Mrs. Nellie Parker Spaulding, reader; Ellsworth Blanchard, boy soprano; and Miss Van Cleve's Orchestra.

Local Happenings

The Newton Highlands C. L. S. C. at its meeting on Monday afternoon with Mrs. A. F. Hayward of Centre street considered Browning's poem "In a Balcony."

An unusually fine program was given at the meeting of the Monday Club on February 26. Mrs. W. M. Mick gave a most interesting paper on "The Evolution of Greek Drama." Scenes from two Greek plays were presented under the direction of Mrs. Bowen, the tragedy of "Antigone," and the comedy of "Ingomar." Those having parts in the former were, Mrs. Grace Williams, Mrs. Pollard, Mrs. Margaret Miller, Mrs. Louise Thompson, Mrs. Griewald, Mrs. Keeler, and Mrs. Bowen. The latter was given by Mrs. Wetherbee and Mrs. Bowen. The club is fortunate in having among its members many talented women and they were at their best on Monday afternoon.

Mrs. William P. Lucas lectured before the Waban Woman's Club Monday afternoon, February 26, in the home of Mrs. William H. Gould, choosing for her subject "The Woman Who Spends." The great question of one's standard of living must be solved, said Mrs. Lucas, by the individual case. We can too easily spend our neighbors' income, having no tangible idea as to the spending of our own. The philosophy of spending should be given more thought, for we should study our actual needs rather than what we want or like. As incomes vary, the choice must be made personal and adjusted to the individual problem. Do not drift, because of the smallness of the income; take a position and endure, for the sake of what can be produced by your own efforts. Woman can do anything in the world that she undertakes, the sacred duties of the home coming first. The daily account book, Mrs. Lucas considers a necessity, in order to know where the money goes, not necessarily to balance; but that the trifles may show up, in black and white, and that the question of spending may be elevated from the sentimental to the strictly business relationship. With a keen sense of responsibility we may thus endeavor to better conditions, for such is our moral responsibility, our part in the machinery of life.

The Newtonville Woman's Guild held its subscription whist in the Newton Club on Wednesday afternoon for the benefit of the Bureau of Newton Activities. There were forty tables and as there were no prizes each table played what it chose and as long as it chose. The affair netted $132 and was successful socially as well as financially.

It was found necessary for the Pierian Club to postpone the food sale and supper planned for this week, so the club held a social meeting at the home of Mrs. Estabrook on Wednesday afternoon. On this Friday afternoon Mrs. C. F. Rogers, Jr., opened her home for a military whist of six tables for the benefit of the Newton Federation fund for the Bureau of Activities and the other entertainment will be carried out later.

Mrs. W. H. Blood of Woodbine street entertained the Auburndale Review Club on Tuesday.

Mrs. Henry Turner read a very interesting paper on "The Novel in its Relation to the Drama." She closed with an account of the dramatization and presentation of Thackeray's "Vanity Fair." As the dramatized version of this work could not be obtained, selections were taken from the original and the parts were read by Mrs. Samuel Dike, Mrs. Turner, Miss Margaret Haskell, Mrs. Charles Kattelle, Mrs. Waldo Cole, Miss Ella B. Smith, and Mrs. A. R. Wells.

The next meeting of the Club will be held at Lasell Seminary, through the courtesy of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Winslow, Tuesday evening, March 12. It will consist of the presentation of a play written by three members of the Club, Mrs. Arthur Farley, Mrs. Theodore Gore, and Mrs. Winslow. A delightful evening is expected.

The Newton Mothers' Club held a successful tea and cake sale at the home of Mrs. Eleanor B. Hinckley of Sterling street on Thursday afternoon as its effort on behalf of the Bureau of Newton Activities.

At the meeting of the Social Science Club on February 28 reports of the State Federation meeting were given by Mrs. Nella I. Daggett and Mrs. Anna L. Bailey. The program of the morning was unusual and most interesting. John Hermann Loud spoke on "The Evolution of Church Music" and illustrated many points of his talk upon the piano. He began by saying that it is a boundless subject and not possible to cover it in the course of an hour's talk. To fully understand the subject it is necessary to go back to the dawn of the Christian era. The early Christians used no instruments whatever in their services, but hymns and psalms were borrowed partly from the Hebrew temple service and partly from the Greek service and they were rendered antiphonally by priests and people. We find instruction before the 4th century. St. Ambrose, who became bishop of Milan in the latter part of the 4th century, originated what are known as the Ambrosian ecclesiastical scales and introduced music into the church service. He also encouraged singing schools. Two hundred years later St. Gregory arranged the Gregorian chants, setting a stamp upon church music which has never been effaced and his work has furnished the model for all great classical works of older writers. In the 16th century Greek names were given to the different scales and the changes made at that time served as a foundation of all music and will for all time to come. In the 14th century were produced the strong branches which bore the beautiful fruit of the 15th and 16th centuries,—the pure chorals which have never been improved upon.

Turning from Europe to America Mr. Loud pointed out the effect which the strife between Royalist and Puritan had upon the church music. The Royalist founded the Episcopal church and the Puritan the Congregational. The vast difference in the music in earlier years in these two bodies is directly due to these influences. The first book of hymns used among the Puritans was published in England by Thomas Ravenscroft. In this will be found tunes whose names are still familiar to us, though the tunes themselves have been re-arranged. The first book published in the colonies was the Bay Psalm Book, but the first book of harmonized tunes did not appear until 1715. All the singing of the Puritans up to the middle of the 17th century was in unison, but the Episcopal churches introduced the music heard in the English cathedrals. The first organ in this country was placed in Trinity church, New York, and the first in Boston in King's Chapel about 1730. The latter was the gift of Sir Thomas Battle, who desired "a sober man, who could play upon it with a loud noise." By 1750 church music had gained quite a foothold. Singing schools were organized and singing masters came to the front. The congregational singing was thereby greatly improved. Chords were formed by the end of the 18th century. More difficult music was introduced such as the congregations were unable to sing. In the beginning of the 19th century we find the churches going back to the old hymns and psalms of earlier days. Of 19th century names three stand out prominently, Thomas Hastings, Nathaniel Gould and Lowell Mason, the father of church music in America. The latter's work served both the religious and artistic ends. Under his direction the Park Street Church choir became the best known of the time, and at his death in 1872 church music had practically reached the place that it has today.

In speaking of the introduction of instruments into the church Mr. Loud stated that first came the pitch pipe, then the tuning fork, the 'cello, the oboe, flute, violin and lastly the organ. There was argument as to which should take the leading part, men or women, but finally it was given to the sopranos, but solos were a long time coming. It was considered improper for a woman to sing a solo in church. Mr. Loud told of the forming of boy choirs and considers their general use to be one of the greatest steps ahead, while the class of music sung by them, as a whole is superior to that sung in other churches. He emphasized the necessity for good music in our church services. People won't go to church when they can hear better music outside the church. He touched briefly on the work of some of the English organists for church music and in closing spoke of the European composers who have been the masters of religious music, Bach, Haydn, Mozart and Beethoven. Mr. Loud delighted his hearers by playing selections from Mendelssohn's "Midsummer Night's Dream" overture, and an example from Bach and Beethoven, and closed with his own arrangement of the "Peregrin Chorus" from Tannhauser.

All those who had the pleasure of hearing Mr. A. Foxon Ferguson of Oxford lecture on "The Folk Lore and Folk Songs of England" before the Newton Centre Woman's Club on Thursday afternoon were convinced, if never before, that humor is really seldom lacking in the English make-up. Notwithstanding, he had addressed sixteen audiences in the eighteen days since his arrival in this country he brought plenty of enthusiasm to his subject because of his great interest in these anonymous, artless songs, which have lost all personality of the composer, but have been sung all down through the years for the pure love of the singing. They are not sentimental songs, but joyful and of the open. Among those which he rendered were, "Through Bushes and through Brars, Little Sir William, The Brisk Young Widow, A Spring Carol, Seventeen came Sunday and Keys of Heaven. Some of them were made on a curious scale with odd refrains or choruses. He was very witty and his mere aspect was mirth provoking.

"OUR FOLKS"

A capacity house at the First Universalist Church greeted the members of the "Lend-A-Hand Society" Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, when they presented the three-act drama, "Our Folks" by a cast in which appeared all were stars. Much credit is due Mr. W. O. Partridge, who conducted the rehearsals, but the fact remains that there is splendid talent and dramatic ability among members of the Society. Mr. Bridges took one of the most difficult parts, but gave a big "hit" with the audience. The young ladies played their parts with perfect ease, the lines being well delivered, and the applause which they received was well merited. The entire audience gave evidence that every act was appreciated to the fullest extent and the Society is to be congratulated on the success which they achieved. The cast included the Misses Marian D. Bassett, Jane M. Locke, Grace A. Brown, Ruth L. Cunningham, Mrs. Alfred C. Furubush and Messrs. Winfield H. Roope, Clinton W. Kyle, Bowman S. Atkins, Willard E. Higgins and George M. Bridges.

EVENING INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL CLOSING FOR THE YEAR

Closing exercises of the Evening Industrial School were held Wednesday evening in the Newton Technical High School, with a large attendance, all pupils who had registered in the night school being allowed to invite their friends. Mr. Kelley of the Architectural Drawing School, made the introductory remarks and presented the school with a picture which was the gift of the Evening Industrial class. Dr. Spaulding accepted the gift, making a short address to the evening school, after which Mr. Hebard introduced Mayor Hatfield, who made the principal address. He referred to the opportunities which are afforded the pupils of the Newton schools and the expense attending them, but called attention to the fact that the expense was justifiable when people considered the gratifying results. He urged them, because of that expense, to take a great deal of interest in their home city and to endeavor to take an active part in its welfare. Capt. Howard, the chairman of the school committee, made a few well-chosen remarks, after which selections were rendered by the High School Orchestra, and Miss Ruggles played two numbers on the 'cello. The Evening Industrial School has been run under a partnership, the members of which are the City of Newton and the State of Massachusetts. The State enters into it to give men and women an opportunity to improve themselves in trades and occupations. The average school in an ordinary city cannot afford to meet the expenses of an evening school, so the State comes to their assistance on condition that they meet certain requirements, refunding one-half of the expense of industrial work to the city. The State sets certain standards which must be lived up to by the city. One hundred and thirty certificates were given by the school committee to pupils who had done satisfactory work in the different courses, after which Mr. Hebard closed the exercises.

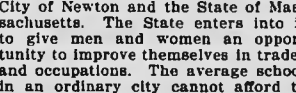

The courses of the evening schools are as follows: machine shop practice, shop mathematics, machine drawing, architectural drawing, cooking, sewing, dress making, commercial course, bookkeeping, shorthand, typewriting, penmanship, arithmetic.

There was also an exhibition of sewing and dressmaking which was done during the year and a demonstration of paper-bag cooking. At the close of the exercises, dancing was enjoyed in the gymnasium, with music by the High School Orchestra.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE MEETS

The School Committee met Wednesday evening and adjourned early on account of Industrial Evening School exercises. It was voted by the committee that an expression of appreciation of Miss Copeland's remarkably long and faithful service to the City be spread upon the records.

BOSTON AUTO SHOW

To show the growth of the automobile industry, ten years ago the first collective exhibit of motor-propelled vehicles was held in Symphony Hall, Boston, under the management of Chester I. Campbell. At this show a total of thirty-two machines were shown of nine different makes, and this took practically every make on the market. These, of course, were all pleasure cars, and not so much pleasure attached at that, as the motorists had their difficulty in the old days to "mote."

Under the same management the shows have increased year after year until last year, when the climax was reached Mechanics Building, where the past six shows were held, and acknowledged the largest show building in the United States, became all too small for the many different lines, with the advent of the commercial truck, so it has been found necessary this year to make two distinct shows, —the pleasure cars and the commercial vehicles. It was then thought that the solution had been found; but Manager Campbell still has his troubles.

With double the facilities of last year, even that is practically all exhausted, and there are still many would-be exhibitors unable to obtain space. This is particularly so of the pleasure car section, which has long been over-subscribed for.

There is no doubt, as in the past, that Boston is going to carry off the laurel wreath from the entire country, both in number and completeness of exhibits.

The commercial vehicle section, which comes immediately after the pleasure car show—namely, from March 13 to 20—will prove a revelation, as well as a wonderful educational institution, and business men should not neglect this opportunity of seeing the commercial vehicles made to meet every requirement, and which have proven their superiority in every test over the horse-drawn vehicle.

SUNDAY SCHOOL DISTRICT CONVENTION

The annual convention of the Northumbria District of the Massachusetts Sunday School Association, comprising the Sunday Schools of Newton, Waltham, Belmont, Weymouth, Waverley and Weston, was held Tuesday at the Newton Highlands Congregational Church. The meeting opened in the afternoon and continued throughout the evening. The general topic was "Opportunity and Efficiency." Rev. C. E. Spaulding, pastor of the Auburndale Centenary Church, presided over the preparation service, followed by a greeting by the pastor, Rev. George T. Smart and response by D. P. Jewett, president of the association. A general business meeting and address by general secretary, Hamilton S. Conant, then took place, followed by an address on the subject, "Life as Opportunity," by Rev. William M. MacNair, pastor of the Prospect Street Evangelical Church of Cambridge. The elementary divisions of the department sessions were in charge of Mrs. L. E. Ware of Worcester, state secretary for the Elementary Divisions, the Advanced Divisions were in charge of Mrs. S. J. Cox of Everett, state secretary of Advanced Divisions, and the Home Department in charge of Miss Katherine C. Bourne, state secretary of the Home Department Committee. Mr. Harry P. Bosson of Reading, chairman of the State Advisory Board, was in charge of superintendents and officers.

After a supper and social hour at 6.30 the business meeting was then resumed, consisting of the election of officers for the ensuing year, acceptance of the reports of committees and an address on "Undeveloped Negatives," delivered by Rev. O. W. Foye, pastor of the Winter Hill Baptist Church of Somerville. The meeting closed with benediction by the pastor. The reports of the committees show a prosperous year, over 221 members in Newton alone being on the Home Department Honor Roll and 22 schools report benevolences to the amount of $2597.50.

REALITY AND APPEARANCE IN THE BIBLE

Interesting Lecture by the Rev. G. S. Wheeler of Bridgewater in the Church of the New Jerusalem, Newtonville

The first of the series of Lenten Lectures at the Church of the New Jerusalem, Newtonville, was given by the Rev. George S. Wheeler pastor of the Swedenborgian church at Bridgewater, Mass., last Sunday evening. Mr. Wheeler's topic was "Reality and Appearance in the Bible, or Truth and the Appearance of Truth."

After quoting passages from the Bible showing the apparent contradictions in regard to the nature of the Divine Being—such as His being changeable and unchangeable, without anger and yet with "the anger that smokes"—the speaker showed how a large part of the Word is so written that conflicting ideas and beliefs can be and are taken from its pages. The question was then raised as to how this contradictory aspect could be reconciled with the claim that the Bible is the spiritual Word of God.

The answer made was that the principle or law of adaption solved the difficulty. The Bible is the revelation of God's nature, but also a revelation of man's nature, in all his states of evil as well as good.

Though given by God it came through the instrumentality of men, and in its outward form must show the coloring of their imperfect human states and experiences. The outer form in which the Word is clothed must be adapted to and express the varying states of those to whom it is addressed.

Many illustrations of this were given. But beneath all this outward appearance that the Word treats of natural affairs and conditions lies a sense that is addressed to the spiritual part of man, the realm of principle, affection and thought. This is the real behind the apparent.

It is in this realm of principle veiled by the outer covering of the apparent that the divine quality of the Word is manifested. The arrows of criticism and scepticism are aimed at the historical and literary dressing of the Word, but fail to touch the veiled and vital realm that lies within.

The key to solving the problem and to finding the proof of the divine nature of the Word lies in the laws of analogy. The speaker closed with the assertion that this law of analogy or correspondence between natural and spiritual things would eventually replace the Word in its supreme position as the Divine Presence with men.

The lecture next Sunday evening will be on the subject, "Swedenborgianism vs. Spiritualism," and will be given by the Rev. John Goddard, pastor of the Newtonville Society. Because Swedenborg, upon whose interpretation of the Bible the New Church is founded, claimed to have seen into the world beyond, many people suppose him to have been a kind of "medium." This lecture is designed to show his real status in this respect, and also to show why the New Church itself disapproves and discourages the search after communication with the unseen. The public is most cordially invited to this lecture, which will begin at 8 o'clock. All seats will be free, as usual, and there will be no collection.

TRIANGULAR DEBATE

Through the efforts of Mr. Charles Swain Thomas, head master of English at the Newton High School, and of many interested school members, a "Triangular Debating League" has been formed. The three schools in the league are Newton, Somerville and Brookline. The debate between Newton and Brookline will be held Friday evening, March 8, in the Assembly Hall of the Newton High School. The question is, "Resolved—It is impossible to establish any method of arbitration by which international war shall be abolished." Brookline defends the affirmative and Newton the negative. The speakers are as follows: Brookline, E. T. Clarke, 1912; E. C. Ferguson, 1912; J. H. Spitz, 1913; Newton, C. D. Kepner, Jr., 1912; C. B. Ames, 1912; W. M. Leonard, Jr., 1912. The rebuttals will be taken by E. T. Clarke of Brookline and C. D. Kepner, Jr., of Newton. Selections will be rendered by the Brookline High School Orchestra and there will be dancing in the Drill Hall after the debate.

Mr. Frederick Johnson Dies at His Home in Auburndale

Mr. Frederick Johnson, for more than fifty years a resident of Auburndale, died early Wednesday morning at his home on Woodland road after a short illness. Mr. Johnson was one of the best known residents of the city in 1854. He received his early education in the Dwight School of Boston and later in the West Newton English and Classical School. For the past 50 years he had been engaged

THE LATE FREDERICK JOHNSON

city. He was one of the charter members of the Newton Club and served as its president. He was deeply interested in politics and wielded a powerful influence throughout the city, serving on many district committees. He was a member of the Newton Common Council in 1886, and of the board of aldermen for 1887, 1888, 1889 and 1890. He was also induced to serve as alderman under the present charter in 1903 and 1904. He was born in Boston April 28, in the business of weigher and inspector of hides in Boston and was senior member of the firm of Frederick Johnson & Co., weighers and gagers, Boston.

Mr. Johnson married Miss Emma F. Kendall of Boston who survives him with two daughters, Ethel G., the wife of Paul Clifford and Edna D., the wife of Thomas Gawne. Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 2:15 at his late home, 204 Woodland road, Auburndale.

NEWTON CLUB

Quadrennial Night, February 29, was in charge of the ladies and, as usual, on such occasions, was a pronounced success. Dancing, whist and Boston Pin bowling were indulged in to a late hour.

An illustrated lecture was given on Tuesday on the "Modern Filipino," by Mr. Arthur Stanley Riggs. The hall was well filled and his descriptions of Philippine customs, with striking views of scenery and natives were much enjoyed. Those unable to be present missed an evening of much pleasure and interest.

The new Bulletin announces many features for March, chief of which is the complimentary dinner to the incoming President, Mr. Chas. E. Riley and the retiring president, Mr. Jas. L. Richards, with Hon. Samuel L. Powers as toastmaster. The night of March 14th will go into Newton Club history as one of its best.

The Leap Year Musicals of the 27th will be given by the ladies. It is proposed to hold a Costume Dance on the evening of April 10th.

POLICE NOTES

In the Police Court Saturday morning Harry Cutler of 28 Brookline street, Brookline, was fined $10 for allowing his horse to eat small trees which are being raised on Old Orchard road, Chestnut Hill, by the city, last week. Cutler, who is a pedler, was caught by Forest Commissioner Charles J. Bucknam, who is also a special officer, after he had noticed that the small trees were being eaten for some time, causing a loss to the city. Cutler paid the fine imposed.

A TRIBUTE TO THE MEMORY OF JOHN R. W. SHAPLEIGH

The departure of our friend and Christian brother, John R. W. Shapleigh, who was suddenly stricken on his way to business last Wednesday, February twenty-eighth, sent a thrill of pain to every heart among his large circle of friends.

The Directors of the Newton Young Men's Christian Association especially feel the loss, since Mr. Shapleigh was its Vice-President in 1890-1891, and in 1892-1894, and the worthy and efficient President of the Association for three consecutive years from 1894-1897, and had been previous to, and since, his presidency our valued counselor.

His genial spirit, his gentlemanly bearing, his devotion to the interests of the Association, his quiet and steadily fixed faith in God, together with his love for the boys of Newton, greatly endeared him to us all.

His abounding enthusiasm in the endeavor of the Association to support a representative in China, and his untiring efforts to make the meeting in that interest for next Sunday night in Grace Episcopal Church, of which he was an honored member, a success, was an inspiration to the other members of the Committee.

Our loss is second only to that sustained by his bereaved family, with whom we share the Christian's hope, and beg to assure them of our sincere prayers and hearty sympathy, and to commend them to our Lord and theirs, whose grace is sufficient for every exigency.

Adopted at the Directors' meeting, Monday, March 4, 1912.
ALLAN C. EMERY, President.
C. V. Moore, Clerk.

CONCERT

Composition by Miss Hatfield to Be Given at West Newton

On Thursday evening, March 14th, the third in the series of subscription concerts under the management of Messrs. Hatfield and Burrage will be given at Players' Hall, West Newton. The attraction will be the Dodge-Torcello Quintet, assisted by Howard White, Basso Cantante and Ernest W. Harrison, Piano. All of these artists are from the Boston Opera and the program arranged is one well calculated to show the versatility and range of musical work done by the members of our Boston Opera.

The chief attraction is Antony Torcello—the master contrabass artist of the whole musical world. He is the Kubelk of the contrabass and it is indeed a wonderful thing to hear him draw forth from his immense contrabass, the strains of a soothing lullaby or the arpeggios of a fiery rondo.

Howard White, the basso cantante, possesses a very pleasing voice and this, included with his own personality, makes him a concert artist of great promise. His songs on this particular evening include six of the ones most suited to him and songs that will please every one from the lay music lover to the deepest student.

William F. Dodge, of whose ability no mention need now be made, as he is always a welcome favorite to Newtonians, will give as his solo, the Saint Saens "Rondo Capriccioso." Mr. Dodge, ever since the first inception of the Boston Opera has been the assistant concert master—a position he won in competition with the best musical artists of America and one which he has held since winning, by his ever successful work.

H. Faxon Grover, the viola, has for years been one of our best exponents of quartet and quintet music and it will be a pleasure to hear him play. His tone is that of the pure viola quality and one which is often likened to that of the cello.

Ernest W. Harrison, the pianist, has appeared in Newton a great many times and in all capacities; sometimes as organist—and by the way he is the organist of the Chestnut Hill Unitarian Church—sometimes as pianist for recital work—sometimes as teacher—and again as an orchestral accompanist or soloist and in all of these musical spheres does he give excellent satisfaction.

The program will include an Andante Movement from a trio in D major composed by Miss Hatfield, daughter of Mayor Hatfield. Naturally much interest is centered in this event and from the advance commitments we have heard of the composition, Miss Hatfield is equally as versatile as the artists who are to play her number. Mr. A. H. Handley will have the musical direction of the concert.

MR. SHAPLEIGH BURIED

Funeral services for the late John R. W. Shapleigh who died at the Newton station last week Wednesday morning after running to catch a train, were held Wednesday afternoon at Grace Church, having been delayed to await the arrival home of Mrs. Shapleigh and her daughter, Mrs. Charles T. Leeds, who were in California.

A large number of friends and business associates attended the service and there were delegations from the Monday Evening Club, the Newton Y. M. C. A. and the R. H. Stearns Co. The floral tributes, which completely filled the chancel, were many and most beautiful.

The full choir rendered "Fight the good fight," "Asleep in Jesus," and "Hark, Hark, My Soul," and the recitor, Rev. Laurens MacLure, read the service for the dead.

The honorary pall bearers were Messrs. Edward H. Cutler, Alfred W. Fuller, Charles E. Riley, Welles E. Holmes, C. H. Douglass and Charles Hunt, and the active bearers were Messrs. William E. Jones, William F. Hollings, Alfred Pickernell and Irving U. Townsend.

The interment was at Mt. Auburn Cemetery, where Dr. MacLure conducted the committal service.

SURPRISE PARTY

Mrs. George S. Butters Remembered on Her Birthday

Mrs. George S. Butters was pleasantly surprised by the members of the parish who assembled Monday evening in the vestry of the Methodist church to remind her of her birthday anniversary. The affair, which was designated as a Sunday-school social, proved most enjoyable, music and games being furnished for the entertainment of the guests. An impromptu program was pleasingly rendered, consisting of vocal solos by Miss Florence King, violin solos by Miss Mildred King; contralto solos by Mrs. Arthur Filinn, and readings by Miss Marian Campbell. During the entertainment an original poem was read and Mrs. Butters was presented with a magnificent bouquet of pinkies by the Junior League. Refreshments were served under the direction of Mrs. Frank O. Barber. The ladies who poured, were Mrs. Dale E. Brown and Mrs. Fred W. King. Dr. and Mrs. Butters were showered with congratulations, and the latter was the recipient of several gifts in token of the esteem in which she is held by the parishioners. In behalf of the members of the parish, Mrs. Butters was presented with a generous purse, Mr. Barber making the presentation speech; a handsome travelling-bag; a seal hand-bag by members of the intermediate department, and a seal card-case by members of the primary department. Mrs. Dale E. Brown making the presentation. There was a large attendance and the affair proved most enjoyable.

COMMANDER GOW DEAD

Commander John L. Gow, U. S. N. retired, died last Saturday at his home in Quincy from an attack of heart disease.

Capt. Gow was born in Washington, Penn., May 12, 1857, and was appointed to the United States Naval Academy from Indiana. He graduated in June, 1878, as a cadet engineer, and passed through all the grades of the engineering service to that of chief. He was chief engineer of the repair ship Vulcan during the Spanish War. Capt. Gow served at various times as instructor of engineering at the Naval Academy, spending about nine years there in all.

In 1901 he was assigned to inspection duty at the Fore River Shipbuilding Co. While there he was ordered to the Philippines but his health at that time was such that he asked to be detached. In consequence of his physical condition he was retired from the service in 1908, subsequent to which he served on courtmartial duty at the Boston Navy Yard.

He was a member of the American Society of Naval Engineers. Capt. Gow is survived by a widow, Myra, the daughter of Mrs. A. K. Tolman of West Newton, and one daughter, Eleanor.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon in the historic Unitarian church at Quincy and were attended by many U. S. and Argentine Republic naval officers and citizens. The Marine band, a company of marines and a detachment of blue jackets came from the Charlestown navy yard for escort duty and full naval honors were given.

Rev. A. L. Hudson, pastor of the church, was in charge of the simple service and the body was taken to Forest Hills crematory with the naval escort to Presidents' bridge.

Garrison, Jr., '97, George W. Pratt, '02, and A. L. Harwood, Jr., '05.

PROMINENT IN ST. RY. ORGANIZATION

Mr. William F. Hammett Passes Away After Long Illness

Mr. William Frederick Hammett, for over twenty-five years a resident of this city, died at a late hour on Friday evening, March 1, at his home in the Croydon. For a year or two past his health had been failing, and he

with a tacitful tenderness of disposition and a keen sense of humor, making him a most delightful companion and winning him a wide circle of devoted friends. The funeral was held Tuesday af-

THE LATE WILLIAM F. HAMMETT

had been seriously ill for several months.

Mr. Hammett was born at New Bedford, August 3, 1848, and was a son of the late James and Lydia (Dexter) Hammett. He was educated in the schools of New Bedford and Comer's business college in Boston and became associated with his father and brother in the banking house of James Hammett & Sons, from which he retired in 1884. Subsequently he was identified with many important enterprises and was prominent for many years in the financial circles of Boston and Newton.

His most enduring work was done in the upbuilding of the street railway system of Newton and the neighboring towns, of which he was one of the originators and to which he devoted for many years his financial support and his untiring energy. His foresight has been abundantly justified in the success of these enterprises for which he worked so enthusiastically. With others he was instrumental in the laying out of Norumbega and Lexington Parks in connection with the street railway system. He was a director in the Newton, Commonwealth Avenue, Wellesley & Boston, Lexington & Boston and other street railway companies now embraced in the Boston Suburban Electric Companies, of which he continued to be an officer up to the time of his death. He had been a director of various banking and mining companies, resigning most of the positions as failing health compelled a cessation of activity.

Mr. Hammett was married in 1885 to Miss Emma Frances Hartshorne, daughter of Mr. Charles D. Hartshorne of Walpole, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. Hammett came soon after their marriage to Newton, living for many years on Sargent street until their recent removal to the Croydon, on Centre street. Mr. Hammett was a member and a generous supporter of Channing (Unitarian) Church. He was one of the founders and for a long time an officer of the Unitarian Club of Newton. He was a man of rare personal charm, in whom strength of character was blended ternon at the Bigelow memorial chapel in the Newton Cemetery. Every seat in the chapel was filled and there was a profusion of floral tributes. Mrs. Lafayette Goodbar, soloist at Channing Church, sang "While thee I seek, protecting Power," "One sweetly solemn thought," and "How sweet to feel, amid life's tribulations." Rev. Harry Lutz read from the scriptures and made a short address, paying a tender and appreciative tribute to Mr. Hammett's memory. He said in part:

"It is not alone because of this occasion when we are confronted by the stern fact that must come sooner or later to us all that we find our thoughts moving into the unseen to take hold of the great realities which our faith and hope unfold. There is more than the occasion of death and the sadness of farewell in this case to inspire our minds and hearts with the larger conception of human being and immortal hope. It is the reverent memory of a true and honorable life and a most lovable personality. It is such great souls the very thought of whom is an increase of faith. For such a one the twilight of his day has thickened into the deeper shadows of the night and we, his kindred, friends, neighbors, asseble to engage in the last sad rites and pay our hearts' tender tribute to his memory. We come hither as it were to a sacred shrine, for what remains of him here before us has been the temple for the indwelling of a beautiful, noble soul, the breath of the Eternal. In this presence it is to feel the atmosphere of his fine, inspiring personality, while the tender memories of his genial and ennobling influence through the mind and warm the heart to devotion as in hallowed sanctuary to the Most High.

How to Telephone An Emergency Call

We wish every telephone user in Greater Boston would read the suggestions regarding Emergency Telephone Service as contained on Page 9 of the Winter Issue of the Telephone Directory.

We believe we could increase materially our efficiency in handling such calls if in every instance we could have the cool-headed, intelligent co-operation of our patrons.

This simply means we desire them to say, when making an Emergency Call for the police,

"Police Department—Emergency"

or, when they want to make an Emergency Call for the Fire Department, to say:

"Fire Department—Emergency"

or, if there is emergency need of a doctor, to say:

"Call a Doctor—Emergency"

We make such calls without charge, as our contribution to a public service. We are especially desirous, therefore, that they shall be fully effective. The word "Emergency" acts as a signal that such a call is to be referred at once to a special operator—usually a supervisor or chief operator—and to have her exclusive attention.

The simplest way of assuring effective results is for telephone users to join with us in carrying out this plan. We therefore submit this explanatory outline and request their co-operation.

The delivery of this Winter Issue of the Directory has just been completed. If you have not received a copy, call Fort Hill 7600.

LAND COURT.

To Jennie A. Woods, John T. Prince,
Henry B. Patrick, Annie V. Patrick and Ellen E. Pratt of Newton, in the County of Middlesex and said Commonwealth; Alfred Stuart Pratt, Herbert Gale Pratt and Frederick Sanford Pratt of said Newton, Trustees under the will of Lucius G. Pratt and individually; Howard Carroll of Medford,
in said County of Middlesex; William Avery Carey of said Medford, Trustee
under the will of Charles T. Farrington, deceased; Florence H. King, Emma
L. Carroll, Ruth Carroll and Ellen Carroll of Boston, in the County of Suffolk, and said Commonwealth; Elsie Fay Jordan of Chicago, in the State of Illinois; and to all whom it may concern:

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court by Ella Winifred Pratt of said Newton, to register and confirm her title in the following described land:

A certain parcel of land with the buildings thereon, situate in said Newton, bounded and described as follows:
Beginning at a point on the westerly side of Highland Street in that part of Newton, called West Newton, at the northerly line of land now or formerly of Jennie A. Woods; thence running northerly by said Highland Street one hundred fifty seven and 1/2 feet; thence turning and running westerly, bounded northerly by land
now or formerly of Lucius G. Pratt two hundred twenty six and 90-100 feet; thence turning and running southerly, bounded westerly
by land of Henry B. Patrick and Annie V. Patrick seventy two and 90-100
feet; thence turning and running southerly, bounded northerly by said land of Henry B. Patrick and Annie V.
Patrick fifty feet; thence turning and
running southerly, bounded westerly
by land now or formerly of the deceased of Charles T. Farrington seventy two and 40-100 feet; thence turning and running easterly, bounded southerly by land now or formerly of Florence H. King and John T. Prince
one hundred twenty and 13-100 feet;
thence turning but still running easterly, bounded southerly by land now or formerly of Jennie A. Woods one hundred forty seven and 34-100 feet to the point of beginning.

The above described land is shown on a plan filed with said petition, and all boundary lines are claimed to be located on the ground as shown on said plan.

You are hereby cited to appear at the Land Court to be held at Boston,
in the County of Suffolk, on the twentieth day of March, A. D. 1912, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the pray-

UPLIFT HUMANITY

Recent Sermon by Rev. Harry Lutz at Channing Church

The following sermon given by Rev. Harry Lutz at Channing Church, Newton, on Sunday, February 25, is printed by request:

"None of us liveth to himself."
 "So then let us follow after things whereby we may build up one another."
 —Rom. 14:7, 20.

This great social fact and injunction was expressed in a motto of purpose by the National Conference of Charities and Correction: "UPLIFT HUMANITY." These words express the modern attitude toward the problem of life. The latter day thought is characterized by an interest in the general uplift of human society. Not by attention to the advancement of any certain individuals or classes, but the promotion of the general welfare,—the life of people together. It recognizes that

"Not one by doing right alone can mend the way.
 But must all do right together."

In times past religious teaching and emphasis has been upon individual salvation. Its injunction was: "Work out your own salvation." The world was treated with contempt, as an entanglement of evils; from which the individual could free himself only by getting into a supernatural attitude toward the unseen spiritual realm. It held his interest and attention to the beyond, to lay up treasures in heaven for his enjoyment; when he shall have escaped this sinful world.

This idea and attitude has characterized the past. Yet, notwithstanding this general contempt for human society, it has steadily advanced through the ages. There were good people in spite of their imputation to themselves of total depravity. The devotees of religion were the saviors of the world. Hence, while the teaching was "save thyself," the common life has been steadily uplifted. The general social advancement was not the aim, but it came as a result. For the endeavor after personal salvation issued in personal improvement. Though its prime concern was personal gain, the incidental result was an improvement of morals; and a general advancement of human society necessarily followed.

There is no finer tribute to the native goodness of humanity, than the fact of people growing steadily better through the ages in spite of their own theological imputation of inherited guilt and world iniquity. It was this general development of culture and morals led people to see at last: that the scheme of individual salvation from the world, to seek the heavenly bliss while leaving the rest of humanity to sink in iniquity, was wrong. The tendency of its interest is all toward oneself and his own welfare. It is essentially selfish.

This development came at last to the better world-thought which realized the great fact of human life, that is voiced by the poet:

"Heaven's gate is shut to him that comes alone."

We shall get to no heaven hereafter or anywhere, that we do not begin to create and enjoy now and here. We are social beings. We are not so constituted that any one can live his real life alone, or be saved alone. Each life is inseparably linked with others, and the only heaven he is capable of really enjoying is shared with them. The individual comes to full completeness of his personality only as he rises to rightful relations in the social life,—the life together. The highest well-being and happiness of each one is involved in the welfare and happiness of all. The rightful attitude toward God, the Father, begins in rightful and kindly relations of brothers and sisters in the human familyhood.

Therefore, the better second thought has abandoned the idea of escaping this life in order to gain a heaven hereafter, and turned attention to making this life a heaven of well-being; that can be shared by all, and enjoyed now. With this turn of attention it was plainly seen that there were everywhere unmistakable signs of such an intention inherent in the very nature of things; that it is the will and law of God traced everywhere in the universe of nature and being. It is deeply implied in human institutions, laws, moral precepts, religious teachings, theological beliefs, philosophical speculations, and the cumulated world wisdom in literature. All these are the outgrowth of man's experience in the divinely inspired effort to understand and express himself in relation to the life about him. Finely engraved upon the tablets of the human heart is the law of higher good. Deep within the soul are the throbs of noble impulse, pure emotion; and the motions of high aspiration, and longings after the true and the real.

"The motion of a hidden fire That trembles in the breast."

expressed or unuttered is the natural desire,—is life's one great prayer for its full realization.

From the vain search of a distant heaven to find God and the way of life, we have returned to find him within and his intention written in the nature of our daily and hourly life here together.

"Folded within our being,
 A wonder to us is taught Too deep for curious seeing,
 Or fathom of sounding thought."

The Highest hides in the lowliest;
 Our Father and we are one!
 Thus at last the world has come to look for the way of life in the life itself. Everything we are, have, do, say, and think, are social. The development of all our powers and faculties is social; and, in the life together, we find their use and exercise necessary for their further development. The social application of religion has thus naturally and rightly superseded the theological other-world one. Religion is obedience to the soul's native impulse toward the true and noble relations in the life together. It is in becoming brothers and sisters, we become children of God. It is being true to the lowest, makes us true to the Highest.

When the idea dawned upon thought that the world life come by ages of evolutionary process from lower orders through successive stages to the present, it was noticed that this progress came by the survival of the fit. When this was seen to be the law of the process, quite naturally the first conclusion was that therefore the fit ought to survive; and the unfit were neglected, and left to perish by their unfitness. But the deeper human feelings would not long tolerate this heartless theory. Neither would wisdom permit it. It was quickly seen: that the highest welfare of even the fit did not lie in this line of proceeding. So there dawned another idea; that the strong ought to help the weak; that, if the fit are to become fitter, the welfare of the unfit must be regarded, so that the world life be all together uplifted.

With that came a new conception of charity. It had long followed the Oriental precept: "Give to him that asketh." But the practice of it was more for the benefit of the giver than the receiver, because it was for the motive of reward. The result of such indiscriminate giving was the self-gratification of the giver and the pauperization of the receiver. With the wiser thought about this, it was observed: that those who asked were not always those who needed; that asking became an easy and profitable business. Giving to askers makes beggars. Feeding tramps at the door creates tramps. Then it was discovered that such indiscriminate giving "to him that asketh" with hope of heavenly reward, was vicious to both giver and receiver. It created selfish conceit in the givers and pauperism in the receivers.

Charity consists not in the gift, but the desire to help the less fortunate; and that involves seeing to it that it actually secures such help. Individuals cannot do this successfully each for himself. This necessitated collective attention to the distribution of charity. This led to a study of the whole subject, and organization of charitable efforts. Systematic investigation of need and administration of help by the specially qualified became the method. Associated Charities are simply the common sense applications of scientific management to society's obligation to the needy.

Then it was further observed: that the best administration of charity came short of the real object. To dispense the necessities of life to the unfortunate simply supported them in a state of need. Something was needed to change the conditions. Attention then turned to means of assistance and encouragement to self-help and self-efficiency. For, it was found where poverty and want were, there was some defect of ability or character, or something wrong in the surrounding conditions. Efforts were then directed to remedy these defects. Thus the word correction was added. Charity became the means, and correction of the wrong the real end to be sought.

Now the thought has begun to take hold of the general unfolding intelligence about this matter: that it involves still more,—the study and effort to so improve and develop the institutions, laws, manner of life, education, and ideal interests, as to make the better society; in which defects may be avoided, and thus do away with the need of either charity or correction. This new conception and more positive aim are now included in the more comprehensive modern interest and activity we call Social Service.

It is precisely in line with this conception and aim the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs through its Social Service Committee has set in motion the movement to centralize and systematize the civic, philanthropic, church and charitable work of our city. This proposed organization of effort is for the conservation of time, strength and money, and for greater efficiency in the community's social service. It is to avoid the needless waste and also the consequent demoralization, when independent activities repeat and overlap the work of each other; and also the painfully suffered neglect that may fall between.

Though the women's clubs are promoting this movement and establishing the organization, it is not their affair. It is the city's affair. They are using their opportunities and exceptional abilities to study the situation, centralize the social service activities, and set the system going. It is then expected that the city will take it over and make it permanent. It should receive the intelligent interest and hearty cooperation of all the people.

This is just a specimen of the splendid works of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. It includes some 800,000 women of our country, who are intelligently studying and dealing with the vital questions of industrial and social conditions. They go to the heart of the problem, which is found in the homes; and seek to bring about generally better conditions and more intelligent management. They demand pure food; that the housekeeper may conserve the life of her household. They emphasize moral training in the school as a necessary part of the training for citizenship. They work for home, city and state regulation of conditions surrounding the children in school, at work, and at play; with reference to a healthier, more intelligent and nobler manhood and womanhood in the rising generation. In these and many other ways they are greatly serving the life of our time.

The real significance of this splendid work is not to be interpreted as reflection of neglect upon the men, however that might be deserved; but as an inspiring answer to the opportunities which the women's comparative freedom from the business and industrial pressure permits. It is a splendid uprising to assume the share offered by a natural division of social labors for the uplift of humanity and making the better world to come.

The prime interest of our time is engaged with the Social Question; and its watchword is Social Service. There are many and diverse theories and programs for social reform and betterment. There are widely varied activities that are associated in the general movement for human uplift. Though the ideas are not clearly defined into any consensus of opinion as to the exact goal, there is a steadily massing unanimity of spirit and purpose. It is setting in motion the life-forces that are destined to make the next great advance of civilization.

Money, political influence, trusts, labor unions, and so on; are tremendous factors in the modern problem, and must be reckoned with. But the power of truth is greater than them all. One may make millions by wrongful methods, but it can be done only so long as the masses of people are ignorant of the real situation. A political machine may exercise far-reaching power, and bleed the people by corrupt uses of public office; but it is only so long as they are able to cover the truth, and conceal the facts from the people. So also the mighty powers of capital and labor trusts must yield their abuses, and bow in deference to the advance of Truth.

It is in Truth, not vague sentimental theories, the modern social movement is putting its trust. It is to bring truth to light the increasing numbers of men and women are studying the actual social life in all its phases, its conditions, its defects, and its possibilities. The results of that study and the wisdom of experience is being systematically organized for concerted moral pressure and activity. It acts as a wedge, driven by the invincible force of truth into the world-life; and today the mighty powers of wrongful oppression that have long held sway are yielding and giving way on either side.

Many instances will come to mind at the mention of it. We may inquire: What is the source of this seemingly new-found force, and what is the secret of its comparatively sudden release? It is not that the force is new; but that mankind have at last turned attention to where it lies,—in the human life. They have long been looking to the heavens for it, and letting the world-life be what it would. Now they are looking into the life at hand, to see what people are, what forces go to make them as they are, and act as they do; when they go wrong, what misleads them; what possibilities of good are in them lying dormant and may be awakened to activity; and what forces should be employed to uplift the life of all together.

The field of study is wide as the world, and includes every phase of personal and social life. It has given rise to a new science,—the science of human life together,—called by the general name of Sociology. It is the branch of learning first in importance today. All other sciences are yielding to it, and following in its train; for the reason that it is casting a light of truth that breaks upon the whole play of life.

Not only is this new light and the forces it has released being organized; but now there are schools where this wisdom is systematically taught, and trained workers prepared to effectively carry it into execution. This fact is far-reaching in its significance; and great things, we may confidently believe, must come of it.

Theology is the branch of learning that is slowest about yielding to the new social science. Religions are naturally conservative, looking to the past for revealed authority, consequently they usually get left behind the times. The very life-forces they themselves release, are caught up by other agencies and swept on in advance of the religious system; which follows later in their train. They have long looked to the heavens of the supernatural for light of truth and some cataclysmic demonstration of spiritual power to bring a millennium. They are now beginning to realize the vanity of such expectation, and reluctantly are yielding to the light that is rising about them to which they themselves have all the while been incidentally contributing.

Liberal Religion is not at this disadvantage. It turned away from the authority of the past, and refused to be bound by tradition. It abandoned the vain expectation of supernatural revelation of truth and good from the distant heavens. It looks to the actual present world, in the faith: that God is here and waiteth to be known; that truth and good are native in the real qualities of personal being, and are at command of the human will to be put forth. It seeks to know these forces and wisely direct them toward their ideal end. It is ready to revise its opinions in sight of new truth whatever name it bears. Its animating spirit is zeal for the good, its faith in humanity as the source of truth and good has been justified by the great social movement of our time. And lo! the light of truth has brightened far beyond the old time expectation.

"When thy heart enfolds a brother,
 God is there."

The way of progress is clearly defined upon the rising ground of human worth, and the glory of heaven opens with the better world before us: for intelligent minds, loving hearts, kindly hands, zealous wills, and godly spirits, to make.

The task is ours, as a people. We are co-workers with God in this creative movement. Each, however obscure his life, or comfortable his circumstances, has a part in it; which no one can take for him, and make clear his duty. However humble it may be, it is important that it be done; and done well. It is the sum of these makes the total reality of being in God. Love and service to man is love and service to God.

"If I have tried to lift the weight
 From some overburdened heart—
 Bowled down with care and sorrow—
 And helped to bear a part;
 If I have checked the scalding tears,
 And soothed and eased the pain,
 And brought the smile of gladness back,
 I have not lived in vain."

"Small service is true service while it lasts:
 Of friends, however humble, scorn not one;
 The daisy, by the shadow that it casts,
 Protects the lingering dew drop from the sun."

(Wordsworth)

Social Service is God service. It is religion lived. It begins with the lives that immediately touch our own; but it must keep ever in sight of the larger human relations, of which it is part and will affect. "Charity begins at home," is a true saying. But it speedily loses the name of charity, if it ends there.

The time has gone by when one can pass for good; who is simply innocent, has no bad habits, is not guilty of wrongs, commits no crimes, obeys only the command: Thou shalt not! He must be good for something. Goodness loses the name of goodness, if it does not issue in something of worth to human welfare. One cannot any more justify his being and sharing the blessings of human society, without doing something of worth to it.

"Small service is true service while it lasts"; but it ceases to be that, when before us lies the possibility of rendering the greater. Life's real business is to know, do, and become the best possible. That demands the perfected faculties, developed powers, ennobled spirit, and the good-will to put them fairly forth into the highest possible living and becoming; that, journeying upward in the way of becoming toward the heights generosity and nobility, others seeing will take heart and be inspired to hope; and with feet firm in the path of integrity the power of the Eternal is in the kindly extended helping hand to uplift humanity.

"Say not, 'It matters not to me;
 My brother's weal is his behoof!' For, in this wondrous human web,
 If your life's warp, his life is woof.
 Woven all together are the threads,
 And you and he are in one loom:
 For good or ill, for glad or sad,
 Your lives must share one common doom."

Then let the daily shuttle glide,
 Wound full with threads of kindly care,
 That life's increasing length may be
 Not only strongly wrought, but fair.
 So, from the stuff of each new day,
 The loving hand of Time shall make Garments of joy and peace for all;
 And human hearts shall cease to ache."

(M. J. Savage.)

—The Young People's League of the New Church Society met Sunday evening at the residence of Mr. William Cummings Richardson on Highland avenue. "Baptism" and "The Holy Supper" were the subjects, and Mr. Kenneth P. Kempton was chairman of the committee in charge.

—Mr. George G. Luscumb died Wednesday morning after a brief illness at his home in Beverly. He was a member of the Beverly G. A. R., Post 1, of the first volunteers in the Civil War, and one of the minute-men. He is survived by one son, Mr. Walter A. Luscumb of Beverly, and three daughters, Mrs. S. H. Baker and Mrs. Howard M. Patten of Malden, and Mrs. J. Augustus Remington of Newtonville.

—A large audience assembled at the Central Congregational Church Monday evening when Rev. Jay T. Stocking gave his first lecture on "From Boston Harbor to the Golden Gate." Mr. Stocking spoke graphically of America's wonderful, treating his subject with keen appreciation of its grandeur and poetry. The stereopticon views were shown with a vividness rivalling nature and were greeted with constant applause. The second lecture on "Mt. Shasta and the Canadian Rockies," will be given March 11.

A Life of Jesus Little Known

A lecture on the above topic will be given in the Church of the New Jerusalem, Highland Avenue, Newtonville (opposite the Newton Club) on Sunday Evening, March 10th, at eight o'clock. The speaker will be the Rev. William L. Worcester, President of the New Church Theological School, Cambridge, Mass. His object will be to show how the inner experiences of our Lord are reflected in the spiritual significance of Old Testament history.

This is the third of the Course of five Lenten Lectures by different speakers. The public is most cordially invited. All seats will be free, and there will be no collection.

—Mrs. Carl F. Schipper of Trowbridge avenue will have the sympathy of her friends in the death this week of her father, Mr. William H. Wood of Cambridge.

—Rev. John Goddard gave the second lecture in the Lenten course Sunday evening at the Church of the New Jerusalem on "Right and Wrong Unfoldings of the Unseen World," or "Swedenborgianism vs. Spiritism."

—The Voice of Patience (Milton) was the subject of Rev. Jay T. Stocking's address at the meeting held Wednesday evening in the Central Congregational Church when he resumed his addresses of "Some Messages from the Poets." The session which was well attended was both an interesting and instructive one, dealing with the life of the great English poet and the work he accomplished in his literary career.

The Boston Globe gives Forte of Newton the position of center on its all-scholastic hockey first team, and Wellman the place of goal on its second team.

On Friday, March 1st, Newton High basketball team defeated the Quincy High five by a score of 28 to 27 in the Newton Y. M. C. A. The Newton second five defeated the Quincy second five, 19 to 10.

Battery practice has begun in the Gym.

All the pupils of the Classical High met in the Assembly Hall on Wednesday morning and were addressed by Stone of the Senior Class who urged everyone to attend the debate to be held next Friday night. Mr. Adams also spoke emphasizing some of the school rules.

A meeting of the Junior Class of the Technical High School was called on Monday and the report of the committee on the Senior Class reception was read and accepted. The reception is to take place on April 26 from 2 to 6 in the gymnasium. Refreshments will be served in the Technical High.

The Sophomore, Junior and Senior Class boys assembled in the hall on Wednesday and were addressed by a representative of the Massachusetts Nautical Training School "Ranger." The talk was illustrated by lantern slides showing the cadets in various stages of work and play and proved to be extremely interesting.

A group picture was taken Wednesday of all the pupils in the Classical High.

There were about forty in attendance, and the costumes were very handsome and elaborate. The first prizes were awarded to Miss Esther Smith and Mr. Asa Hall; the second prizes, to Miss Ruth Stickney and Mr. Herbert Leonard. Music was furnished by Miss Nettie Fox. The matrons were Mrs. Fiske, Mrs. Conn, Mrs. Stowell and Mrs. Young.

—Master William M. Flye entertained a large number of young friends at a Leap Year birthday party on Thursday of last week, at his home on Auburndale avenue in celebration of his eight birthday.

The house was attractively decorated for the occasion, the color scheme being pink. The dining room was a bower of pink roses arranged in Japanese effect on the walls with festoons of pink and white ruffled paper from the chandeliers, and shading the lights. The favors were drawn from an arbor of pink roses artistically arranged in the center of the table. A dainty collation was served, after which the young people were entertained at games. Among the young people present were Charles Boultonhouse, Leonard Boultonhouse, Joseph Haddock and Laura Haddock of Dorchester; Elizabeth Williams and Harriet Williams of Malden; Barbara Abbott and Janice Abbott of Newton Highlands; Mildred Moore and Eleanor Moore of Waltham, and Allard Valentine, Philip Stowell, Carl Smith, Dorothy Paine, Irene Smith, Dorothy Smith, Reginald Cooper, Eloise Hill, Jack Grantham, Florence Sullivan and George Sullivan of Auburndale.

EDITORIAL

For President,
WILLIAM H. TAFT

The advocates for an appropriation for paid supervision over our playgrounds made out a splendid case
this week at City Hall, and, to tell the truth, so does every one else who has philanthropic designs on the municipal pocketbook. With a serious loss in our corporation tax within the past two years and with legislative plans to divert something like $75,000 more from our income from national bank and public service corporation taxes, the aldermen have a difficult problem to determine just how far
the city can afford to go in this direction.

The aldermen have acted wisely in confirming the appointment of Mr.
Lewis E. Coffin as chairman of the assessors.

It is most unusual to see our board of aldermen carried off its feet by sentimental reasons, and a majority of the board will have a serious second thought coming when they realize that as trustees of the people
they have voted money to pay a claim for which the city is not liable.

The Republican state committee has made two blunders, first in calling the state convention for election of delegates to the national convention without waiting for legislative action on the pending preferential presidential bill, which is certain to pass, and secondly by selecting two Newton men for the most important offices at that convention.

The calling of the state convention is the more serious blunder of the two, as there is a widespread feeling
all thru the state that the direct nomination principle, which has worked so well in the nomination of state offices should be extended to national offices. The Legislature will undoubtedly respond to the loud demand for the pending bill and the state committee will have to recall its action.
A very little common sense would have saved this unfortunate situation.

Few men were better known or more generally respected than the late Frederick Johnson, whose death is widely mourned today. Brief and blunt in speech and manner, his brusqueness covered a kindly heart,
and his hand and purse were always generous to the unfortunate. Loyal to his friends, and loyal to the community, he believed that he was a "citizen of no mean city" and carried that belief into every act of his daily life.

UNDER THE GILDED DOME

The long-awaited hearing on the Metropolitan Plan Commission was announced on Wednesday, but was postponed until next Wednesday at the request of the friends of the measure.
There was a large number of remonstrants present, many of whom entered strenuous objections to the Kiley bill to compel annexation to Boston and to bills for metropolitan fire and police consolidations.

Newton has also opposed the bills
to divert the taxes paid by public service corporations and the public franchise tax from the cities where the stockholders reside. These bills are of a similar nature to the present corporation tax law and to the proposed bank tax law. They will affect this city somewhere near $75,000
and are a serious menace to our city treasury.

Mr. E. B. Bishop spoke in favor of the West Roxbury-Watertown boulevard bill on Monday which will cost $500,000. Messrs. R. M. Saltonstall,

H. J. Kellaway and Hon. J. M. W.
Hall also spoke in favor. As I have frequently said before, there is absolutely no call for this bill and this expenditure. The taking of Hammond pond and woods would be most desirable from a park standpoint, but the boulevard proposition cannot boast of a single point in its favor.
The electrification of the railroads entering Boston was also heard this week, altho Newton's interest is lessened from the fact that the committee has reported adversely on Alderman Bemis' bill to include Newton within the Boston electrification district. Mr.
J. H. Hustis of this city spoke against the bill, saying it would cost the Albany road over six million dollars,
and an annual cost of half a million.
Representative White informs me that he is in favor of the smaller sum of $20,000 for band concerts in the Metropolitan district and was greatly surprised at his appointment on the conference committee on this question.

The committee on Roads and Bridges has reported against the bill of Mrs. Charles Edmond Guild of Newton Centre, relative to physical examination of drivers of motor vehicles. It is said that there is enough law on this subject at present.

All three of our representatives voted against the bill to raise the compulsory school attendance age
from 14 to 15 years, against the bill to require attendance of firemen at theatres and against the bill to determine the valuation of shares of stock of consolidated railroad and railway corporations. Messrs. Ellis and White voted to sustain the veto of the Governor of the bill to suppress the gypsy moth.

It is rumored that Governor Foss
is being pressed to appoint Dr. Hinchey of Waltham as Medical Examiner in place of Dr. George L. West whose term expires March 22. In case of Dr. Hinchey's appointment, Dr. Thomas M. Gallagher of Newton will be a candidate for associate examiner.

J. C. Brimblecom.

READ NEWSPAPERS

A brief talk on "What is Worth While in Newspapers" was given at last Sunday evening's meeting of the Junior Y. P. S. C. E. of the Newton Highlands Congregational Church by Mr. Oscar L. Stevens of The Christian Science Monitor. Mr. Theron
Walker conducted the meeting. Mr.
Stevens said in part:

Every time we pick up a newspaper
it says something to us that influences us. If we merely skim it through listlessly, without much thought of what we read, at least it tends to make us listless and slipshod in our methods of thinking. If we read it with any attention, it gives us ideas. It puts into our heads something that will serve, whether we like it or not, as a basis for our own thinking thereafter. It places us in touch with what other people are doing, thinking and saying, and in that sense it makes those people
our associates.

There is the point. Most of us who are trying to lead good lives, trying to do something worth while, are usually pretty careful whom we choose for associates. We do not wish the people with whom we are associated to have an improper influence over us. Are we always as careful about the people we let ourselves become acquainted with through the newspapers? That is a question well worth attention. It is worth our while to make sure that the people and things with which the newspapers tend to fill our thoughts shall be people and things worth thinking about.

The speaker maintained that the newspapers should satisfy our real interests rather than our idle curiosity, and that the way to do it is by testing the information they print by its usefulness to the readers. He explained how exaggerated and misleading headlines are fundamentally wasteful, and gave a number of hints
for time-saving reading of newspapers and ways of making information gained from newspapers more useful.

—At the monthly sociable of the Unitarian Church this evening the entertainment will be furnished by the Tech Glee Club.

—Miss Eleanor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Pratt of Highland street returned on Monday from a month's visit at Seattle, Wash.

—Dr. Duncan Wood of Natick and Ashland has purchased the Cate house on Highland street and will occupy some time this month.

—Dr. W. Reed of Regent street has returned from the Newton Hospital following an operation for appendicitis much improved.

—Shares in the 54th Series are now on sale in the West Newton Co-operative Bank. The bank has never paid less than 5 per cent interest.

—The large parcel of land corner of Sterling and Berkeley streets has been purchased by Mr. Winthrop Collin of Chestnut Hill, who buys for a residence.

—Congressman John W. Weeks will be one of the speakers at the dinner given President Taft on March 18 by the Bank Officers' Association in Symphony Hall.

—Mrs. John N. Eaton of Lenox street has returned from Littleton, N.
H., where she was the guest of Mr.
G. A. S. Wood, former residents of this place.

—Mr. and Mrs. Michael Fleck of New York city have announced the engagement of their daughter Anna to Mr. Arthur F. Luke, a well known former resident of this ward.

—Two organ concerts were given
this week at the Unitarian Church,
one on Sunday evening by Mr. Cutter and one on Monday evening by Mr.
Mitchell. Both were most enjoyable affairs.

—A minstrel show will be given in the Catholic Club hall on the evenings of April 17th, 18th and 19th. Rehearsals are being held under the direction of Mr. John J. Cadigan of South Boston.

—On Sunday evening there will be a special service at 7.30 in the Congregational Church. Rev. Brewer Eddy will preach. Singing led by the Vested Opportunity Choir. Everybody is welcome.

—Mr. A. F. Luke of Prince street, who recently returned from a month's cruise in Southern waters, and was detained in New York city owing to a slight illness, arrived home on Monday much improved.

—Mr. J. W. Crocker of 43 Prince street is making plans to close his West Newton home early this spring and going with his two daughters to Harvard to be with Mrs. Crocker.
Their son, Donald Gordon Crocker, who has been so dangerously ill, is slowly convalescing.

—The West Newton Music Club
gave a pleasing recital Monday evening at the home of Miss Elizabeth Fyfe on Perkins street. Those taking part were the Misses Fyfe, Haynes, Kimberley, Bellows, Scudder, West,
Charlotte Grosvenor, Ruth Green, Esther Green, Elizabeth Judkins, Mrs.
Clara L. Haggood, Mrs. Stratton, Mrs.
Albert J. Carter and Mr. Guleki.

THEATRES

BOSTON THEATRE—"As true
a picture as I have ever seen of the conditions in and about Richmond during those weary days along toward the close of the war," was the remark
of an old soldier who had attended the performance of "The Littlest Rebel" at the Boston Theatre in which Dustin and William Farnum are appearing. The emphatic approval indicated by that remark has been endorsed by the theatre-going public of Boston and surrounding country in their attitude toward Edward Peple's stirring war drama. The consistent and manly performance of the Far-num Brothers is able supplemented by the touching and marvelous performance of little Mary Miles Minter, who in the title role of "The Littlest Rebel" was called by a Boston Critic the most wonderful child actress on the American stage. Every detail of her work rings true, even to the nervous little twitch of her fingers as she holds her beloved doll "Susan Jimina" in her arms in some of the tragic moments of the piece.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE—No less than six all start features are promised for B. F. Keith's Theatre
next week. Walter C. Kelly, "The Virginia Judge," without question the greatest dialect story teller of his time, impersonates upon the stage the character of an old Southern magistrate, who is internationally

famous for his unique decisions and charges. The big spectacular feature will be the "Top O' The World Dancarn," with the celebrated Colbie Ballet, with eight pretty girls and eight beautiful dogs. The Candy Kid, the Friendly Polar Bear, and all the other wired characters encountered in Kris Kingle's domicile are introduced, with many novel dances and catchy musical numbers. A trio of newcomers are Weston, Fields and Carroll, three lively rathskeller entertainers; "Silvers" Oakley, the famous Barnum & Bailey circus clown, will introduce
his funny pantomimic baseball game;
Mae Melville and Robert Higgins, the country gal and the skinny chap, will appear in their new comedy; and others will be Fred Dupres, the monologist; Du Ball Brothers, the ecocentric dancers; and Belleclaire &
Hermann, the muscular marvels.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE—If you want to get a realistic picture of how the "badger game" is commonly worked don't fail to see "The Deep Purple," which enters upon the third week of its engagement at the Plymouth Theatre, Boston, on next Monday. The play is one of the greatest,
serious and realistic plays of its kind seen in Boston for a long time. In fact it is a classic in its class, which thrills you from the very rise of the curtain. It presents four acts of modern
New York city life that makes you feel as if you were in the midst of the entire proceedings, and exposes
in a vivid manner the methods adopted by New York thieves in their effort to work the "badger game" on a western mining engineer.

The Liebler Company, managers, have provided the play with a cast
of unusual excellence including Ada
Dwyer, Violet Heming, Rosina Henley, W. J. Ferguson, Sydney Booth, Will Beach, W. A. Norton, Robert Cain
and other well known favorites.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.—
William H. Crane as an actor-manager in a new comedy entitled "The Senator Keeps House" by Martha Morton comes to the Hollis Street Theatre March 11th for a two weeks'
engagement. In the present play,
Mr. Crane appears in the role of Christopher Larkin, a Senator from the Northwest, a widower, who keeps house in Washington with his nephew, who acts as his secretary. The statesman is the watchdog of the Committee on Claims, fighting pension increases and claims arising from war damages. In his home he is constantly losing his housekeepers,
as they fall in love with him. A society leader (Mrs. Wallace) helps him out of his troubles by getting him
new servants. As she is a schemer and wants to marry him herself, she sees that the incumbents always turn out unsatisfactory. The curtain rises with the latest housekeeper on the way with the servants in her train.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.—
Another of George M. Cohan's merry musical comedies is to be seen at the Castle Square next week. Its title is "Fifty Miles from Boston," and it promises to be a worthy successor to
"The Talk of New York" and "Forty Five Minutes from Broadway," both of which were cordially welcomed when Mr. Cohan produced them. Mr. Cohan has the knack of knowing what the public wants. He is a constructor of plays, a writer of dialogue and a composer of music, and in this latest piece of his to be seen at the Castle Square he has utilized all his versatile gifts to the utmost.

The company at the Castle Square
has been enlarged for this production, and will include a thoroughly competent chorus, with the orchestra
under the direction of Joseph Marr.
The little heroine will be played by Mary Young and George Hassell and Donald Meek will have important roles. "Fifty Miles from Boston" is on for a limited run at the Castle Square, and seats should be secured
at once.

The Newman Traveltalks at Jordan
Hall, Boston, for this season cover, for the most part, familiar European countries, but are unique in many respects.

While on tour last summer Mr.
Newman did not overlook the better-known places visited by the casual tourists, but he put forth special efforts to secure unusual views and motion pictures showing vividly life and places of interest of the best in the world. Next Tuesday evening and Wednesday afternoon the subject will be Scotland and Wales.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

The House Tournament is now about half over and a great deal of interest is being shown by the teams.
The high three string total for February was won by C. O. Tucker with a score of 321. The high single string was won by Wm. Cady with a score of 135.

In the House Tournament Mr. New-comb's team leads in division 1, closely pressed by Mr. Trowbridge's team.
In division 2, Mr. Anders' team has a long lead.

The attention of all the members is called to the Union Meeting at the Grace Episcopal Church on the evening of March 10th, at 7.30. This meeting will be addressed by Arthur Hugh,
late of China, who will tell about the industrial, educational and religious conditions in the new Empire. Mr.
Hugh is one of the International Securetaries of the Y. M. C. A. and is soon to take up his duties again in China.
No better presentation of the conditions in China will be heard than that of Mr. Hugh's. You and your friends are invited.

The Appleton Ladies' Quartet and Maud Huntington Benjamin, Reader, will be the attraction at the next entertainment given March 14th in the Association Auditorium.

Members of the Newton Amateur Dramatic Club are making arrangements for a second play to be given in April the title of which is "What Happened to Jones."

Two more meetings for boys. Pitt

New England's LARGEST and BRIGHTEST RESTAURANT

Invites You and Your Friends To Take Your Luncheon

Where You Will Be

Away from the Hum of the Busy Streets, and where you may sit in pleasure while you eat your noon-time lunch as well as enjoy the music which is rendered by Siglman's Orchestra. More and more every day critical Men and Women are showing their appreciation of the excellent cuisine which we offer, the reasonable prices which we ask; together with the unexcelled service that we give. Still we are not satisfied! We want MORE Men and Women to become patrons of our Restaurant; we want them to try our special luncheon dishes, and let us convince them that we can give them better foods than any other Restaurant in this city. Everything we serve is absolutely the best that can be bought as our Manager makes a special visit to the markets every morning in order to purchase and have everything that is pure and fresh. This alone insures you the highest quality foods, as nothing but pure, wholesome foods are allowed to be cooked in our kitchen. Our afternoon teas from 3 to 5 o'clock have made a tremendous hit. Express Elevator runs from the first floor to the fifth ahead, but Captain Eastus of the greens says "We will win yet."

Eighteen members of the Dramatic Club with Mr. Fay, coach, Mr. Brown, and the Boys' Work Secretary as guests held a banquet in the Dramatic Club room Monday, March 4.

Following the bountiful banquet a meeting was held in which the following officers for the new year were elected: Joseph Doherty, president;
Alfred Sweet, vice president; Fred Hawkins, secretary and Edward Gray, treasurer. Plans were discussed for a summer camp.

An entertaining speaker for Saturday night, Mr. Elliot Smith of Harvard University is an excellent speaker and the Y. M. C. A. is very fortunate in securing him for an evening.
He will tell in an amusing way his experience in the lumber region of Northern Michigan. Refreshments.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

Miss Grace M. Burr, Editor.

Last year when Mrs. Eva Perry Moore, president of the General Federation, visited Boston, the clubs of the city united to give her a reception that should be fitting her office. Mrs. Florence T. Perkins, president of the Roxbury Club and one of the vice-presidents of the State Federation, was chairman of the arrangements. The desirability of having some permanent organization of the representatives of these clubs readily suggested itself to those who served on that committee, so it was voted by them to consider the feasibility of forming a City Federation of Boston Clubs. The matter has been under consideration during the year and on Saturday, March 30, a meeting is called to complete such an organization. The Newton club women will wish them God-speed in their undertaking knowing from experience in the Newton Federation how valuable such an organization may be. The organization committee includes the following, all well known women in one line or another, Florence T. Perkins, Caroline S. Atherton, Maud Wood Park, Jennie B. Wadleigh, May Alden Ward.

The Worcester Woman's Club is interested in a Domestic Science and Pure Food Exposition which is to be held in that city from March 21st through the month. The president of the club, Mrs. F. A. Slocumb, has recently stated that the club had become associated in this Exposition because it offered them an opportunity to put into practical service some of the principles which underlie the work of all progressive clubs. To place before the public at large, object lessons in all those things that constitute the vital interests of the home in such a manner that they will appeal to thoughtful, intelligent women, and help arouse the careless and indifferent, is distinctly in line with the best club ideals.

To carry out this plan in the most comprehensive manner possible, the exhibits in this Exposition are to be divided into three groups. First, the selection of sites, building plans and laying out of grounds; second, interior equipment; third, pure foods and from this section will be excluded all articles of impure food or those bearing dishonest labels.

Home Economics Conference

On Monday, March 18, at 2 o'clock, the Home Economics Department of the Massachusetts State Federation will hold a conference at Winchester in the Unitarian Church by courtesy of the Fortnightly Club. The program promises to be of much interest and will be treated by experts, Mrs. Bertha June Richardson Lucas, author of "The Woman Who Sings," and Miss Helen Louise Johnson, formerly of Good Housekeeping Magazine and a speaker at the conference by the same department held at the Technical High School at Newtonville last year, being the principal speakers. It is expected that other home economics workers of national reputation will also be present to take part in the discussion. A special hour with the hostess club will follow. The clubs are urged to send delegates.

Newton Federation Meeting

The winter meeting of the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs will take place on Tuesday afternoon, March 12, at 2.30, at the New Church parlors, Newtonville. The program will consist of a lecture-recital by Mrs. J. Francis Brines of New York, subject, "The Folk Song," and it will be illustrated with examples of folk music of many nations. A tea and reception to guests from other clubs will follow the recital.

Local Announcements

The Social Science Club will hold a whist, bridge and auction bridge party at the Hunnewell Club, on Monday next at 2.30 P. M. The proceeds are for the Newton Federation Bureau of Activities.

At the second Guest Night of the Waban Woman's Club on Monday evening, March 11, Mrs. Emily Montague Bishop will give readings, entitled "Dramatic Scenes from the United States Senate," at Waban Hall at eight o'clock.

The C. L. S. C. of Newton Highlands will meet with Miss Abbott at 26 Crescent avenue, Newton Centre, on Monday, March 11, at 2.30.

Mrs. Ellen Moore will entertain the Newton Highlands Monday Club at the home of Mrs. S. Arthur Thompson, 58 Erie avenue, on March 11.

On Tuesday morning, March 12, the Parliamentary Law Club will meet with Mrs. W. D. Tripp of Boyd street. The club is planning a whist to be held on March 21st in the Masonic Building, Newtonville.

The Auburndale Review Club will entertain its friends at Lasell Seminary through the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Winslow on Tuesday, March 12, at 8 P. M. An original play, entitled "The Philanthropists," written by three of the members will be presented. On Wednesday evening the play will be repeated for the benefit of the Knights of King Arthur. Tickets may be secured from the club secretary.

At the meeting of the Social Science Club on Wednesday, Charles B. Gleason will speak on "The Boston Elevated Railway System." Guests may be invited.

On Wednesday afternoon Mrs. Oscar Nutter will entertain the Pierlan Club.

"Tallow Dips" will be the subject of the lecture to be given by Robert Parker Miles before the Newton Centre Woman's Club on Thursday morning, March 14th.

Local Happenings

At a recent meeting of the West Newton Women's Educational Club the Home Economics committee, Mrs. M. M. Chamberlain, chairman, was in charge of the program. Miss Helen Louise Johnson, formerly of Good Housekeeping, spoke on "What Home Economics is, means, and means to do." The talk was most interesting and instructive. Delightful music was rendered by Mrs. Anna Golden, violinist, accompanied by Miss Pearl Seller. Mrs. E. F. Robinson was in charge of the tea room, assisted by Mrs. Robert Chapman, Mrs. Samuel Pray, Mrs. McNear, Mrs. Ashenden, Mrs. St. Amant, Miss Sears, Mrs. Patterson, and Mrs. Early. The travel class of the club has been considering Iceland and Norway at recent meetings.

On March 4 the Monday Club met with Mrs. Bowen of Chester street. An excellent paper on the "Development of English Drama" was given by Mrs. Florence Goddard. After the recess, Mrs. Louise Thompson read one on "Elizabethan Drama." Mrs. Thompson substituting for Mrs. Marshall, who was prevented on account of illness from preparing it. Miss Edith M. Bartlett, who has a pleasing mezzo-soprano voice, entertained the members with songs. Refreshments were served by the hostess during the social hour.

In the course of their study of Browning the members of the Newton Highlands C. L. S. C., at the meeting last Monday listened to a paper of unusual interest by Mrs. W. T. Logan on the poet's dramatic romances, "The Flight of the Duchess," which she compared with "My Last Duchess." The speaker stated that there has been much discussion as to whether or not this poem is intended as an allegory, but Stopford Brooke's opinion is that it is not; it was written at a time when the interest in Mediaevalism was strong, and the tale itself has a flavor of the age of romance.

Following the strong gypsy interest in the poem, Miss Webster read an interesting paper on this nomadic race, describing their origin, habits, religion, etc.

The Newton Mothers' Club held a large and successful meeting on Monday afternoon when Thomas Curley of the Waltham and a member of the Massachusetts Civic League spoke upon the question of "Playgrounds." The recent tea and cake sale held by the club added $30 to the fund for the Bureau of Newton Activities.

"An Afternoon with Brahms" was the announcement for Tuesday's meeting of the Newtonville Woman's Guild. Mrs. D. E. Baker presented a sketch of the composer's life after which a selection from his works were rendered as follows:—two groups of piano selections by Miss Bertha Schoff, two groups by Miss Edith Soden, cellist, and a group of songs by Miss Love Hawkins, Mrs. Albert P. Carter being the accompanist. Tea was served at the close by the social committee, of which Mrs. W. P. Upham is chairman. The yellow decorations of the tea table were bright and cheery and suggestive of spring. The Guild is unusually fortunate in having among its members accomplished musicians, who are able each year to arrange a musical afternoon that is a real treat for its members.

The first hour of the Social Science Club meeting on Wednesday morning was given up to the monthly business and reports of committees. Upon recommendation of the Ways and Means committee the club voted the following appropriations for philanthropic work for the year: $275 for the Newton Hospital, $75 for the Hampton Scholarship, $25 for the Newton Federation social service work, $25 for the School Gardens, making a total of $495. During the latter part of the morning Miss Mary C. Wiggins, of the Massachusetts Consumers' League, told of the progress being made along the various lines in which her organization is working. She pointed out gains in conditions among the stitching factories and a greater tendency upon the part of the managers to accede to her requests to improve conditions. Among the tailors, too, she reported better conditions. Of the work in bakeries there is still much to be done to get many of them into the way of recognizing the need of cleanly habits not only in the places themselves, but also among the workers. Miss Wiggins referred to the Minimum Wage bill, which is before the legislature at the present session, and told of her attempts to secure better pay for women workers in many lines. She urged her hearers to be careful about buying from the bargain basements, for in so many cases articles found there have been made at the expense of those who worked on them. She concluded her talk with a description of a recent visit to Lawrence.

A report of the Conference of Presidents is postponed until next week.

MR. DANIEL JACKSON DEAD.

The funeral of Mr. Daniel Jackson was held at the old family homestead, Crafts street, Newtonville, on Sunday afternoon, March 3. Prayer was offered by Rev. Jay T. Stocking, pastor of the Central Church, Newtonville, and an address was made by Rev. Robert Van Kirk, of the Lincoln Baptist Church, West Newton. Musical selections were rendered by a male quartet from the choir of Mr. Van Kirk's church.

Mr. Jackson was born in the old house at Newtonville, March 25, 1834. His parents dying while he was a child, he spent his early years with an aunt in Portland, Me., where he was later a clerk in one of the principal dry goods stores of that city. About the year 1857 he moved to Lanesville, Mass., where he engaged in the men's furnishing business and was married to Miss Lucy Agnes Langsford. Of their three children two died in childhood, the second son, Daniel Dana Jackson, who survives his father, becoming a well known analytical chemist of Brooklyn, L. I.

After the death of his wife Mr. Jackson gave up his home and business in Lanesville and took up his residence at his birthplace, where for the past seventeen years he has lived a serene and beautiful life. He was a pleasing conversationalist, well versed in current topics and possessed of a store of humorous reminiscences. Kindly in manner and with a courtesy that bespoke his descent from a gentle ancestry, Mr. Jackson made friends wherever he went. He was proud of the fact that his grandfather fought in the Revolution, and he treasured the commission signed by Thomas Jefferson and "The Sword of Bunker Hill" which had come down to him from his ancestor.

Mr. Jackson was a charter member of the Lanesville Lodge of the Knights of Pythias and a member of the Congregational church in that place. He was buried in the family lot in Locust Grove cemetery, Lanesville.

NEWTON BOAT CLUB

Prizes were awarded Wednesday at the close of the Boston pin tournament. The team prize was won by C. C. Cooper's team with 29 wins and 3 games lost. The next team in standing was captained by H. A. Hansen with 17 won and 15 lost. C. C. Cooper was also the winner of the highest single string with 118, and Fred C. Green won the cup for the highest three-string total with 319.

PLAYGROUND HEARING

Aldermen Urged to Provide Paid Playground Supervision

Interesting features of the regular meeting of the aldermen Monday evening were the hearing on the matter of providing paid supervision for the public playgrounds, the confirmation of Mr. Lewis E. Coffin's appointment as chairman of the assessors, and a spirited debate on a small claim, adversely reported by the committee.

President Gray was in the chair and only Aldermen Heard and Williamson were absent. A hearing was granted on the matter on playground supervision and Mr. Frederic G. Melcher conducted the case for the Playground committee. Mr. Melcher spoke briefly calling attention to the fact that the city now had an investment in playgrounds larger than that in libraries and it should be given more attention than heretofore. Mrs. G. H. Wilkins spoke for the work at Nonantum giving some of the results obtained on playgrounds there and calling particular attention to the work among the girls. Mr. R. J. Sisk, principal of the Burr school at Auburndale spoke of the educational value of play, emphasizing the increased efficiency, the gaining of confidence and stimulus of success in the child, the lessons learned through association with others, the value of team play and the development of will power and a sense of fair play. In order to develop these qualities the children need a man in authority to give all a fair show. Mr. S. B. Paul, master of the Mason school at Newton Centre spoke most interestingly of the changes which had been made in the playground work at Newton Centre since he came to Newton four years ago. Then he said the playground was rarely used, now under supervision he had seen from 250 to 300 children there daily, a 20 fold use of the ground. In his school work he had noticed a remarkable decrease in bullying by the larger boys, and almost none among the boys trained on the playground. Trouble in the school room had been reduced to a minimum, and he recalled but one boy who was a trouble maker where in previous years they were numerous. There was also a wonderful change in the attitude of the boys towards one another. One important change he noticed was in the development of leaders. Four years ago there was no initiative in the boys, no one who took the lead. Now there were plenty of leaders, able to initiate and to carry out movements without the aid of adults. Mr. William Macpherson, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., said that the question of supervision nowadays was superficial. For himself he would rather have a well-equipped gymnasium without instruction, than a public playground. Mr. Macpherson gave some interesting experiences of his own. Mr. William C. Brewer, chairman of the Newton Centre Playground and Social Service League, gave the history of the Newton Centre movement, and the difficulties now encountered in carrying on the financial features of playground supervision. He strongly urged an appropriation of $5000 for the present year. There was a large attendance of representative men and women at the hearing, among them being Mr. and Mrs. Melcher, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Badger, Mr. and Mrs. Greenleaf Pearson, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon E. Sweet, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Anderson, Mrs. H. Kendall, Mrs. L. S. Drake, Mrs. Wilkins, and Messrs. W. H. Rice, A. P. Carter, John A. Gould, F. L. Richardson, S. T. Emery, O. M. Fisher, C. H. Johnson, Jr., R. M. Clark, and John and Robert Barry. At the conclusion of the hearing the matter was referred to committee on finance.

The mayor sent in the appointments of Dr. C. A. Boutelle as inspector of animals and of Walter B. Randlett as forest warden and they were laid over under the rules.

A hearing was assigned on April 1 on petitions of G. W. Bush to keep gasoline on Elmwood street, and of the Boston Elevated Railway Co. for alterations in tracks on Centre street. Other petitions received were from W. C. Bray that permission be granted the Fifth Newton Troop of Boy Scouts to shoot at targets near Walnut and Beacon streets, Bridget Ayles and Katie Kelly for Soldiers' Relief, Thomas Hickey and Thomas Bryson for damages caused by fall on the ice and Amato Pescosolido for a liquor transportation permit.

On recommendation of committees sewers were ordered in Mt. Vernon street, Beacon street, Newton Centre, Beacon street, Waban and Chestnut street, $16,502.34 granted for city expenses to March 15, leave to withdraw given on Edison Co. petitions for poles on St. James and Copley streets, hearings assigned on March 18 on widening of Beacon street at Waban, and on taking land for sewers in Braintree road and in private land at Hancock avenue, authorizing water mains in Sterling street, Kenmore road and Hull street, appropriating $2284 for water construction and $250 for sewer construction and leave to withdraw on claims of J. E. Bacon and Grace M. Allen. An order appropriating $23,234.74 for equipment and $9360 for construction at the Technical High School, reported by the Public Works Committee was referred to the Finance Committee.

The report leave to withdraw on claim of John Mulcahy, who was injured by falling on the ice while sanding streets for the city, was successfully opposed by Alderman Murphy, who took issue with the Claims Committee. Mr. Murphy said that Mr. Mulcahy had been a faithful employee for 37 years and that it had been the policy of the city to pay for part time in such cases. The report of the committee was defended by Alderman Cox and Calkins who stated that the official reports received indicated that Mr. Mulcahy was incapacitated for only four days and that he had stated to the committee that he only worked an average of three days a week during the winter season, and he had claimed three weeks pay on account of the injury. Alderman Calkins stated that the committee was advised that there was absolutely no liability on the part of the city in this case. The report was not accepted, Aldermen Barker, Bemis, Blakemore, Calkins, Cox, Gordon and Gray voting in favor and Aldermen Cabot, Chadbourne, Early, Hatch, Higgins, Jamieson, Jones, Miller, Moore, Murphy, Pratt and Sullivan voting in opposition. An order presented by Alderman Murphy granting Mr. Mulcahy $24 in settlement of his claim was then referred to the Finance Committee.

Some discussion followed the reading of an order assigning polling places for the presidential caucuses. City Clerk Grant said that the Republican caucuses had been called under the present law and that it would take some time for him to get things ready. There were some facetious references to the action of the Republican State Committee and the order was passed with Alderman Murphy voting alone in opposition.

The board adjourned at 9.45 P. M. The nomination of Lewis E. Coffin as chairman of the assessors was taken from the table and confirmed by a secret vote of 18 to 1.

"His business relations and his public life were such as to keep him in prominent position before the community. While he was of a quiet, unassuming disposition, yet his life and activities were much before the public eye. And it is to be said of him truly that he ever walked worthily, upright and true to the position in which his abilities and generous spirit placed him. And now that he is gone the wide circle of his acquaintance with one voice unite to pay tribute to his sterling worth as a man, a citizen, a neighbor, a friend and a companion. Though his was not the fullness of years, his was such fullness of life activities and spirit as to round out a completeness in which we may all rejoice. As the setting sun looks not sadly upon a day well spent but now ended, so in him we see one whose life's day was well occupied with noble deeds of generosity and high interests well sustained through a long battle with increasing infirmity and undaunted to the very end.

"Something attempted, something done,
Has earned a night's repose."

Photographs of children under 17 half price, Morris Burke Parkinson, 603 Boylston St., Copley Sq., Boston.

Waban

—Rev. J. C. Sharp will preach at St. John's Church, Jamaica Plain, Sunday evening.

—Mr. Lewis H. Bacon is the architect in charge of enlarging the library building at Newton.

—Newton Co-operative Bank 48th series shares opens in March. Last dividend at rate of 4% per cent.

—Mr. E. B. Squire of Washburn avenue, Auburndale, has bought the house, corner Chestnut and Wyman streets, now occupied by Mr. Bigelow. Mr. Squire will make repairs and move in about the middle of April.

—The Waban Woman's Club will hold its next meeting in Waban Hall, Monday evening at 8 o'clock. This will be the second guests' night and Mrs. Emily Montague Bishop will give readings entitled "Dramatic Scenes from the United States Senate."

—Mrs. Townsend of Virginia, well known to many Waban people, through annual visits to Mrs. Joseph Breck of Beacon street, died last Saturday at a Baltimore hospital. Mrs. Townsend was a generous and large hearted woman and during her visits to Waban showed interest in our local affairs in a practical way.

HIGH SCHOOL DEBATES

This evening some interesting debates will be held on the question: "Resolved, That it is impossible to establish any method of arbitration by which international war shall be abolished." The three schools represented, Newton, Brookline, Somerville, each have two debating teams, one defending the affirmative and the other the negative of the same question. Each negative team remains at home and the affirmative teams go to the other schools as follows: Newton to Somerville; Somerville to Brookline and Brookline to Newton.

Newton's affirmative team is composed of Bell, Lyons and Marsh and the negative team of Kepner, Ames and Leonard.

The debate in the High School Hall, Newtonville, will without doubt be the best debate of the three. Brookline beat Newton last year and she is going to send her strongest team here. This means that the Newton teams will have to work to win. However, the three members of the negative team have debated together before, winning the debate from Melrose, and the feeling is general that they are in every way equal to the Brookline speakers.

As one of the features of the evening the Brookline High School Mandolin Club will give several selections.

DRUGGISTS' LICENSES

Interesting Figures Relative to the Sale of "Medicinal" Liquor in Newton

The Men's League of Immanuel Baptist Church at their regular session last Sunday at noon entertained as their speaker, Alderman Grosvenor Calkins, who has devoted much time of late in studying the situation in Newton in regard to the sale of liquor by druggists. He presented most carefully facts and figures and suggested to his audience, who listened with great interest and marked attention, some of the reasons why the Board of Aldermen of the City of Newton should not grant licenses of the sixth class, sometimes called Druggists' Licenses, the coming year.

He said in part: "For many years Newton has granted the sixth class or druggists' licenses. Increasing attention has been given by recent boards of aldermen to the use which has been made of these licenses. For several years monthly reports have been made to the board by the police showing the receipts and sales of liquor made by each licensed druggist. Last year a liquor officer was appointed whose exclusive business it was to enforce the conditions of these licenses and secure evidence of violation of law. During the year one license has become void on conviction through evidence secured by this officer that the licensee made sales without requiring the purchaser to sign the usual certificate. Meanwhile liquor sales by druggists are increasing and it has become evident that the only effective way to prevent continued abuse of these licenses is by not renewing them.

This question will receive serious consideration by the Board of Aldermen in March and April of this year. The following are some of the reasons why druggists' licenses should not be granted:—

1. There is no way of controlling the abuse of the druggist license, once granted, except on evidence that sales are made without requiring the purchaser to sign a certificate. Any druggist holding this license can sell (except on Sunday) any quantity of liquor to anyone provided that the purchaser is required to sign the certificate. There is no prescribed limit to the amount or frequency of the sale. To prove an illegal sale it must be shown, to quote the Massachusetts Supreme Court, "not only that the liquor was really bought for an unauthorized purpose, but also that it was sold by the druggist with guilty knowledge or belief. Reasonable cause to know is not equivalent to belief or knowledge." Commonwealth vs. Gould, 158 Mass. 500.

2. An inspection of the monthly returns of liquor sales gives convincing evidence that there is grave abuse of the druggists' license in Newton. From Jan. 1 to Dec. 31, 1911:

Total reported sales were ..... 6409 gallons
Total reported receipts were ..... 5883 gallons

Excess sales over receipts .... 526
Average monthly reported sales 534
About five per cent of the sales are of alcohol.

The following are the total reported sales for October, 1911, indicating the relative quantities of various kinds of liquor sold during this month by all of the licensed Newton druggists. The figures are in gallons:

Alcohol	33 3-4
Ale	109 1-4
Beer	4 1-2
Wine	9
Brandy	5 3-4
Gin	37 3-4
Malt	4 3-4
Porter	21
Rum	63 3-4
Whiskey	348 1-4

Total ..... 637 1-4
During the period from January 1 to December 31, 1911 one of the twenty-three licensed druggists of Newton sold a total of 912 1-2 gallons, or an average of 77 gallons or

308 quarts a month. In October, 1911, this druggist's reported sales were 114 gallons, being 43 more than his reported receipts. The sales by many, if not by a majority of the druggists are reasonable; in fact, the marked variation in sales by stores located in the same village is another indication of the abuse of the license by some druggists. In one community where there are four drug stores the total reported sales in 1911 were as follows:

A	912 1-2 gallons
B	159 3-4 gallons
C	34 1-2 gallons
D	409 3-4 gallons

In this case druggist B's general business seemed to be at least as large as A's who sold nearly six times as much liquor. The increased sale of liquor on Saturdays, the larger consumption of ale, beer and malt liquors in the summer and of whiskey in the winter are other indications that liquor in large quantities is sold as a beverage by druggists licensed by the city to sell only for "chemical, mechanical and medicinal purposes."

3. By an overwhelming vote of 4042 to 1030 last December, Newton voted "No" to the question, "Shall licenses be granted for the sale of intoxicating liquors?" How can this vote be possibly construed to mean that the city government shall not grant licenses for the exclusive sale of intoxicating liquor in a saloon; or to a club or hotel as an incident or department of its business, but that licenses shall be granted to as many druggists as can hire a store in the city to sell unlimited quantities of liquor of any sort to any persons without the slightest restriction or condition except that the purchaser must sign a book to certify that the purchase was made for "chemical, mechanical or medicinal purposes."

4. The legitimate and necessary use of liquor for medicinal purposes is insignificant. During the year ending September 1st, 1911, the use of liquor by the Newton Hospital was as follows:

Sherry	24 gallons
Whiskey	12 gallons
Brandy	3 gallons
Champagne	6 quarts

5. If no sixth class licenses are granted, under Chapter 281 of the Laws of 1906 the druggists of no license cities and towns may continue to sell liquor on physician's prescription provided that both the physician and the druggist are licensed.

6. Newton appears to be in a decided minority among Massachusetts no license cities and towns in continuing to grant sixth class druggist licenses. During the year ending November 30, 1910, there were 262 no-license cities and towns in Massachusetts. Of these only forty-one or about fifteen per cent granted sixth class (druggists) licenses. Of the sixteen no-license cities, ten granted no sixth class license, viz: Beverly, Brockton, Everett, Lynn, Malden, Melrose, Newburyport, Quincy, Salem and Waltham. The six no-license cities which granted the sixth class license and the number of licenses granted were as follows:

Cambridge	63; Gloucester 15; Medford 14; Newton 25; Somerville 33; Woburn 6.

Can the Newton City Government with a four to one vote against granting licenses for the sale of intoxicating liquors continue to remain in this minority and to grant licenses to druggists, under which over fifteen times as much liquor is sold in a single month than is used in a year by the Newton Hospital, without any restriction other than the obviously formal and ineffective requirement as to the purchaser's certificate?"

LOSES DEBATE

High School Debaters Are Outclassed at Newton and Somerville

Three debates in the Interscholastic Triangular Debating League, which includes Newton, Brookline and Somerville High Schools, were held last Friday night and Somerville on the negative won from Newton at Somerville; Brookline on the negative won from Somerville at Brookline; and Brookline on the affirmative won from Newton at Newton, which gave Brookline the victory. The question of debate was, "Resolved—That it is impossible to establish any method by which international war shall be abolished." Music was furnished on each occasion by orchestras from the visiting schools.

The local debate held in the Assembly Hall of the Classical High School was attended by about 300 persons. The Newton team had the negative side of the question and although delivering many forcible arguments the visiting team always went them one better. The question under debate was a strong one which has been discussed before by teams who are more versed on this subject and the home team received many words of praise for their knowledge of international affairs. Rev. Jay T. Stocking, pastor of the Central Congregational Church, presided at the meeting. Following the debate dancing was held in the school drill hall. The decision of the judges was 2 to 1 in favor of Brookline.

The Newton speakers at the local debate were: Charles D. Kepner, Jr., '12; C. Burton Ames, '12; and William M. Leonard, Jr., '12, while the Brookline debaters were E. Thurston Clarke, '12; Eraseley C. Ferguson, '12, and Julian H. Stutz, '12. The rebuttals were delivered by Messrs. Clarke and Kepner. The judges were Principal Frank A. Scott of the Belmont High School, William E. Weeks of Everett and Principal L. R. Huisman of Melrose High School.

At Somerville the Somerville High School team upholding the negative side of the question were given the unanimous decision over the affirmative team from the Newton High School. Mayor Charles A. Burns, presided. The Newton team was represented by L. H. Bell, C. E. Lyons and J. R. Marsh with Bell delivering the rebuttal.

A series of these debates has been arranged by the principals of the schools comprised in the league and this was the first of the series. The winners will be awarded a brass shield which will be hung in the building.

LUCY JACKSON CHAPTER, D. A. R.

A most delightful evening was spent at the home of Mrs. Charles Gibson in West Newton, by the members and friends of the Lucy Jackson Chapter, D. A. R., on Monday, March 11th.

Mrs. Charles D. Meserve, the Regent, and Mrs. Gibson, Mrs. Craigne, Mrs. Corson, Mrs. Dalton, Mrs. Damon, Mrs. Gill, Mrs. Gould and Mrs. Gorton welcomed the guests. The entertainment opened with a group of songs given by Mrs. Fletcher, after which the Regent introduced Mrs. Anna Sturges Duryea, representative of the "World Peace Foundation," who gave an unusually fine talk on "Patriotism and Peace." Then followed the singing of "America," and the social hour, which is always most enjoyable.

PI ETA SHOW

The Pi Eta Society of Harvard will appear in Players' Hall, West Newton on April 9th. This show is always looked forward to by those in the city interested in this organization. The show is a musical comedy entitled "The Imposter," was written by J. Hannan, '12, and P. Halstead, '13. The music was composed by R. Blake and other members of the club.

Newton graduates of Harvard who were members of Pi Eta are booming this year's production and there will be an unprecedented demand for seats.

POP CONCERT

Third Entertainment Given Gethsemane Commandery

Gethsemane Commandery, No. 35, Knights Templar, arranged a series of three entertainments the early part of the winter. In the columns of this paper have appeared reports of the first two entertainments, but like all good things, the best is reserved for the last.

On Thursday evening, March 28th, at the Masonic headquarters at Newtonville, the Commandery is arranging to give a pop concert with whist and dancing. From the responses being received by the committee, not only will the attendance at this pop concert exceed that of the two previous entertainments this year, but will probably establish a new record for Masonic social events in this vicinity.

The program of music, to use the well-known phrase, "will be the best ever." During the entire evening refreshments will be served and last but not least, the committee has procured a large supply of French and German favors, so that each and every one who attends will receive one or more, with the result that all will have a taste of a New York New Year's Eve.

The committee that has in hand the assignment of rooms for the triennial in Denver in 1913, is very busily engaged in making assignments, and every member of the Commandery should make early reservations.

ST. PATRICK'S NIGHT AT NEWTON LOWER FALLS

On St. Patrick's night, Sunday evening, March 17, in the basement hall of St. John's Church, Newton Lower Falls, will be given a grand original operetta, entitled "A Gala Day in Erin." The operetta centers around the loss of an Irish Colleen and the action of the musical drama gives opportunity for many novel and interesting stage scenes, such as the Irish Gypsies in their songs and dances; the Irish Peasants in St. Patrick's day jigs, reels and hornpipes; the Leprechauns and Imps of the Irish Glens. Incidental to the above will be given grand choruses of Irish songs and gems of Irish melody. The operetta, in its present form, was compiled and arranged jointly by Professor Lanigan and Father Callanan. The whole entertainment is full of interest and enjoyment and yet is in keeping with the Sunday, as the whole trend of the operetta is elevating and thoroughly moral. The curtain will rise at 8 o'clock.

NARROW ESCAPE

Mrs. Anna Talmanteers, wife of Albert Talmanteers of 107 Hancock street, saved her two daughters, Rachel and Mary, aged 5 1-2 and 4 years respectively, from burning to death Wednesday evening when a lighted lamp was upset upon the bed in which the children were lying.

Mrs. Talmanteers was putting the youngsters to bed when one of them knocked over a screen, which struck the lamp and set the bed clothes on fire. The blazing oil spilled directly over little Rachel. The mother smothered the flames with a blanket. The child was not seriously burned, and the damage does not exceed $10.

POLICE NOTES

The Newton Police Baseball Association has voted to join the Massachusetts Baseball League Association. A meeting will be held at Chelsea for the purpose of arranging the schedule for the season. The teams are from Salem, Lynn, Chelsea, Somerville, Cambridge and Newton. Officer W. J. Kiley has been elected manager of the Newton team. A whist party and dance will be held Monday evening, April 29th in Temple Hall, the proceeds of which will be for the benefit of the Newton team.

TALKS ABOUT NEWTON

Remarks on Some Municipal Problems and the Free Library

Meetings have been arranged at the Unitarian Church of Newton Centre on successive Wednesday evenings beginning this week, at which addresses will be made on civic affairs by well known speakers.

This week ex-alderman Matt B. Jones spoke on "Some Municipal Problems" and Mr. Charles E. Kelley, a trustee of the Newton Free Library spoke on that subject.

Next Wednesday the public Schools of Newton will be the subject discussed by Principal I. O. Palmer of the Technical High School and Principal S. B. Paul of the Mason school.

On Wednesday, March 27, Mrs. Bertrand E. Taylor and Miss Mary M. Riddle will speak on Newton's Benevolences and on April 3, Mr. F. G. Melcher will talk on "The History of Newton" and Alderman A. W. Blakemore on "The Future of Newton."

Mr. Jones stated that the evening would hardly permit the discussion in detail of the problems now before the Newton city government for solution, and that as some of them are to be discussed by others in connection with the series of meetings now in progress he would content himself with outlining the form of our municipal government and referring briefly to some of its functions and methods of operation in handling the problems which come before it.

He referred to the city as a corporation exercising various functions of which each voter is a stockholder, and in which the aldermen may be likened to the directors of a business corporation, and the Mayor to the president or chief executive officer of such a corporation. He then sketched briefly the somewhat dissimilar and unrelated functions of the city government.

The legislative functions, which is exercised in the enactment of ordinances, the reason for which is found in the congregation of large numbers or people into a comparatively small area, and the consequent necessity of limiting the exercise of our personal liberties even upon our own property in such way as not to impair unreasonably the similar liberties of others. Examples of these ordinances are our building laws, sanitary regulations, regulations for the conduct of certain kinds of businesses, etc., etc.

The ministerial function directly delegated by statute and exercised by the Mayor and Board of Aldermen in the granting of permits to public service corporations for the occupation of the public streets, and in the enactment of such regulations relative to the use of streets by these corporations as shall best serve the public interests.

Education: which is primarily a business function, theoretically possible to be performed by private enterprises, but in a country which be-

DEATH OF MRS. BENTLEY

Mrs. Mary L. McKean Bentley, wife of Francis W. Bentley, for nearly a quarter of a century a resident of this city, died Friday of last week at the family residence, 190 Tremont street. She was a native of Deering, N. H., and a great-niece of Thomas McKean, a signer of the Declaration of Independence. Her husband, a daughter, Miss Ida A. Bentley, and a son, Leverett D. G. Bentley, survive her. Funeral services were held at the house Sunday afternoon at 2.30. Rev. Laurens MacLure, rector of Grace Church, officiating. There was a profusion of beautiful floral tributes, including a magnificent standing wreath from Mr. Leverett Bentley's associates on the Boston Globe. Interment was in the family lot in Woodlawn Cemetery.

UNITARIAN CLUB TO MEET

The Unitarian Club of Newton will meet at the West Newton Unitarian Church on Thursday evening, March 21. There will be an address at 8 P. M. on "The Peace Treaties and the Fisheries Arbitration," by Hon. Samuel J. Elder, of Winchester. Mr. Elder was one of the counsel for the United States in the Newfoundland Fisheries Arbitration at the Hague in 1910, one of the most important international controversies to which this country has ever been a party.

The entertainment committee was composed of Mr. George Albert Aston, Mr. Edgar A. Locke and Mr. Elmer B. Wilcox.
—The entertainment given under the auspices of Channing Alliance by Pe-shu-e-quest, the Indian girl, in the church parlors on Wednesday evening was most unusual and attractive. She herself is very fascinating in her manner and her English is exquisite and these lent a charm to all that she said and did. She told of the customs of her people, the Chippewas, and related many of the Indian legends and illustrated the songs upon her harp, which she says is the last instrument for reproducing the Indian music. The affair which she played were weird and full of mystery. During the second part she reproduced six of their dances, among them being the Sacrifice Dance, one seldom given now, having been forbidden by the government, the Drum Dance and the War dance. She stated before giving the last that women never wear feathers, they belong to men's attire and it is considered immodest for a woman to wear them, but in this dance was a man's costume. There was a good audience and all present expressed themselves as being much interested and ready to hear it again.

Conference of Presidents

The club house of the Brighthelm-stone Club of Brighton and Allston was filled to overflowing on Monday, March 4, for the Conference of Presidents of the State Federation. The meeting was called to order by Mrs. G. F. Salisbury, president of the hostess club. After a word of greeting in which she pointed out as among the things accomplished by her club, the row of trees lining the avenue through which the most of the visitors had come and the clubhouse in which they were meeting, she presented Mrs. Henry Coolidge Mulligan, the president of the Federation, who presided through the afternoon. After a complimentary word concerning the work of the hostess club, which combined work for themselves with work for their community, she turned to the business of the day.
Among the topics discussed in the course of the afternoon were different phases of civic questions, as playgrounds, district nursing and the expense of carrying it on, the teaching of sex hygiene, stamp savings, what the clubs are doing for libraries and reading rooms in making them more efficient, the curfew law and its enforcement, and the need of the right kind of probation officers.
The best sort of spirit was evident throughout the conference, a willingness to ask questions and a willingness to answer them whenever a club had had experience of value. It was in fact a most successful conference—one that was really a conference.
Mrs. Florence S. Slocumb, president of the Worcester Woman's Club, told of a course of lectures upon Sex Hygiene by Dr. Evangeline W. Young, which her club arranged last spring for working girls of the factories and shops of that city. Mrs. Slocumb considered that this work for purity had been the best thing which her club had done among the many things undertaken in the thirty-one years of their existence.
The South Framingham Club reported that $35,000 had been saved by the school children in the last ten years through the club's efforts in stamp savings. Many other interesting and valuable things were reported by the clubs, but space forbids mention of all. But the club that had done itself proud was the Nautilus Club of Provincetown, which reported a vast amount of civic betterment work accomplished by twelve women.
Before closing, Mrs. Mulligan stated that the amount for the Endowment Fund so far raised by Massachusetts had reached nearly $2000. She then made an eloquent plea for the fund and begged the women to raise it out of loyalty to Massachusetts, if not for love of the General Federation. With a vote of thanks to the Brighthelm-stone Club, adjournment was then made to the room below, where delicious refreshments were served by the hostess club and a social hour enjoyed.

The Newton Federation of Women's Clubs met on Tuesday afternoon, March 12, at the New Church parlors, Newtonville. Mrs. G. H. Wilkins, acting president, presided.
Mrs. John Francis Brines of New York gave an instructive and pleasing lecture-reading on "The Folk Song." She had a most attractive personality and illustrated her talk by singing in a charming way Indian, Negro, Arabic, Chinese, Australian, South American, French, Irish, Welsh, Scotch, German, Italian, Norwegian, Swiss and Tyrolean melodies. She brought out the point that in these folk-songs the people expressed their feelings through song rather than speech.
These songs have been handed down from one generation to another. They were not intended to show the skill of the singer—the people sang because they could not help it.
After the recital the members and their guests were given an opportunity to meet Mrs. Brines in the tea-room, which was appropriately decorated with spring flowers and was in charge of the Social Committee of the Federation, Mrs. L. B. Woodward, chairman. Arrangements for the meeting were in charge of Mrs. Frank E. Anderson of Newton Centre.

Robert Parker Miles was the speaker before the Newton Centre Woman's Club on Thursday morning and his subject, "Tallow Dips." There had been considerable speculation as to what he would treat of under this unusual topic. The lecture proved to be vivid reminiscences of bright and shining lights in public life. Among those mentioned were George Francis Train, William E. Gladstone, the mother of Newell Dwight Hillis of Brooklyn, Pope Leo XIII. Mr. Miles is a newspaper man of wide experience and his lecture was most entertaining.

—The Newton Federation of Women's Clubs met on Tuesday afternoon, March 12, at the New Church parlors, Newtonville. Mrs. G. H. Wilkins, acting president, presided.
Mrs. John Francis Brines of New York gave an instructive and pleasing lecture-reading on "The Folk Song." She had a most attractive personality and illustrated her talk by singing in a charming way Indian, Negro, Arabic, Chinese, Australian, South American, French, Irish, Welsh, Scotch, German, Italian, Norwegian, Swiss and Tyrolean melodies. She brought out the point that in these folk-songs the people expressed their feelings through song rather than speech.
These songs have been handed down from one generation to another. They were not intended to show the skill of the singer—the people sang because they could not help it.
After the recital the members and their guests were given an opportunity to meet Mrs. Brines in the tea-room, which was appropriately decorated with spring flowers and was in charge of the Social Committee of the Federation, Mrs. L. B. Woodward, chairman. Arrangements for the meeting were in charge of Mrs. Frank E. Anderson of Newton Centre.

Robert Parker Miles was the speaker before the Newton Centre Woman's Club on Thursday morning and his subject, "Tallow Dips." There had been considerable speculation as to what he would treat of under this unusual topic. The lecture proved to be vivid reminiscences of bright and shining lights in public life. Among those mentioned were George Francis Train, William E. Gladstone, the mother of Newell Dwight Hillis of Brooklyn, Pope Leo XIII. Mr. Miles is a newspaper man of wide experience and his lecture was most entertaining.

"The Philanthropist," an original play of genuine interest and real ability was given at Laseel Seminary on March 12 and 13 by the Auburndale Review Club. It was written by three members of the club, Mrs. Arthur C. Farley, Mrs. Theodore W. Gore, and Mrs. Guy M. Winslow. The witty rhymed prologue was spoken by Mrs. Farley. The Philanthropist, a young woman with aspirations to reform the universe, was charmingly presented by Miss Miriam Fuller. Mrs. Charles A. Brown was sweetly gracious as her aunt, and Mr. C. Lohr-Tower was fervent as her lover. Superintendent Robert J. Sisk made a capital old bachelor, and the acting of Miss Emily Farley as the wife and of Mrs. Joseph R. Draper as the maid of all work was something remarkable. The cast was completed by Miss Marion E. Knowlton, the pretty friend of the heroine, and Mr. John Gore, the comically troublesome client. Excellent violin and piano music was furnished by Mrs. Nelson Freeman and Miss Miriam Herron.

The play, in its quiet, even, well-sustained interest, its combined pathos and wit, and its thoroughly workman-like character, is well worthy a place on the professional stage. It was heartily enjoyed by two audiences of about three hundred each.

FORMER RESIDENT DEAD

John Wesley Lindsay, whose death at Clifton Springs, N. Y., is announced, had been a resident of that place for about three years, going there for care and treatment at a sanatorium, after suffering a shock. He was in his ninety-second year and long had been prominent in the Methodist Episcopal denomination.

Mr. Lindsay was born in Barre, Vt., on August 20, 1820, the son of Rev. John Lindsay, a minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and Lucy (Nourse) Lindsay. His mother was of a Lynn family. Mr. Lindsay was graduated from Wesleyan University in Middletown, Conn., in 1840, and later was professor and tutor in Latin and Hebrew at that place. In his general work through many years as an educator, he was at one time president of Genesee College at Lima, N. Y., and was professor at Boston University. He was elected to a professorship at Drew Theological Seminary when that institution first was opened, but this honor he declined to accept. He was the first dean of the Boston University College of Liberal Arts and acting dean of the university's School of All Sciences.

Dr. Lindsay was several times a delegate to the General Conference of his denomination and also to the Canada-Wesleyan Conference on several occasions. He was a trustee of Wesleyan and of Boston universities and had been a member of the board of education of the Methodist Episcopal Church from its organization up to his death. In his work as pastor he had filled various pulpits in New York City and in Boston, where he was at one time presiding elder.

Dr. Lindsay was married in Baltimore on June 16, 1852, to Miss Emily Bond of that city. His wife died in 1880. One of his sons, Thomas Bond Lindsay, who died two years ago, was professor of Latin in Boston University, and a surviving son is Professor William B. Lindsay, head of the department of chemistry at Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pa. Dr. Lindsay's only daughter, Miss Lucy Lindsay, died several years ago. He is survived by two grandchildren, Mrs. Charles W. Allen (Emily Lindsay) of Louisville, Ky., formerly of West Newton, and Lennox H. Lindsay, a Boston lawyer, residing in Concord.

EDITORIAL

For President,
WILLIAM H. TAFT
UNDER THE GILDED DOME

Several matters of interest have been settled for one year at least, during the past week. The House emphatically refused to abolish or even modify the death penalty for murder, and the paradox of Christian civilization of the 20th century clinging to the Mosaic law will still continue. The savage comments which have been made on the Phelps and Richey cases, in connection with this legislation simply show that our boasted civilization is but a thin skin for our primitive barbarism.

Newton is greatly interested in the signal defeat of the bank tax bill this week, the vote being nearly two to one against the bill. Great credit is due to Mr. Slocum and to our able representatives who worked early and late in our interests. It should also be noted that Alderman Calkins was one of the powerful forces against this pernicious legislation.

The hearing on the metropolitan plan bill has been held, the advocates taking all day Wednesday, in speaking on the wonderful possibilities of their scheme, and saying nothing on the details of the bill. Yesterday the opponents of the measure, who number some of the most influential citizens in the district, went at the matter in a calm, dispassionate manner, granting all the other side had to say on the merits of the plan, and then tearing the bill into pieces, so that even its sponsors did not recognize it. Alderman Blakemore was the only speaker from Newton. The inside story of this legislation would make interesting reading, it is sufficient to say now however that the two sides came almost to an agreement, the only difference being a "must" on the part of Mr. Filene and his friends, and a "may" on the other side. Mr. Filene wants the district coerced into this plan, while the other desire to make it voluntary.

The preferential presidential primary bill has been passed by both branches and will probably become a law within a few days.

NEWTON CLUB

Honors Its Old and New Presidents, Mr. J. L. Richards and Mr. C. E. Riley

The complimentary dinner given last evening at the Newton Club in honor of the retiring president, Mr. James L. Richards, and the new president, Mr. Charles E. Riley, was a most successful affair. The dinner was preceded by a reception, Mr. and Mrs. Richards, Mr. and Mrs. Riley, Mrs. S. L. Powers and Hon. Charles E. Hatfield being in the receiving line.

The guests were seated at round tables of varying size in the assembly hall, which were effectively decorated with red candelabra and red carnations. There was an absence of formality which made everyone feel at home, and the efforts of the entertainment committee, consisting of Mr. Henry J. Nichols, Mr. Fred E. Mann and Mr. Edwin C. Vose were highly appreciated. Delightful music was furnished during the dinner by the Boston Philharmonic Orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Handley. Some charming vocal numbers were rendered by Miss Clara Sexton, who made a great hit both by her music and by her personality, and by Mr. Howard White whose fine bass voice was heard with much pleasure.

Hon. Samuel L. Powers was the toastmaster and that statement is sufficient to indicate that the entertainment committee knew its business. Mr. Powers did not tell a story during the entire evening, a fact which should be noted, but his remarks did not lack his usual wit, and Mayor Hatfield aptly called him the "toastmaster" of the evening. Mr. Hatfield, who was called upon early, alluded to the great work done by the Newton Club for the unification of the city. Rev. Julian C. Jaynes also spoke briefly during the progress of the dinner. The after-dinner speakers were Hon. John A. Fenno, a former president; Mr. Frank L. Nagle, Mr. William J. Follett, Mr. Richards and Mr. Riley. Telegrams were read from various prominent persons, and congratulatory letters from Mr. J. Richard Carter and Congressman John W. Weeks. The evening closed with the singing of "America," and "Auld Lang Syne."

The front page of the menu bore a clever cartoon showing Mr. Richards passing a large gavel and a key to Mr. Riley, whose knees were bending under the weight.

Among those present were Hon. and Mrs. Samuel L. Powers, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. L. Richards, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. E. Riley, Hon. Chas. E. Hatfield, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Allen, Dr. and Mrs. E. E. Hopkins, Hon. and Mrs. John A. Fenno, Hon. and Mrs. S. W. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Nagle, Mr. W. A. Learned, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Brayton, Rev. J. C. Jaynes, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. The next number was a drama, entitled "The Marble Arch," with the following cast: Jack Merryweather, Eric Bent, Capt. Trentham, Norman Thompson; Marian Merryweather, Miss Theodora Roberts; Constance Cameron, Miss Rosamond Spalding. The drama was very well presented by the cast, and the large audience onored the participants several times. The third part was a street scene of boy musicians, and included clog dancing and songs. Those who participated were Robert Spalding, Roger Ellis, Norman Thompson, Ralph Murphy, William Powers.

Mr. Kelsey said in part:—
I have recently seen a definition of a library which seems to me covers the endeavors of our local library.

It is this: "A library provides good literature and the guidance of reader and student to a recognition and use of it." Our library, therefore, provides good literature and endeavors also to exclude worthless or unfit literature. Through the librarian and her able assistants, both at Newton and at the nine branch libraries, we are trying to guide young and old in the recognition of books that are worth while to read, guide them also in the use of reference books, of which we have an ample supply, both in the library and the nine branches.

All our librarians are experienced in the guiding of boys and girls in the schools to the proper use of reference books. Perhaps no city has so thorough a system of guiding the readers of a community in the proper use of the library books as Newton.

It is an increasingly important feature of our work, and there is a great satisfaction to our librarians in the appreciation they receive day by day for the assistance they give.

What does our library have?—Besides the 80,000 volumes in the Newton library it includes reference books for all uses, photographs of foreign countries and of the industries, lantern slides, stereopticon views, also music, instrumental and vocal in large quantities. At the nine branch libraries located in the nine different villages of Newton, we have also a reading room where are found the principal daily, weekly and monthly periodicals, reference books, standard works of poetry, etc.

The cost of the library work for all of Newton is practically $25,000. This makes the cost per capita of only 60 cents a year. There is perhaps no item in the tax levy of the city which is a better investment for the educational work of the city than this 60 cents per capita for the library.

The rapid growth of the library's circulation in Newton, growing from 158,000 circulation in 1905 to 271,000 in 1910, is due to the development of library facilities at the nine branches. For example: there are 7,000 volumes in the deposit collections at the nine branches. The total circulation for the year from these 7,000 volumes was 116,580, while through these same nine branches only 36,000 books were taken from the main library card holders; so that the 7,000 volumes divided into nine local branches circulated 116,580 copies against the circulation 36,000 volumes circulation of the 80,000 books at the Newton library. This shows conclusively that the need of the city of Newton is to have books at the branch libraries, and the thing is to develop branch libraries so that we can give the citizens of each locality far greater facilities even than at the present time.

The purpose of an addition to the library building at Newton is to provide a commodious, attractive and in every way suitable reading room and reference room for the citizens of Newton who live near the Newton library, and in addition to have a proper stack-room for the books,—a storehouse for the rapidly increasing collection of books, from which storehouse we can draw books for the use of the branches.

The need of Newton is peculiar in that we have the nine villages to supply. Access to the main library at Newton is exceedingly difficult from a large part of this territory, so that the call on the library is from the nine villages, and the responsibility of the trustees obviously is to supply this call in the development of constantly better equipment of the local library. The trend of our library development points to the need of a local library building in the different villages, small but ample for the village, with facilities for carrying a few thousand books, with the large storehouse available at the main library.

The interest in the development of the local branch library in Newton Centre has been increasing constantly for the last ten years, and it is the hope of many that this feeling will grow until the citizens will be aroused to provide a suitable local branch library.

Spring Millinery

This year we will make the most comprehensive showing that our Millinery Department has ever attempted. At this house we believe in evolution in all things and in nothing does this show more plainly than in this most rapidly increasing department. This season we will present more attractions in millinery, and we will give our customers more for their money, than ever before. Although we claim to give the best values in medium priced hats, we wish to emphasize the fact that we sell all the higher grades at prices relatively as low. We can sell you hats at $75.00 for which the exclusive millinery stores would ask you $100 or more. In hats at any given prices we believe we give more both in value and style than any other house. Examine our superb collection of hats and millinery requisites and see if you do not agree with us.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

MISS GRACE M. BURT, Editor.

The time inevitably comes in a busy club woman's life when some particular week "looms large" on the horizon. Every separate organization of which she is a member has some attractive event or every committee in which she is interested has its meeting within the space of two or three days. It is nothing for which she herself is responsible and she cannot escape her duty in any one of the matters. At such times her family very often cry out against her numerous activities and warn her of the dire consequences of her enthusiasm. But it is possible to get over these mountains by careful planning of one's time. One cannot carry all the details of every individual committee in her mind at one time. But by putting aside the others and applying one's self to the most pressing until that is out of the way and then taking up each in turn, that which loomed large will smooth itself out surprisingly easily and no serious consequences result. But the important thing is to let up a little after such a strain that tired brain and body may recuperate. An entire change of occupation is the best antidote yet devised for brain fog.

Federation Conferences

The Home Economics Department of the State Federation will hold a conference at Winchester by invitation of the Fortnightly Club on Monday afternoon, March 18, at 2 o'clock.

The program includes addresses by Mrs. Bertha June Richardson Lucas and Miss Helen Louise Johnson with discussion led by such women as Miss Anna Barrows, of Columbia, Miss Bertha M. Terrill of the University of Vermont, and Miss Caroline L. Hunt, formerly of the University of Wisconsin.

On Friday, March 22, the Conservation Department will hold a local conference at Springfield. Mrs. Emerson Crocker of the General Federation Conservation Department and Mrs. F. H. Tucker of the same department of the State Federation will address the meeting to be followed by discussion.

Local Announcements

On Monday morning, March 18, at 10:15 the Executive Board of the Newton Federation will hold its quarterly board meeting in connection with this meeting promptly at eleven o'clock the business will be set aside for a talk upon Social Service Work by Miss Abby L. Paige, Social Service Director of the Women's Educational and Industrial Union. All club women interested are cordially invited to be present to hear Miss Paige.

On Monday afternoon, March 18, the C. L. S. C. will meet with Mrs. Leonard Boyd of Allerton road.

Mrs. W. E. B. Ryder will entertain the Monday Club next week at her home on Lincoln street.

At the meeting of the Newtonville Woman's Guild on Tuesday afternoon, March 19th, Madeline Gaston Snowdon will give Ibsen's "A Doll's House."

The annual gentlemen's night of the West Newton Women's Educational Club will be held at the Newton Club, Newtonville, on Tuesday evening, March 19th.

"What the Government is doing for the Farmer" will be the subject of the paper presented at the Social Science Club meeting on Wednesday morning, March 20th.

The Parliamentary Law Club will hold a whist in the Masonic Building, Newtonville, on Thursday, March 21. A genuine patronage of members and friends is solicited.

The next meeting of the Home Circle will be held in G. A. R. Hall, Newtonville, on Thursday afternoon, March 21st. Important business and reports of nominating committee will be presented.

At the regular meeting of the West Newton Women's Educational Club on Friday, March 22, Miss Grace Chamberlain will give a dramatic reading of "The Piper," the program being in charge of Mrs. St. Amant, chairman of the Education department.

The annual musicale of the West Newton Women's Educational Club was one of the most delightful features of this club year. Mrs. H. D. McIntosh, chairman of the music committee, was in charge of the afternoon's entertainment. The contributing artists were Miss Marion Drake, soprano; Miss Kathleen Harper, reader; Mr. Albert Walker, baritone; Master Carl Beal, boy-soprano; and Miss Van Cleave's orchestra, consisting of Miss Sellen, pianist; Miss Lathard, Cellist; and Miss Van Cleave, violinist. Each contributed generously to the program which was thoroughly enjoyed by a large and enthusiastic audience. A social hour followed the entertainment. The tea room, prettily decorated in two tones of lavender, was in charge of Mrs. F. E. Nowers. Mrs. Fred B. Young and Mrs. George Hills poured and were assisted by Mrs. Robert Van Wart, Mrs. R. D. Lidstone, Mrs. George St. Amant, Mrs. G. D. Byfield, Mrs. Sidney Sargent, and Mrs. C. E. Conant. The travel class met at the home of Mrs. Van Wart on Monday, March 11. The chateau of Chambord was described by Mrs. Quinn; several papers were read describing Chaumont and Fontainebleau; Miss Lillian Ruddick then read Robert Louis Stevenson's beautiful essay on Fontainebleau.

Expecting to hear speeches from such men as Webster, Clay and Calhoun, members of the Waban Woman's Club and their guests were surprised and entertained, with anecdotes of later day Senators, by Mrs. Emily Montague Bishop in Dramatic Scenes from the United States Senate, on Monday evening, March 11, in Waban Hall. The masterful eloquence of Senator Bailey, the keen and ready wit of Senator Dooliver, the short and concise remarks of Senator Aldrich, the personal characteristic replies of other prominent Senators were truthfully portrayed by Mrs. Bishop's dramatic readings. She closed her remarks by quoting Senator Gore's impressive eulogy on the life of Senator Dooliver. Preceding the readings Mr. Muszy, a baritone soloist of Boston and Waban, rendered three solos which were heartily applauded.

The Newton Highlands C. L. S. C. met on Monday at the home of Miss Ruth E. Abbott, Crescent avenue, Newton Centre. Owing to the absence of Mrs. E. J. Hyde, who is in New York, her place was taken by Miss Webster. The subject was "Browning's Lyrics."

On March 11 the Monday Club of Newton Highlands met with Mrs. S. Arthur Thompson of Erie avenue. A lecture on "Modern Drama" by Mrs. Ellen Pratt, a former member of the club, was much enjoyed by the members. Piano selections were rendered by Mrs. Harold Shumway, after which there was a social half-hour over the tea cups.

The card party of the Social Science Club held at the Hunnewell Club on Monday afternoon was a great success socially and none the less so financially. Thirty-five tables were filled and each played whatever it chose, stopping when it wished. During the playing Miss Dewey and Miss Elms sold candy and salted nuts, which greatly increased the revenue. The affair was in charge of the social committee and the directors of the club and its success was largely due to the untiring efforts of these ladies. The Hunnewell Club kindly gave the use of the hall, which was much appreciated by the members.

The West Newton Women's Educational Club held a special meeting in Players' Hall this afternoon at 2:30. Mrs. Everett S. Jones gave a lecture upon "Raphael" illustrated with the stereopticon to which members and friends were cordially invited. A social hour followed the lecture.

The Pierian Club met with Mrs. O. E. Nutter on Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. C. F. Rogers, Jr., gave a very interesting paper upon "George Peabody, the Philanthropist." After a social hour the club adjourned to meet with Miss Mary Galbraith on March 27.

At the meeting of the Social Science Club on Wednesday morning, Charles B. Gleason gave a most interesting and enlightening talk upon "The Boston Elevated System." He said that the road carried 303,000,000 passengers last year and of the stations the Dudley Street handled the largest number. To take care of these requires an army of workers numbering 8,600. There are two difficulties, he said, which have to be met, first, the small margin of profit,—about one five hundredth of each nickel,—and second, the congestion of traffic in the heart of Boston during the hour between five and six at night. About a million and a half persons travel on the cars in the course of the day. There are six thoroughfares leading out of the city. The capacity of an outboard track is 200 cars per hour and if each car carries fifty persons, each thoroughfare would take care of 10,000 passengers per hour and the six lines would accommodate 60,000. The problem is that 150,000 desire to leave Boston during that one hour. This problem has led to the building of subways and elevated structures. The trains can carry about 40,000 passengers per hour in each direction, north and south, which has partially relieved the situation.

Mr. Gleason gave an outline of the development of street railways going back to the horse car period, lighted with kerosene lamps and heated with the load of straw upon the floor and showed how great the gain has been. To the genius of Henry M. Whitney is due the present development of the street railway system. He saw that a regulated monopoly could give much better service and cheaper rates. He realized that some new motive force was necessary. The cable system was defective for Boston on account of the crooked streets. His attention was called to a trolley car in Richmond. He visited Richmond, although he had been told that it would not serve Boston on account of the severity of our winters; but when he saw five heavily loaded cars being carried up a five per cent grade he decided that it would be feasible. And thereupon a system was installed to Allston, underground trolley in the city and overhead outside. The underground proved unsatisfactory and was replaced by the overhead. The double-decked car was tried, but found to load and unload too slowly for American conditions.

A brief outline of the legislation which has been passed leading up to the present Boston Elevated Company was then given. Its charter, he said, is unique in the world, in that it provides in case the dividends should exceed 6 per cent an equal amount must be paid to the public. The whole object of the corporation is not to make money. The efficiency department was explained and the system of examinations, which all applicants for positions on cars must pass, the sliding scale of wages, the pension system, the mutual benefit associations, and the bonuses. The description of the power houses, ten in number, were very interesting. For the removal of snow the company owns 232 snow plows or about one for every two miles of track. Just as soon as a storm begins these are set to work and are kept running continuously, so that the company has not recently been tied up by severe storms as it was in 1893. The plans for future development of elevated tracks and subways will when completed in 1914 represent an investment of $127,000,000. He touched upon the advantages and also the disadvantages of the semi-conversible cars and stated that the pre-payment cars are proving satisfactory. Since the profit upon one round-trip of a car has been estimated as two nickels, it is easy to see that these pre-payment cars are a help to the com-

Animated discussions of plans for spring work culminated the meeting of the Home Circle on March 7. It was voted to give a large evening whist in Norumbega Hall, Auburndale, on March 29, for the benefit of the Bureau of Newton Activities. A rummage sale will be held later for the benefit of the regular benevolent fund.

On Friday afternoon of last week the Monday Club and the Shakespeare Club united in holding a whist for the benefit of the Bureau of Newton Activities at Lincoln Hall. About 150 were present making a very enjoyable social occasion. Tea was served at the close. Mrs. C. T. Bartlett and Mrs. Seward Jones of the Monday Club and Miss Crombie and Mrs. Keeler of the Shakespeare Club poured. A substantial sum was netted.

NOTED MISSIONARY DEAD

Uncounted friends in two hemispheres will be grieved to learn of the death of Rev. Alonzo Bunker, D.D., at Groton, Mass., on Friday, March 8th.

Dr. Bunker was born in Atkinson, Maine, January 30th, 1837. He graduated from Colby College in the Class of 1862, and from the Newton Theological Institution in that of 1865. He was married in that year to Miss Louisa A. Bradbury, a daughter of Mr. Samuel Adams Bradbury, the editor of "The Boston Daily Bee," the first abolition paper published in Boston. Receiving appointment as a missionary of the American Baptist Missionary Union, he sailed, with Mrs. Bunker, for Burmah on December 5th, 1865, arriving seven months later at his station in Toungoo.

He founded in 1899 the station at Lolkaw.

Thirty-seven years were spent in active service on the field, relieved only by four furloughs; until in 1903, broken in health, he returned to this country, and has since then made his of the cause of Christ.

Dr. Bunker was a missionary of exceptional energy, and an intrepid pioneer. He spent himself unstintingly in the service of the Kingdom. He had throughout a sustaining sense of humor, sturdy optimism, and an unshakable confidence in the triumph of the cause of Christ.

Thousands of delighted readers are indebted to him as the author of "Soo Thar, a Tale of the Karens," and "Sketches from the Karen Hills."

A simple service was conducted at his late home, 216 Pleasant street, last Tuesday afternoon, by Rev. M. A. Levy, Pastor of the First Baptist Church, and Rev. Thomas S. Barbour, D. D., Foreign Secretary of the American Baptist Foreign Mission Society.

His body was laid at rest by the side of his fellow-missionaries in the lot of the Society in the Newton Cemetery.

Dr. Bunker is survived by Mrs. Bunker and four children; Professor John W. Bunker of Harvard University; Miss Mary Tark Bunker of Penfield, New York; Mrs. Sumner R. Vinton and Miss Ruth W. Bunker of Newton Centre. They, and thousands who have been helped and inspired by this noble life, arise to "call him blessed."

THE NEWTON HIGH SCHOOLS

The Newton High School baseball team for this year, until they take to the field for outdoor practice, are limbering up afternoons in the gym. The team this year will be made up almost entirely of veterans as nearly all of last year's nine is available and with several new men who are out for positions the team stands a good chance to again win the championship of the Preparatory League.

The Technical Freshmen assembled in the hall Wednesday morning where singing exercises were conducted by Mr. Hubbard.

A gymnastic meet has been arranged between the Newton Gymnastic team; Harvard University squad; Boston Y. M. C. A. Union team and the Waltham Gymnastic team. The meet will be held in the Newton High School Gymnasium on Saturday March 16.

On Friday afternoon, March 8, a meeting of the German Club was held at two o'clock and a meeting of the French Club at three.

This Friday the English Club will hold their regular meeting. The afternoon will be devoted to the poems of Eugene Field.

The orator for Class of 1912 at graduation will be Theron Walker of Newton Highlands, Historian, Miss Jessie McCarroll of Newton, Valet-dictorian, Miss Emily Clapp of West Newton.

The Girls' Athletic Meet will take place on Friday, the 22nd.

LODGES

Pequosette Lodge, A. F. & A. M., of Watertown are planning for a fine entertainment at their ladies' night on April 10. The principal feature of the evening will be a minstrel show by some of the talented members of the lodge.

W. C. T. U.

A meeting under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. will be held in the First Baptist Church in Newton Centre Sunday evening, March 17th, at 7.30 o'clock, at which Mrs. Stevenson will give an account of her automobile trip through Maine during the campaign for Prohibition.

LODGES

Betsy Ross Lodge of the N. E. O. P., 556, was organized by Mrs. Anna E. Powers in Eliot Hall on Monday. The lodge was instituted by Past Supreme Warden Frank A. Rice in the absence of Supreme Warden Sherwood. The officers were: Junior Past Warden, Alvin Fall; Warden, Anna E. Powers; Vice Warden, John Armstrong; Chaplain, Alice McNeil; Recording Secretary, Joseph Sangerlin; Financial Secretary, Wm. Coleman; Treasurer, Joseph Flynn; Guardian, Leo Blisson; Sentinel, Mame McNutt; Pianist, Sadie Gallagher; Trustee for 3 years, John McNeil; Trustee for 2 years, William McDonald; Trustee for 1 year, Louise M. Farley; Medical Examiner, Dr. Warren W. Marston.

A large delegation of Supreme and Grand Officers were present, among them being Supreme Deputy Frederick T. Peabody; Past Supreme Warden Frank A. Rice; Grand Warden C. A. L. Hubbard; Grand Vice Warden, George Penniman officers were installed by G. D. Mrs. C. A. L. Hubbard. The event was one big success, 80 candidates being obligated. Mrs. Powers presented the lodge with two beautiful flags, Betsy Ross Flag, and Old Glory of today. They were accepted in behalf of the members by Joseph Flynn.

Grand Vice Warden Geo. Penniman gave an address on Betsy Ross, and other speeches were made, and Mrs. Powers was the recipient of many flowers. She also was presented with a beautiful large loving cup by friends and members, as a mark of appreciation and gratitude for her successful work in organizing. Junior Past Warden Alvin A. Fall and Vice Warden John Armstrong also received loving cups. A collation was served and dancing enjoyed until 12 o'clock.

The N. E. O. P. has been organized for the last 25 years and this is the first lodge of the order in Newton Corner and there are several candidates waiting to enter as Charter Members. The Charter closes May 11, 1912.

Durno, the Incomparable Magician, and his competent artists will delight Newtonians, Thursday evening, March 21st, at the Newton Y. M. C. A. Auditorium. Only once before has a program approaching this in character and excellence been given in Newton and that was last season when Durno and Company appeared at the Hunnewell Club. Hundreds will avail themselves of this last opportunity of witnessing this most unusual exhibition of Modern Magic, mysterious manipulations and meritorious mirth.

ALDERMAN COX ASKS QUESTIONS

Lively and Important Meeting of the Board of Aldermen

The session of the aldermen last Monday night was interesting, whether viewed from the standpoint of what was actually done, or from the way in which it was done.

It began with a hearing at which two good citizens actually had the temerity to oppose the recommendations of the Metropolitan Water and Sewerage Board relative to sewers near the aqueduct. This is considered a case of "Beacon Hill," and the aldermen may well tremble in their boots. There were verbal fireworks over appropriations for supervision of playgrounds, for purchase of a motor cycle for the police department, for work on the Auburndale playground, and the sparks flew when the important Mulcahy claim, amounting to $12 was solemnly settled, after a weird parliamentary decision by President Gray. Finally, there was a legal mixup over calling the presidential primaries by wards or by precincts, and a gentle knock at the Finance Committee for failure to report on two matters now before it. Take it all in all, it was a most interesting session.

President Gray presided and all were present except Alderman Sullivan. No one appeared at hearings on widening of Beacon street, Waban, and on telephone poles on Bennington street, and the usual orders were subsequently adopted. At the hearing on taking land for sewer in Bracebridge road and in private land from Hancock avenue, Prof. W. Z. Ripley and Mr. A. C. Burnham appeared in opposition to the Bracebridge road end. These gentlemen stated that if this work was requested by the Metropolitan Water Board, they should pay for having done and not assess estates which did not need sewerage. The present sanitary arrangements on this street were working well and they did not require this sewer. It was suggested that if this sewer was a necessity, the city ought to accept Bracebridge road as a public street in return for the burden placed upon the abutters and because it was used by many teams and automobiles. It was also feared that the digging up of the roadbed for the sewer would make a far poorer surface than now existed. The Bracebridge road matter was later referred to a committee and the usual orders passed for taking land and for sewer construction at the other end of Hancock avenue.

Alderman Gordon was designated by the president to draw four jurors for the April session of court at Cambridge and John F. Griffin, Waban street, J. Dwight Howard, Fairmont avenue, Chester Guild, Park street, and Frank V. Cushman, Cross street were drawn.

Application of Louis S. Ross to make additions to his factory off Cabot street was granted. A hearing was assigned for April 1 on a strong petition of Carter and others to widen Margin and Chestnut streets, and on April 15 on petition of A. M. Boothby to keep gasoline on Crafts street. Petitions were also received for widening of St. James street, for widening of Dunster street under the betterment act, of Walker et al for concrete sidewalks under the betterment act on Beacon street, of J. W. Allen for damages caused by use of land on Walnut street during sewer construction, from the Telephone Company for attachments on Jackson road, and from William Undergast for damages for personal injuries.

On reports of committees, certain streets were ordered numbered, hearings assigned on April 1 for laying concrete sidewalks on Winona street and Ware road under the betterment act, transferring $144 to Auditing department for a temporary clerk, transferring $33 to City Clerk department for clerical assistance, granting soldiers' relief to Bridget A. Ayres, granting leave to withdraw to Katie Kelly for soldiers' relief, authorizing change in deed of Waban playground, authorizing establishment of a Playground Commission of five members, authorizing Boy Scouts to use land near Beacon and Walnut streets for rifle range, granting Anato Poscosolido a wagon license and refusing to grant a permit to transport liquor.

The appointment of Walter B. Randall as Forest Warden was confirmed on a voice vote, and that of Dr. G. Arthur Boutelle as Inspector of Animals, by 18 favorable ballots.

The order appropriating $27,650.84 for equipment at the Technical High School was recommended to the Public Works Committee.

On the order for $5500 for purchase of an auto combination for the Fire Department, Alderman Cox wanted to know why this item had been omitted last fall from the annual budget, and came up at this time. Alderman Miller explained that it was passed last fall in order to wait for the report of the National board of Fire Underwriters. The order was then adopted. Alderman Cox also questioned the order for $5000 for playground supervision, saying he did not believe in giving an outside commission all this money without having a string to it. He also asked if Newton could afford $5000 for this experiment when it was badly needed on our streets on sidewalks and for street lights. Some citizens he declared, believe public playgrounds are a nuisance, and he did not believe the time had come for this sort of thing. The order was explained by Alderman Chadbourne and Blakemore who said it was the intention to have a playground director appointed, for the whole city and five assistants who would each have charge of two playgrounds. The order was then passed unanimously.

When the order for $12 to settle claim of John Mulcahy was reached Alderman Cox wanted to know why the Finance Committee had cut the original figure from $24. He then moved to substitute $36. Alderman Murphy said he had asked for $24 in good faith as the city usually paid two-thirds of the wages lost by its employees and he did not believe Mulcahy had done a day's work since his injury. Alderman Blakemore defended Inspector Fletcher, on whose report the Claims Committee had granted leave to withdraw on this case. Alderman Barker asked that the petition be recommitted to the Claims Committee and this motion President Gray ruled out of order, altho Alderman Barker called attention to the rules governing the matter. Alderman Barker then appealed from this decision of the chair, and by a vote of 8 to 4 the extraordinary ruling of the chair was sustained. Alderman Cox then asked unanimous consent to make his amendment $24 instead of $36, but objection was made and the amendment was defeated 17 to 2 on what Alderman Cox facetiously called a strict party vote, he and Alderman Murphy voting alone in favor. The order for $12 was then adopted 15 to 5. Alderman Barker, Calkins, Gordon, Hear, Higgins voting nay.

Alderman Cox also opened the debate on an order to purchase a motor cycle for the police department, by asking who was the father of the order. Alderman Calkins asked how the traffic on Commonwealth avenue, where it was proposed to use this machine, could be controlled in the absence of specific speed regulations. Chief Mitchell stated that the presence of an officer on the avenue acted as a deterrent to the speed mania, and as the majority of automobilists used good judgment in running their machines, he only needed to control those who did not. He also desired to use it in patrolling Oak Hill and other sparsely settled districts. Alderman Cox said it was not yet time for this sort of thing. Personally he believed it best to use the old-fashioned trap. He thought a motor cycle on Commonwealth avenue would add to the danger. Alderman Murphy favored the order and it was adopted, 15 to 5. Alderman Barker, Calkins, Cox, Gordon and Higgins voting nay.

On the order granting $25,723.66 for city expenses, Alderman Cox queried the item of $1000 for the Auburndale playground, stating that such a place did not exist, as the board had only

RECEPTION

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Bascom Honored by Newton Y. M. C. A.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Bascom were the guests of honor Wednesday evening at a reception given at the Newton Y. M. C. A., of which Mr. Bascom has been the efficient general secretary for nine years.

Over four hundred representative gentlemen and ladies of the city were present to show their regard for Mr. and Mrs. Bascom and to enjoy the excellent program which had been prepared for the occasion. Mr. and Mrs. Bascom were assisted in receiving by President and Mrs. Allan C. Emery and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. E. Litchfield. One of the special incidents of the evening was the presentation of a

MR. H. W. BASCOM,
General Secretary, Y. M. C. A.

memorial to the late Hon. Gorham D. Gilman, a former president of the Association. The memorial which is a reproduction of the famous Sargent frieze of "The Prophets" at the Boston Public Library is about twenty feet long and three feet high and has been placed on the wall immediately opposite the entrance to the main hall. Mr. Edwin O. Childs, Jr., presented the memorial in behalf of the Gilman family, and it was accepted by President Emery. The program also included a volley ball game between the Old Timers and the Newcomers, won by the latter, interesting dumb-bell drill and apparatus work in the gymnasium, some fancy diving, exhibition of plunging and some N. H. S. class relay races in the swimming pool, the last won by the senior class. There was singing by the Boys' Department and selections by the Meteor Quartet, followed by a program of vocal and piano selections in the assembly hall by the Misses Cordelia A. and Mollie F. Litchfield. In addition the bowling alleys and recreation rooms were open for use throughout the evening. Refreshments were served by a committee of ladies in charge of Mrs. Carlton L. Ellison, and Mrs. Arthur Kendrick, Miss Olive Dunne, Mrs. F. W. Ganee and Mrs. D. F. Barber presided at the tables.

that evening passed an order to obtain control of the land in question. In reply to questions, Forest Commissioner Bucknam said that it would cost from $6000 to $10,000 to bring this land to grade, but $1000 would make a good start this year, and give Auburndale its share of the playground money. Alderman Cox wanted the board to note what Mr. Bucknam had said in regard to the ultimate cost of this work, and the order was then passed without opposition.

Orders calling for presidential primaries on April 30 and directing the City Clerk to give notice that these primaries would be held by wards were passed after a long recess discussion with the city solicitor, in which it was decided to hold the primaries by precincts.

And the board adjourned at 10.40 o'clock.

TWO ALARM FIRE

Heavy Damage to Missionary Home in Auburndale

A two-alarm fire from box 421 on Saturday evening gave the fire department its hardest task of the year. The fire was in the Walker Missionary Home on Hancock street, Auburndale, consisting of two large buildings joined together, each four stories high, and containing 40 rooms. It is used as a home for former missionaries, and for the children of missionaries who are at present in foreign fields. It is owned by the American Board of Foreign Missions.

The fire was caused by a boy who had been sent to the cellar for coal, and after lighting the gas, threw the lighted match in some excelsior. The fire had gained some headway when it was discovered and the alarm was rung in by Edward Aiken, Jr., who resided in the house. Chief Randlett rang a second alarm immediately on his arrival. There were thirty-two inmates in the building at the time, two of them being invalids. One of them, Miss Edith Bush, was carried out, but Miss Mary Hammond, for many years a missionary to Turkey, who had recently been operated upon, was in her room on the top floor and was unable to descend on account of the heavy smoke. Her cries from the window were heard and Officer Forristal and Driver George Saunders of Chemical 1 brought her to the ground by means of a double ladder.

The dense smoke made the work of the firemen difficult. Edward Herlthy of hose 8 was found unconscious in a room on the first floor, and it was some time before he recovered. Harry Briscoe, a call man attached to the hook and ladder truck at Newtonville, was cut on the hands by falling glass and was also overcome by smoke. It was his second experience of the kind within a fortnight.

When the fire was discovered the men in the house, aided by others in the neighborhood, attempted to save some of the furnishings, but though the flames had not reached the front of the house at that time they were driven out by the smoke and saved only a few small articles. The portions of the home that were not burned suffered heavily from water.

Rev. James L. Barton, secretary to the American Board of Foreign Missions, arrived shortly after the fire broke out and made the arrangements whereby the residents will be taken care of until the permanent quarters are put in shape.

The damage is estimated at $15,000.

POLICE NEWS

Lawrence Foster, alias James McCarthy and James Leach, aged 31, pleaded guilty of breaking and entering the house of William H. Wales in Newton on the night of July 11, 1911, and was given 8 to 10 years in state's prison by Judge John D. McLaughlin in the Superior Court.

Mr. William H. Mague, a well-known contractor, was acquitted last Saturday morning by Associate Judge Copeland on a charge of violating the eight-hour law.

Mr. Thomas Aiken, a clerk at White's drug store, Newton Upper Falls, was in court Wednesday, charged with violating the liquor law by selling without receiving the signature of the purchaser. Evidence was secured by the spotter method, a man asking for liquor and when Aiken handed him the book to sign he apparently scribbled his name, but when the book was later examined, it was found blank. Aiken was fined $50 which he paid.

In the police court yesterday morning, Abner Doble of Brookline and George A. Crittenden of Boston were each fined $10 by Associate Justice Bacon for overspeeding. The complaint was sworn out by patrolman W. H. Dolan, charging that the men, while racing along Commonwealth avenue last Sunday were going at excessive rate of speed. They paid the fine imposed by the court.

SACO-PETTEE SHOPS CLOSE

Over 700 Employees Demand an Increase of Three Cents an Hour

A conference was held this morning between a committee representing the striking employees of the Saco-Pettee Co. and Mr. Frank J. Hale, and the other officials of the company, but no decision has been reached.

The committee was composed of James Daly, chairman; George Bugdon, and representatives of the Poles and Armenians. There were sixty tempted to enter the mill Wednesday noon was stopped and his coat torn, before he convinced the men that he was not employed by the company. In anticipation of trouble, however, Chief of Police Mitchell had a sergeant and 21 officers on duty yesterday.

The snappers, who first struck, earn $1.35 a day and are employed in others appointed on sub-committees.

The strike began Tuesday noon, when about 150 Poles, Italians, Lithuanians and Armenians employed as snappers in the moulding room refused to return to work without an increase of pay of three cents an hour and walked out of the shop singing the "Marseillaise".

A meeting of the strikers was held in a Needham boat-house that evening and voted not to return without an increase of 2 1/2 per cent in pay. Wednesday morning the strikers induced all the other laborers in the shops to join the strike and the company officials closed down on that evening, and will not attempt to reopen until next Monday morning.

Wednesday afternoon, the strikers who number about 750 were organized by two I. W. W. leaders and committees appointed to interview Mr. Frank J. Hale, the manager of the company, who was out of town.

The strikers were not demonstrative, altho one man, a mason, who attempting off the rough casts as they come from the mould.

It is said that the matter of demanding an increase of wages has been under consideration by the men for some weeks, and it was understood that April first was to be the appointed time, but the foreign element in the shops forced the issue sooner than was contemplated.

One of the officials at the mill when questioned as to why the men should leave answered that "he could see no reason for their leaving." They have always been treated right by the company he concluded and we have always thought them on the best of terms.

Why We Grow

This bank is growing steadily, and we attribute our progress mainly to these reasons:

Sound and progressive business methods in the bank's management; the active participation and co-operation of well-known business men in the conduct of its affairs; prompt and courteous attention to the wants of customers and a desire to satisfy them.

We intend to keep right on growing by giving the same kind of service.

—Rev. F. C. Williams rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd, at Watertown, will deliver the sermon Sunday morning at the Church of the Messiah. A special program of music including selections from Dvorak's "The Stabat Mater" will be given at the evening service.

—A meeting of the Auburndale Brotherhood was held Wednesday evening in the chapel of the Congregational church. Dinner was served at 6.45 followed by an interesting address by Mr. Frank Palmer Speare, educational director of the Boston Y. M. C. A. on "The Man Who Arrives."

—Mr. George A. Robinson, aged 63, of 68 Bourne street, died at the Newton Hospital last Saturday morning following a short illness. He had been critically ill during the past ten days and was removed to the hospital a week ago. Mr. Robinson was in the employ of the Boston Elevated Railway Company as motorman for many years. The funeral service, attended by a large number of friends was held Monday and interment took place in the Mt. Hope Cemetery, Boston.

—At the evening service held last Sunday at the Congregational Church, Rev. E. E. Alken, in Chinese costume, gave an interesting and inspiring address upon "Life and Scenes in North China," illustrated with stereopticon views. He also gave illustrations of Chinese manners and customs. The sum of $80 was contributed for the relief of the Chinese sufferers. Another of these pleasant evening services which have become so popular, will be held next Sunday.

—There was a large attendance of members and their friends at the meeting of the Foreign Missionary Society, held Wednesday afternoon in the Congregational Church. Mrs. F. N. Polubet led the meeting and Mrs. Helen G. Rowland gave a detailed account of her special work in Japan and of its present outlook. A pleasing program of music was given, consisting of Japanese songs, including the Japanese National hymn. The meeting was both interesting and helpful and during the pleasant social hour that followed tea was served.

—The Woman's Auxiliary of St. John's Episcopal Church will hold an Easter Sale Saturday from 10 until 5.30 in the choir rooms. Mrs. F. B. Young will have charge of the food table; cake, preserves and pickles will be served.

Y. M. C. A.

The annual Gymnastic Exhibition will be held March 27 and 28, and promises to be the best ever conducted. All the classes are working faithfully and are expecting to put on some very interesting drills. Besides the regular class drills there will be very many interesting features.

—Mr. Ross Browning of the Boston Union has been secured to give a solo dance, and a group of hand balancers from same institution has been secured.

—There will be exhibitions of wrestling, boxing and fencing, athletic events and games, and an indoor baseball game between the Junior B and Junior A classes.

The last and best meeting for boys was held Sunday, March 17th, when reports of the Fall River Conference were given.

The meeting was conducted entirely by boys. Harold Eustis, leader of the meeting; Louis Van Buskirk, leader of the singing. The following boys gave reports: Fred Hawkins, Frank Hawkins, Leverett Woodworth, Hugh Boyd, Edwin Fairweather, Jesse Rogers and Frank Chivers. The Quartette sang two selections.

A Skating Team composed of Louis Forti, Arthur Teulon, Herbert White and Eben Ellison won a lively Relay Race from the Cambridge Y. M. C. A. at the Benefit Night at the Arena, March 19th.

A large number of entries have been secured for the Members' Game Social Saturday evening, March 23rd.

It is the aim of the Committee to make the evening as pleasant as possible for the contestants. Ribbons will be given for first and second places. Ice cream 5 cents.

Tuesday, April 9th, has been decided by the Committee, Jesse Rogers, Harold Eustis and Frank Chivers as the date for this event in the Boys' Department. A fine program has been arranged by the Committee.

PIE SOCIAL

The "Pie Social" given Tuesday in Odd Fellows Hall by the Sumner P. Lawrence Rebekah Lodge, was a most successful affair. Whist was played at 10 tables and prizes were taken by Mrs. Varney and Mr. Edward Seaton. The most amusing feature was the pie contest, the winners being Miss Ruth Cunningham, Mrs. Lillian Fogwill, Mrs. Merriam, Mrs. Coombs, Mr. W. U. Fogwill, Mr. Edward Seaton and Mr. Elmer Wilcox. The committee in charge, to which the success of the affair was largely due, was Mrs. Eva C. Fogwill, chairman; Mrs. May Berry, Mrs. Pearl E. Forbes, Mrs. Effie L. Daniels, Mrs. Laura Jordan and Mrs. Minnie R. Plaisted. Dancing was enjoyed until a late hour. Another social on a larger scale will be given next Tuesday.

—Mrs. John Brundrett, a former resident of this village, is the guest of Mrs. George Fisher of Chestnut street.

—Miss Catherine Sullivan of Elliot street entertained a number of her High School friends on Monday evening at her home, in honor of her 18th birthday. Music and games were enjoyed, after which refreshments were served by the hostess. Miss Sullivan was the recipient of many birthday gifts.

—On Wednesday evening in the vestry of the Methodist Church, Rev. John W. Galbraith gave a very interesting lecture on Pen Pictures of England and Scotland to a large and appreciative audience. Historic buildings, such as Westminster Abbey, Hampton Court in England and numerous castles of Scotland which Dr. Galbraith had visited were shown by radiophon views as he described his impressions of them.

—Mr. Daniel Daley passed away Sunday morning at his home, 373 Elliot street, after a short illness. He was 75 years of age and was born in County Cork, Ireland, but has resided in this village for the last 25 years.

Mr. Daley was a quiet, unassuming man, not entering much in the social life of the community, but was an ardent church worker and will be greatly missed by his many friends.

He is survived by 4 daughters. Funeral services were held Wednesday morning from the Church of Mary Immaculate of Lourdes, Rev. Fr. D. H. Donovan celebrating requiem high mass. Burial was at St. Mary's Cemetery, Needham.

CHURCH HEAD TO LECTURE IN NEWTONVILLE

An event of unusual importance in the religious circles of Newton will take place next Sunday evening, when Rev. Julian K. Smyth of New York will lecture in the Church of the New Jerusalem, Highland avenue, Newton-

REV. JULIAN K. SMYTH,
Who Lectures at the New Church

tonville. The Rev. Mr. Smyth is the official head of the Church of the New Jerusalem (commonly called the Swedenborgian Church) in America, and is generally recognized, both in this country and in England, as the church's greatest preacher and lecturer. His subject next Sunday will be the most vital question of Christianity, "Can we Believe the Deity of Jesus Christ?" The committee of the Newtonville church extends a most cordial invitation to the public, stating that all seats will be free, and that there will be no collection. The lecture begins at eight o'clock.

KNIGHTS OF KING ARTHUR MEET

An intercity athletic meet between the Knights of King Arthur of Wellesley, Watertown, West Somerville and Auburndale was held Saturday afternoon at the Newton Y. M. C. A., five castles being represented. Castle Maugus of Wellesley was the winner, with 31 points and Castle Perilous of Watertown was second with 30 points, and Puritan third with 21.

Clark of Puritan was the highest point winner with 15, capturing first in the 20-yard dash, potato race and running broad jump.

The teams participating were Maugus of Wellesley, Kenilworth of Watertown, Puritan of West Somerville, Sterling of Auburndale and Perilous of Watertown. The summary:

THEATRES

BOSTON THEATRE.—In the opinion of Dustin Farnum, handsome and heroic portrayal of the Northern officer in "The Littlest Rebel" at the Boston Theatre, this stirring war drama from the pen of Edward Peple is destined to figure prominently in the negotiations for universal peace which are engrossing the attention of nations at this time. He says: "The story of 'The Littlest Rebel' so strongly brings out the big human phase of conditions which exist during the time of war, the heartaches of those who remain at home waiting for news from the ones in battle and the anguish of the men who give their lives for their country with no hope of ever seeing their wives and children again, this play will eventually be held up as a potent argument in favor of the abolition of war. I understand that several writers who are dipping their pens in the cause of universal peace are calling the attention of their reading public to 'The Littlest Rebel'."

PLYMOUTH THEATRE.—Commencing next Monday night Miss Gertrude Elliott, under the management of the Leblanc Company, will begin a two week's engagement at the Plymouth Theatre, Boston, in Sir Arthur Wing Pinero's latest comedy "Preserving Mr. Pannure." The mere announcement of a new comedy by the greatest of living English playwrights, is in itself an invitation to the real theatrical treat. Moreover if anything can further enhance the widespread interest certain to be aroused by such an announcement it is the fact that an actress of the charm of Gertrude Elliott will interpret its leading personality.

For the real lovers of Dramatic Art, the Plymouth Theatre management announces that on Monday afternoon at 1.30 sharp, Miss A. E. F. Horlman and her Manchester Repertory Company from the Galety Theatre, Manchester, England, will present "The Tragedy of Nan," a play in three acts by John Masefield. This will be the first and only appearance of this remarkable organization as they sail for England from Boston on Tuesday, March 26th.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.—Eva Tanguay, "The Madcap Genius of Mirth and Song," comes to B. F. Keith's Theatre on Monday for a limited engagement of one week only. She brings many new and novel features to Boston, and her costumes will surpass in beauty and costliness anything ever seen here. One of her big numbers is the "Money" song, in which Miss Tanguay wears a coat of mail, composed entirely of bright new Lincoln pennies. This costume weighs over forty pounds, and during the chorus Miss Tanguay throws away handfuls of money as souvenirs for the audience to carry home with them. Another is her famous coral and satin dress, valued at $3,500, and her coat of pearls, each pearl being of pure mother of pearl and as large as a cherry. At each performance Miss Tanguay will wear nearly thirty thousand dollars worth of clothes. Miss Tanguay will be surrounded by a splendid bill, among the big features being Bedini and Arthur, the famous comedy jugglers; LeRoy and Harvey, in a Western comedy entitled "Rained In"; Gordon and Marx, the German comedians; Clark and Bergman, the baseball fiends; Zeno, Jordan and Zeno, the aerial wonders; The Barrens, European musical artists; the Zoyarras, novelty equilibrist, and others.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.—For the first time on any stage, John Craig will produce next Monday at the Castle Square Theatre, a new play entitled "Blindfolded." It has received the enthusiastic approval of competent judges who have read the manuscript, and it promises to make a sensation. Its scenes are laid in a large American city of the present day; its characters are every-day, interesting people, and the incidents are both dramatic and romantic. It is a lively comedy filled with exceptional and original humor. The cast will include John Craig as Robert Dunham, and Mary Young as Millicent Wentworth, with George Hassel an amusing butler; Donald Meek, Walter Walker, Leslie Palmer, Mabel Colcord, Mabel Montgomery and Maude Richmond in the other important roles. "Blindfolded" will be given for only one week, and it will be followed during the week of April 1st with Mark Twain's "The Prince and the Pauper," with Henrietta McDannel in the dual title roles.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.

"The Indiscretion of Truth," which will be the attraction at the Hollis Street Theatre for two weeks beginning Monday, March 25, will offer an old favorite in an entirely different kind of role than he has ever played before. Robert Edeson will be seen in the role of Bruce Darrell, a college athlete whose natural nobility of character is perverted. It is said that Mr. Edeson, tiring of always being a hero on the stage, welcomed the chance to interpret this role when he learned that Darrell has his big moments which are pregnant with an irresistible appeal to the emotions. Opposite Mr. Edeson as Bruce Darrell, in a role which saves of the course, is a kindly forbearance is Frank Kemble Cooper as Sir George Stirling. This eminent English actor was brought over from the other side expressly to play this part. The same high order of excellence obtains throughout the entire company which Samuel Wallach has brought together to support these distinguished actors. Included in the cast are Anne Meredith, Beverly Sitgreaves, Mrs. Thomas Whitten, Katherine Emmet, Kate Wingfield, Irene Moore, Dan Collier, Henry Mortimer, Richard Purdon, and Edwin Holland.

PARK THEATRE.—The theatre-goers of New England are indeed fortunate in having presented to them Edgar Selwyn's great comedy success, "The Country Boy," now playing at the Park Theatre, Boston, to crowded houses nightly, and the Boston critics are unanimous in their approval of it. Its success is doubtless due to its realism, as it is a picture faithfully drawn by a man who knows his subject. Broadway, The Gay White Way, is presented as it really is, not as it is imagined. To those acquainted and those unacquainted with New York life, "The Country Boy" should furnish an appeal of the most vital kind; it presents all of the distinctive types of Broadway habitues and the Bohemian atmosphere, the journalist, the theatre ticket speculator, the man-about-town, the traveling salesman, the prima donna, the typical city girl, the boarding-house keeper, and in pleasing contrast, the country gentlemen, the country girl and the charming specimen of motherhood which the country boy's mother presents. It is the kind of a play the business man enjoys, full of the keenest humor and with a well-sustained interest.

TELEPHONE RATES

People who are interested in the question of the Boston telephone rates will find answers to many of their inquiries in a brief document recently published as Senate No. 338. This states the following facts amongst others of interest to the telephone users of Boston.

The question of these rates has been before the Highway Commission for about five years. In April, 1908, the Commission recommended that the rate of 10 cents between the Central District and the sixteen suburban exchanges which were within five miles of the Central District, be reduced to five cents, or one-half of its old rate. This was done. In 1910 the Commission recommended that the five-cent toll rate should be extended to all exchanges located within eight miles. This was done. In 1910 the Commission recommended the change to rates now in effect, in which measured service is particularly prominent. The charge for measured service being based on 5 cents per message for a limited number of messages within eight-mile radius, and for additional zone messages at 3 cents each. In December, 1911, the Commission recommended a modification which makes the 3-cent calls also extend to a radius of eight miles from the exchange of the originating subscriber. This is now in effect. In 1911 the Commission approved modified rates throughout the remainder of the state. These included the reduction from 10 cents to 5 cents of the toll charges for messages passing between exchanges not more than five miles apart, besides making various other reductions. These are now being put in effect.

Accompanying the main part of the document is a brief statistical report in which it is pointed out that the price per message paid in 1911 by the telephone users in Boston and its suburbs was more than a quarter of a cent lower than in 1909, and that the number of messages per telephone has not decreased. It is also pointed out that the saving to the subscribers per telephone was between six and seven per cent in 1911, when the new rates were coming pretty generally into effect, compared with 1910, when the new rates were partly in effect. The fact that there were over 14,000 more telephones in the Boston & Suburban District at the end of 1911 than at the end of 1910, is a straw in the balance, showing that the new rates have been of advantage to the community.

Some of the large users of telephones have paid more under the measured rate and private branch exchange service than under the flat rate service, as was expected when the new rates went into effect, but the advantages to the district have been large, and the rate of growth in the service seems to indicate that the prices can be gradually decreased. The community value of the new rates seems already proved by the figures given in this document, which is a clear and business-like statement of the results so far accomplished and shows that the Highway Commission is standing ready to recommend further improvements as their practicability becomes demonstrated by their study of the situation.

PRESIDENT LOWELL TO SPEAK

The first meeting of the Harvard men of Newton will be held at the Brae-Burn Country Club on the evening of Tuesday, April 2. President Lowell will be the speaker of the evening and announcement will be made of the Newton Scholarship. The committee on organization is as follows: Dr. George L. West, '90; Mr. William L. Garrison, Jr., '97, and Mr. Geo. W. Pratt, '02.

THE STATE OF THE WICKED AFTER DEATH

A lecture on "The State of the Wicked after Death" was given last Sunday evening at the Church of the New Jerusalem, Newtonville, by the Rev. E. M. L. Gould, assistant minister of the church. There was a large audience, which listened with interest to the new and striking ideas which the Swedenborgian Church has to offer on this subject.

The speaker began by a reference to the discovery of the South Pole. Captain Amundsen's story, he said, is believed because people have faith in the Norwegian's honesty, and also because his account is consistent, and tallies with the known facts of science.

The New Church claims acceptance of Swedenborg's statement that he was admitted to the world beyond the grave on the same grounds. No intelligent person doubts that he believed his own assertion, and his followers are satisfied that a study of his writings will show them to be not only consistent in themselves, but in accordance with the known facts of psychology and Scripture. This is shown not only in his description of heaven, but also in his account of hell, or the state of the wicked after death.

Hell, says Swedenborg, is first of all a provision of Divine Mercy. God created men with the power to choose between good and evil, and desires them to choose good; but it must be that even if they choose evil He will still love them, and will try to make them as happy as possible. For that reason it is impossible to think of His punishing anyone, or condemning anyone to hell. The fact is that men and women go to hell of their own free will, and because that is the one place in the future world where they can feel at home. Even in this world every man makes his surroundings and associates the index of his character as far as he is able, and when material limitations are removed he will certainly choose them entirely on this basis. A bad man or woman would feel as out of place in heaven as the proverbial fish out of water. Hell is nothing but the voluntary association in another life of all who defy and violate the divine law of love and service.

This does not mean that the spirits of hell are happy, but their unhappiness is of their own making. The common character of all forms of evil is selfishness, and we know from experience that a selfish man is always unhappy and dissatisfied, and always suspicious of his neighbors. The burning rage of unsatisfied greed is the fire of hell, and the continual clash of warring interests among its inhabitants are the gnashing of teeth mentioned in the Bible. These are the self-inflicted punishments of hell.

On the other hand the wicked spirits have their own evil pleasures—malice, evil thoughts, attempts to outdo one another, and especially the desire to make use of themselves. They are with us, though we do not know it, whenever we indulge in any of the evil desires of which their life is made up. And also they live in a real world, in surroundings which are as agreeable and pleasant to them as the bad company which they have chosen to keep. It follows from this that while, if they go to hell of their own free will, they are also free to leave it if they so desire, they never do leave it, because it is the one place in the universe in which they are perfectly at home.

We must not think ourselves incapable of making a similar choice. The kingdom of hell, like the kingdom of heaven, is within us, and it is only by avoiding sin and selfishness in Christ's name and strength that we can avoid it, and win the heavenly happiness for which we were all created.

MR. JENCKES DEAD

Marcel Jenckes a former resident and leading woolen manufacturer of Stamford, Conn., died on Friday at the residence on Hammond street, Chestnut Hill, of his son-in-law, Louis P. Harding, after a long illness. Mr. Jenckes was born in Wrentham, in 1834, and went to Stamford when a young man. He became interested in the Stamford Woolen Mills, of which he eventually became a part owner. When the mills burned down twenty years ago he retired from business and went to Brookline to live. He was the son of Luke and Elizabeth Ballou Jenckes. His father's family were among the first settlers of Rhode Island, and his mother's family, the Ballous, supplied ministers for the French Huguenot meeting house at Cumberland Hill, R. I., for many generations. In 1861 Mr. Jenckes married Miss Amelia Bates, who survives him. There are two children living, Mr. Lawrence E. Jenckes of Worcester and Mrs. Harding of Chestnut Hill. Mr. Jenckes was for many years treasurer of St. John's Church in Stamford.

GAMMONS—PORTER

The wedding of Mr. Henry Joel Gammons of Webster street, West Newton, and Miss Beatrice Margaret Porter, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Asa Porter of Charles street, Waltham, took place Wednesday evening at the home of the bride. The ceremony was performed at eight o'clock by Rev. J. A. Coons, pastor of the Methodist Church of that city.

The bride wore a gown of white all over lace, trimmed with white satin. Her maid of honor, Miss Eva G. Porter and bridesmaids, Misses Effie E. and Alice Morris, all of Waltham, were dressed in pale blue satin with white tulle. Mr. William J. Gammons of West Newton was the best man and the ushers were Messrs. Walter S. Fisher and Earl R. Porter of Waltham. A reception followed the ceremony until ten o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. Gammons being assisted in receiving their friends by Mr. and Mrs. Porter and Mr. and Mrs. Roland F. Gammons. After a wedding trip to New York, Mr. and Mrs. Gammons will reside at 21 Webster street, where they will be at home after May first.

IN MEMORIAM

On Wednesday morning, March 6, Miss Jennie E. Jones passed, without any warning, from the scenes of time into the glory of the life beyond. The most of her life was intimately associated with Newton activities and above all with Channing Unitarian Church, to which she gave her unswerving loyalty and devotion. It was with deep sorrow for her loss that her large circle of friends bade her farewell at the funeral service conducted by Rev. Harry Lutz, pastor of Channing Church, on that bright, sunny Sunday when nature seemed in unison with the lovely spirit that hovered over her lifeless form. Mr. Lutz in his usual felicitous selections and remarks full of faith, hope and trust lifted the gloom of the sorrowful occasion and deeply impressed every listener with the consolation that, "There is no Death. What seems so is but transition."

A MEMORIAL TRIBUTE TO MISS JENNIE E. JONES

Read at Meeting of Channing Alliance on March 19th.

Of those whose death we have been recently called upon to mourn, Miss Jennie Jones has been with us the longest, and was the most generally known. Though failing health has forbidden her taking any active part in the work of the Alliance the past two years, her pleasant face, bright smile, her commanding, cordial words have made her very welcome to all. But many of us remember her many years of eager, ready service, always in the van of the workers in our sewing circles, at our fairs, the hospitable entertainment of Conferences and conventions. Her easy, social manners made her ready to welcome strangers, to make new members feel at home. Her considerate thoughtfulness for others was most unselfishly shown, no service or sacrifice too great, in fact, the service never seemed a sacrifice. Her loyalty to her church was shown by faithful attendance, constant interest and in many ways, as was her loyalty to her friends. Her home life of affection and devotion to the members of a large family can be merely touched upon here, but those of us who knew her well in her younger years feel there are few who could equal her as devoted daughter, sister, aunt and cousin, and there are very many who would "arise up and call her blessed."

I could but feel during Mr. Lutz' sermon last Sunday that she was an instance of the force of quiet, unconscious personal influence towards the uplift of others. May her spirit and influence help us to follow in her footsteps. Surely to her can be said, "Well done, good and faithful servant. Thou hast been faithful in a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things. Enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

There was a large audience present Saturday night at the Newton Y. M. C. A. at the athletic contest for the second leg of the Waitt Trophy, presented by Albert H. Waitt for the athlete who could win the largest number of points in three years.

The winners of last year, who held the first leg of the trophy, Theodore Morton, was again victorious, winning a total of 590 points. Grant, the second man, received 533 points and Moore was third with 510 1-4 points.

The events were 150-yard dash, horizontal bar, parallel bars, horse, running high jump and three standing jumps, 1000-yard run and shotput.

The other contestants received the following points: Sweet, 315, Faith 389, Adams 422 1-2, Irving 407, Crumrine 328 3-4.

BRILLIANT WEDDING

Lauriat-Bullard Nuptials at West Newton Unitarian Church

The wedding of Miss Marian I. Bullard, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Partridge Bullard of West Newton, and Mr. Charles E. Lauriat, Jr., of Brookline, on Wednesday night, was undoubtedly the most brilliant social function of the season. The beautiful Unitarian Church at West Newton, decorated with palms, dark cedar trees, smilax and Easter lilies, was filled to the doors with guests from the Newtons, Brookline, Boston and neighboring cities. While the guests were assembling an organ program was rendered by Mr. John P. Marshall of the Symphony Orchestra.

The ceremony took place at eight o'clock and was performed by Rev. Julian C. Jaynes, the pastor of the church. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of heavy white satin, with court train, trimmed with Carrickmacross point lace and carried a shower bouquet of white orchids and lilies of the valley. Her sister, Miss Cherry Bullard, was maid of honor and wore white crepe with over dress and court train of white and gold tissue, brocade in dark crimson and pink roses. She carried a bouquet of roses of the same shades of pink and crimson.

Mr. George W. Chandler of New York was the best man and the guests were seated by these ushers, Messrs. William H. Bacon of West Newton, William H. McGill of Medford, Charles W. Cole, and Dr. Robert C. Cochran of Boston, Frederick R. Bogardus of Brookline, Frederick G. Melcher of Newton Centre, and DeForest Candee of New York.

A largely attended reception followed at the Bullard residence on Temple street. Mr. and Mrs. Lauriat were assisted in receiving their guests by Mr. and Mrs. Bullard and Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Lauriat of Brookline.

Mrs. Bullard wore apple green satin, brocade with cloth of silver and carried a bouquet of white lilies, lilies of the valley and maiden hair ferns. The reception room was decorated with southern smilax and Easter lilies; the library was yellow with jonquils, with baskets hanging in the leaded windows, and the banquet room was grey with festoons of laurel and baskets of vivid red carnations.

MRS. PLANT ENTERTAINS

One of the social events of the season was the auction bridge of twenty tables given by Mrs. William Plant at her home on Cotton street on St. Patrick's day, last Monday.

The rooms were most artistically decorated with the green and white of Ireland. The hostess, gowned in green, received her guests, who were then presented with shamrock talismans by two young ladies dressed as maids from the Emerald Isle. The prizes were both beautiful and numerous. High tea was afterwards served at individual tables, appropriately decorated and the menus were most suggestive of the occasion. Mrs. Ingalls of Lynn and Mrs. Van Tassel of Newtonville poured in the dining room, which was a bower of white sweet peas, asparagus and shamrocks. A heap of sweet peas on a bed of shamrocks formed the centre piece for the table, and the shamrock souvenirs were a fitting ending to a pleasant occasion.

ORGAN PROGRAM

The program of John Hermann Loud's free organ recital next Monday evening in First Baptist Church, Newton Centre, will be as follows:

PINAFORE

The series of performances of "H. M. S. Pinafore," for which a large cast has held rehearsals during the past two months will open next Monday evening in Players' Hall, West Newton. The cast includes players from both Brookline and the Newtons and is given for the benefit of Players' Hall. Included in the cast are many who have starred in previous performances given in this city and the success of the affair is assured. The performance will be given on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

NEWTON BOAT CLUB

The executive committee have arranged an interesting program for Ladies' Night, to be held this evening. Mr. George B. Cutter, the singing humorist, and Brignati, the magician, will furnish the entertainment.

"Can We Believe the Deity of Jesus Christ?"

A lecture dealing with this problem will be given by the Rev. JULIAN K. SMYTH, of New York City, President of the General Convention of the New Jerusalem, at the Church of the New Jerusalem ("Swedenborgian"), Highland Avenue, Newtonville, next Sunday evening, March 24th, at 8 o'clock. Mr. Smyth is a preacher of international fame, and no one should miss the opportunity of hearing him on so important a topic. It need hardly be said that he will answer the question with a strong affirmative.

This is the fifth and last of the series of Lenten lectures. The public is most cordially invited to attend. All seats will be free, and there will be no collection.

EDITORIAL

For President, WILLIAM H. TAFT

"Liberties, religious and civil, are always in danger when the foundations of law and the independence of the judges—be they civil or ecclesiastical—are imperilled." — Cardinal O'Connell.

The matter of refusing to grant sixth-class liquor licenses to druggists, as suggested by the remarks of Alderman Calkins, and printed in the last issue of the Graphic, is one of considerable importance to this city. For many years we have been a strong no-license community and enjoyed immunity from the curse of the open saloon. It is a well-known fact, however, that considerable quantities of liquor are brought into the city by express, and that the quantity consumed is probably as high as if we voted Yes. While this hypocrisy is a matter of regret, it is undoubtedly true, and I greatly fear that our boasted no license majority would melt away, if any restrictive liquor legislation was enacted. To refuse sixth-class licenses would mean that any citizen needing liquor for urgent medicinal purposes must first obtain a physician's certificate, a restriction which would undoubtedly tend to make him view a Yes vote with less abhorrence than now. In addition, it would inevitably lead to the establishment of kitchen bar-rooms and all their attendant evils. It might also tempt the less scrupulous druggists, of whom we have very few, to secretly violate the law, and in my opinion, lead to a most undesirable situation from a temperance standpoint. It should also be remembered that while liquor is being undoubtedly sold by druggists for other than "medicinal, mechanical or chemical" purposes, it is sold openly, with signature and address of each purchaser for future reference of the authorities, if necessary, and the temptations of indiscriminate liquor drinking are not displayed before our young people. In my opinion the best interests of temperance and of the city require a continuance of the well-established custom of granting sixth-class licenses, under strict surveillance, to all reputable druggists in the city.

Alderman Cox performed a public duty in calling attention to the great need of money for our streets, sidewalks and our street lights, when commenting on an appropriation of $5000 for supervision of playgrounds. While I am heartily in favor of playground supervision from the excellent work it has accomplished at Newton Centre, still I do not believe the city should devote money for outside purposes, until it has placed its house in order. There is general complaint that our streets are dirty, the surfaces worn, the grass borders untrimmed and a general air of slackness, which was not known until the last few years. This is not due to Street Commissioner Ross, but is due to the policy of the city government, which has pared down the street appropriations until they are smaller than they were ten or twelve years ago, when the laborers' wages were smaller and the working hours longer. It is well enough to prepare for future generations by supervision of play, but it is also highly important to remember that the present generation is entitled to some return for the taxes it pays.

I trust the proposed Auburndale playground will not prove a second Bulloughs pond, in the way of expense to the city. It is a great pity that a better piece of land cannot be secured for this purpose in that pleasant village.

The use of a motor cycle to control the automobile traffic on Commonwealth Avenue is a wise step. It should make the avenue as safe for travel as the boulevards under the control of the Metropolitan park police. The abuse of Commonwealth Avenue by automobile speed maniacs has continued long enough and the city should employ the most modern methods to stop it.

Alderman Cox should be commended for acting as an interrogation point at the aldermanic meetings. Important matters are too frequently passed upon without that thorough explanation which is due to every taxpayer of the city.

The opening of the New Cambridge highway (tomorrow) ought to be of considerable benefit to residents of this city, as the running time of 8 minutes from Harvard square to Park street will materially reduce the time for the full ride to Nonantum square.

The Mulcahy claim will prove a veritable Banquo's ghost to the present board of aldermen.

UNDER THE GILDED DOME

The most interesting incident of the week at the State House was the visit and speech of President Taft. Such an event would be of great importance to itself, but following the recent visit and speech of his predecessor, Col. Roosevelt, it was inevitable that the contrasts between the two men should be keenly noted. The friends of President Taft have every reason to be proud of the reception given their candidate and of the words he spoke. Long continued applause marked his appearance and his speech evidently met the views of most of his hearers. His denunciation of the fallacy of the proposition to alter the constitution by popular whim was spoken with great earnestness and received with enthusiasm.

There was an interesting hearing Wednesday on the "cold storage" bill. Professor Sedgwick said there was a lot of humbug in the proposed legislation to control the business, and declared that a good egg can stay in storage indefinitely. Mr. Freedom Hutchinson of Newton appeared in opposition for the meat packing industries, and Mr. A. C. Burnham of Newton Centre spoke for the fish dealers. Mr. Burnham said that five sixths of all the halibut eaten in New England was frozen.

The committee on Liquor law has voted leave to withdraw an Alderman Gray's excellent bill to make the holder of a permit to transport intoxicating liquor, responsible for the acts of his employees.

The committee on railroads has voted unanimously to report a bill to compel the railroads entering Boston, to electrify their systems, in the metropolitan district before Jan. 1, 1920.

All three of our representatives voted against the bill to incorporate the Boynton railroad system, but it passed the house by a wide margin. All three men also voted to sustain the governor's veto of the bill to authorize the Suffolk Law school to grant degrees.

The bill to reimburse the city for a portion of the expense of the Newton Independent Industrial school has been favorably reported by the Ways and Means committee and has been passed by the house.

The taxation committee has acted wisely in reporting the constitutional amendment to allow a uniform rate of taxation throughout the state on personal property. This would go a long way towards preventing tax dodging and is a step in the right direction.

Mr. Henry M. Howard of West Newton opposed the bill for an independent agricultural school in Bristol County, calling the scheme theoretical, impractical and expensive.

J. C. Brimblecom.

THE NEWTON HIGH SCHOOLS

On Friday morning, March 15, the senior class and some of the juniors of the Technical High assembled in the hall and were addressed by Mr. Garrison, who gave a very interesting talk on the Civil War as seen by himself.

The annual spring vacation will commence this year on March 29.

Members of the senior, junior and sophomore classes assembled in the Technical High hall on Wednesday morning and were entertained by a division of the senior English class. A debate was held on the question: Resolved: That Equal Suffrage is desirable. The debate was extremely interesting. The negative won by popular vote.

This evening the Technical High School will be opened for inspection at 7.30 P. M. All of the shops will be opened and running; guides will show parties about the building. The laboratories and drawing rooms will also be in operation.

There will be a candy sale held in the gymnasium Friday afternoon, March 29.

Miss Howard the head of the physical culture department of Wellesley College addressed the girls of the school in the assembly hall last Wednesday morning.

BOYS' NIGHT

The annual Boys' Night of the Central Club was observed last evening at the Central Congregational Church. A reception was held from 6 until 6.30, and followed by an entertainment, consisting of clever vaudeville sketches by local talent. Mr. William F. Garcelon gave a highly interesting and instructive address, taking for his subject "Athletics," and Mr. Andrew Marshall, Assistant Attorney-General, gave an equally interesting address on "Leaders and Loyalty." The Central Club is an organization for the advancement of the social, civic and religious interests of the community. Mr. Austin H. Decatur is president; Mr. Charles E. Bevan, vice-president, and Percy G. Stiles, secretary-treasurer. The directors are Rev. Jay T. Stocking, Fred E. Mann, Hedley P. Patey and Percy F. Williams.

OFFERS ONE CENT INCREASE

Saco-Petee Co. Will Grant Partial Demands of Strikers

Late this morning Mr. Frank J. Hale for the Saco-Petee Co., stated that the trouble was caused by the general business depression and a lack of orders, resulting in running on short time of 50 hours a week. While business is still slack, the conditions warrant the company in offering a running time of 55 hours per week for the general shop and 60 hours per week in the foundry, and a general increase in wages of one cent per hour for the whole shop. If these terms are accepted the works will open as usual on Monday morning, otherwise they will stay closed indefinitely.

MR. ELDER HERE

Hon. Samuel J. Elder of Winchester addressed the Unitarian Club at the West Newton Unitarian Church Thursday evening, on "The Newfoundland Fisheries Arbitration," speaking to the largest audience that the club has gathered at any meeting this season and who received his eloquent utterances with enthusiastic applause. About 120 members and guests sat down to dinner, the president, Mr. Charles A. Clarke, presiding. Members of the Hunnewell Glee Club rendered before and after the address, several of the choicest numbers which they had given at the concert on Wednesday evening.

President Clarke, in introducing Mr. Elder, spoke of the high honor which Mr. Elder had received in his selection as one of the counsel to present the case of the United States at The Hague and of the distinction with which he fulfilled the trust. Mr. Elder gave a vivid outline of the fisheries controversy which grew out of the interpretation of a short clause in the treaty of 1818. The importance of the fisheries to New England grew out of the fact that in the early days she had almost no manufactures and much of her business income was derived from the catching and sale of fish. The rights of fishing on the Newfoundland coasts were derived from the wars with France in which John Adams asserted that New England states and Massachusetts in particular had spent more blood and treasure than all the rest of the British empire, and he declared when acting as a commissioner for the United States at the close of the Revolution that he would set his hand to no treaty that did not give us those rights in full. Mr. Elder sketched the subsequent history of the controversy and the various disputes which led finally to the treaty under which the questions at issue were referred to a special tribunal selected from the permanent court of arbitration at The Hague. He gave vivid personal characterizations of the five arbitrators and of the leading counsel engaged in the case and told of the many interesting incidents of the ten weeks of argument during the summer of 1910. The decision was favorable to the United States in all but one of the contested points.

In closing, Mr. Elder emphasized the point that Great Britain and the United States, in question No. 1 in the arbitration, had submitted to judicial decision a question of national honor, and had acquiesced in its decision, thus disposing of one of the much-talked of objections to the arbitral method of settling international disputes. "It was one of the greatest steps forward," he said, "that has been taken towards general arbitration and it was at it and high historical sequence that President Taft proposed that treaties of general arbitration without exceptions of vital interest and national honor should be made between the two countries." (Applause.) The treaties have received a temporary check. The Czar of Russia has the glory of having called the peace conferences which have advanced toward the permanent court of The Hague, and given us an actual arbitral tribunal. But it was reserved for the United States to take the long step forward and make the historic proposition which would become a reality. Whatever may be the future with regard to our President, I venture the assertion that his fame will rest highest and strongest upon that great movement toward international peace resulting from the form of that proposal. Arbitration is no longer an iridescent dream of old gentlemen that come together in convention and pass resolutions. It is becoming a step by step and decade by decade an ascertained fact.

More than a hundred years ago we had our first arbitration treaty with Great Britain, and James Sullivan, Attorney-General of Massachusetts, was counsel for the United States, and in his closing argument he said in substance: "Thus in this quiet chamber we are settling the boundaries between two great nations. Why should not all nations settle their differences in this way and not choke the rivers with the corpses of their sons or drench continents with their blood?" That is the question that the increasing civilization of the world is asking with more and more determination, and there can be but one answer to it.

K. T. POP CONCERT

Next Thursday evening, the Knights Templar, this vicinity, members of the Gethsemane Commandery, will hold their last entertainment for this season. This entertainment will consist of a pop concert at which many new and interesting features will be introduced. Music will be furnished by players from the Boston Symphony Orchestra, at the close of which dancing and whist will be participated in by those so inclined.

Particular preparations have been made for this last event for the season. A drill squad which is now functioning throughout the state, has been making special preparation for this evening, and judging from the responses which the committee have received, not only will the attendance be the largest ever held, but those who do not attend will miss one of the times of their lives.

—Mrs. S. Harold Greene of Alden street entertained a large company of friends at luncheon and bridge Monday afternoon at the Brae Burn Club. A color scheme of green prevailed in the decorations, which were most attractive. Among the ladies receiving prizes were Miss Edith Sylvester, Miss Haskell, Mrs. E. Ray Speare and Mrs. J. M. Dill.

—The annual Men's Supper at the First Church was held Wednesday evening and there were 230 persons at the tables. Nine gentlemen, under the direction of Mr. A. Dudley Dowd, acted as chefs and over a score, all in white, immaculate jackets, were the tipsy waiters, in charge of Alderman Charles B. Gordon. After an excellent supper there was an entertainment consisting of soprano solos by Mrs. S. W. Wilder, Jr., bass solos by Mr. Tobey of the church quartet, and some clever sleight of hand work by outside talent.

A SUMMER IN EUROPE

Miss C. M. Ring of the Pelce Grammar School, West Newton, is organizing a party for a trip through Europe this summer. The party will be under the management of a Tourist Agency, and will have the services of an experienced conductor. Prices reasonable, all accommodations first class. Miss Ring will chaperone two young ladies if desired—for which a small additional fee will be charged. For full particulars address Miss Ring at Pelce School, West Newton, or 21 St. Botolph street, Boston.

NEWTON AUTOMOBILE CLUB

A meeting will be held next Thursday night at the Newton Club to which all interested are invited, to consider the formation of a club of automobile owners residing in Newton. Such a club, organized to assist the movement for good roads, for good automobile laws and to restrain the reckless driver, should have the support of the citizens of this city. In return, its members would have the privileges of the state and national automobile associations for a small annual fee. Mr. Lewis R. Speare of Newton Centre and Mayor Charles E. Hatfield are behind this movement, whose success seems thereby assured.

POLITICAL NOTES

Congressman John W. Weeks of this city is one of the candidates of the Taft League for a delegate at large to the Republican national convention. It is said that Ex-Alderman E. P. Saulton of Chestnut Hill will be a Taft candidate for district delegate.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

Miss Grace M. Burt, Editor.

The coming week will see practically the end of the State Federation conferences for this season, with the exception of two or three local ones at places somewhat remote from Boston. The Club Editor has been following these conferences pretty closely for several years and in looking back upon them sees that there has been on the whole a gain in the manner of conducting them. That there should be a difference between a meeting and a conference is a point, which the committees should continually bear in mind. If a club has had a definite experience and wants to find out how it was wrong or how it could have been done a better way or why one method was successful when another had failed, it should naturally expect at the conference to be able to get some of its problems elucidated. If, on the contrary, it goes hoping for assistance and finds the whole time taken up with speakers along an entirely different line of work and no time left for questions, that club has a right to feel that that particular conference, while interesting, had not been profitable for it at that time. On the whole there has been considerable gain in this line over the earlier conferences. The tendency toward holding more district or local conferences is a move in the right direction and will help to cement the Federation work in different parts of the State. Keep up the conferences, but make them conferences and don't have too many of them nor too near together in point of time or place.

With the idea of increasing interest in Federation work Mrs. Mulligan, State President, is soon to make a visit to many of the clubs in the western part of the state.

State Federation Conferences

The Music department of the State Federation will hold a local conference at Fitchburg on Wednesday afternoon, March 27, at 2.30, in Wallace Hall by invitation of the Fitchburg Woman's Club. The subject for the afternoon will be "Folk Songs—The Foundation of all Music." The first part will be given to a presentation of the course of study on Folk Music planned by the department with illustration of the folk songs of the different countries by Mrs. Frank A.

Morrill, soprano. Following this a program of music has been arranged by the hostess club, each number of which has been adapted from or influenced by the old Folk Songs. There will be a social hour with the hostess club.

On Friday, March 29, at 2 o'clock by invitation of the Dorchester Woman's Club the Food Sanitation department will hold its conference in the Dorchester Woman's Club House. W. H. Meiser will speak on "Bacteria in Cooked Foods," Dr. C. F. Dodge on "The Extermination of the House Fly," and the Milk Problem will be presented from three points of view, J. Lewis Ellsworth for the Producer, Charles F. Whiting for the Dealer and Rev. W. B. Geoghegan for the consumer. Leave Dorchester electric at Centre street. Allow twenty minutes from Dudley street.

At Woburn on the same afternoon, March 29, at 2.30 there will be a district conference under the auspices of the Public Health department. "Sex Hygiene" will be treated by Dr. Evangeline W. Young, "Health Inspection of Factories" by Dr. Charles E. Simpson, and "Local Tuberculosis Hospitals" by Dr. John B. Hawes, 2nd.

Local Announcements

The C. L. S. C. of Newton Highlands will meet on Monday afternoon, March 25, at 2.30 with Dr. Caroline Wentworth of Lincoln street.

On March 25 the Newton Highlands Monday Club will meet with Mrs. A. E. Martell of Carver road. There will be a lecture by Mrs. George B. Rogers on "A Summer in Thessaly."

The Parliamentary Law Club meets with Mrs. W. D. Tripp of Boyd street on Tuesday morning, March 26, at 10.15.

Miss Mary Galbraith will entertain the Perian Club on Wednesday, March 27.

The Auburndale Review Club will meet with Mrs. E. C. Hammond of Groveland street, on Tuesday, March 26.

At the meeting of the Social Science Club on March 27, Mr. F. H. Tucker will speak on "Flax and Linen—Suggestions to Housekeepers." Guests may be invited.

At the monthly meeting of the Newton Centre Woman's Club on Thursday, March 28, at 2.30, Mr. Edward Avis will speak on "Birdland." The lecture will be illustrated by stereopticon and violin. The children of members are invited.

The Waban Woman's Club will entertain the children on Thursday afternoon, March 28, at 3 o'clock in Bessey Hall.

Local Happenings

At the quarterly meeting of the executive board of the Newton Federation on Monday morning there were the usual reports and routine business. A request was made that the secretaries of the clubs send to Mrs. Bernard Early, corresponding secretary of the Federation, information regarding desirable days for holding the Federation public meetings, so that another year the members may be informed at the beginning of the season the dates for the Federation meetings in order to avoid so far as possible conflicting with regular church appointments and other regular meetings. It was decided to hold the annual meeting on May 7th and a committee was appointed to make all necessary arrangements for it.

Mrs. L. S. Drake, chairman of the Education committee, reported that her committee had made an investigation regarding the luncheons served at the classical high school, concerning which complaint had been made. Upon careful investigation and a testing of it themselves the committee reported it to be of good quality and generally satisfactory. The Committee has taken steps towards securing a rest room at the same building for the girls, as at present the only place to take a girl, who is ill, is the teachers' room, which is needed by them. They had considered the introduction of the School City into the schools, but upon investigation both in Newton and in Boston, they had decided to abandon the idea as impracticable. They had been looking into the Juvenile Court of the City and had found the need of volunteer probation work and of a special probation officer for the girls.

Mrs. B. F. Taylor, chairman of the Social Service committee, reported that nine tuberculosis cases had been assisted during the winter and gave a brief account of the mass meeting at the Newton Club in February relative to the centralizing of the activities. As a means of encouraging the Federation in its work, Miss Abby L. Paige, director of Social Work of the Women's Educational and Industrial Union, was presented, who told of the work the different departments carried on by the Union. Miss Paige told in a very interesting way of the establishment of the Union thirty-five years ago, of its luncheon department at Boylston street and at the New England Kitchen, where all the luncheons for the high schools of Boston are prepared; of the handwork and food sales departments, of its attempts to train consignees to more efficient work; of its research department and the study it is making of the conditions surrounding the candy trade of Boston; of its study of the vocational opportunities for women; of its salesmanship class and its training school for preparing teachers to teach salesmanship, who can become leaders in the trade school movement; of the legislative department and of its social work proper. The Union is doing a big work and merits the support of women all about.

On Monday afternoon the Newton Highlands Monday Club met with Mrs. W. E. B. Ryder of Lincoln street. Papers were presented by members on "Great Men of Greece." In the absence of the president, Mrs. Margaret Miller, vice-president was in the chair.

The Newton Highlands C. L. S. C. met last Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Leonard Boyd on Allerton road. Mrs. Boyd also had charge of the work for the afternoon, the subject being "Browning's Calliban." Mrs. Emory Clark also contributed a paper on Shakespeare's Calliban, the monster depicted in "The Tempest," and a general discussion followed.

A large number were present at the meeting of the Newtonville Woman's Guild on Tuesday afternoon to hear Mrs. Madeline Gaston Snowden's presentation of "The Doll's House." Mrs. Snowden is very attractive personally and her rendering was altogether delightful. Mrs. Henry V. Jones was in charge of the program. Music by Miss Puffer further added to the pleasure of the afternoon.

At the meeting of the Social Science Club on Wednesday morning, Miss Miriam Drury gave a brief report of the Newton Federation Board meeting. After which Mrs. J. W. McIntyre read the paper of the morning on "What the Government is doing for the Farmers" prepared by Mrs. F. A. Pickernell, an absent member of the club.

In the history of agriculture, she said, the individual efforts of the farmer have been ineffectual. The rich lands of the new country were robbed by primitive methods followed because of established custom. The average farmer had no conception of the influence of soil conditions, climate, etc., and his life and that of his family was hard and unattractive. One difficulty in the way of assisting him was his remoteness from the centres of civilization. Now the rural free delivery and the telephone bring him into closer touch with the world at large.

In 1839 the government appropriated $1000, which was used the next year in making investigations and distributing seeds and cuttings. As agriculture has been developed a larger sum has been appropriated until it has now reached the millions. In 1889, what had been a bureau, became an executive department and its head a cabinet officer, known as the Secretary of Agriculture. In the last 20 years this department has developed wonderfully and now includes many sub-divisions with chiefs and assistants to carry on the work and to cooperate with the State governments to assist the farmer.

The educational work being done by the State institutions was touched upon and the Farmer's Institutes with their practical demonstrations. The schedules, which the government has made of all sections of the country and the investigations into pests, were mentioned, as well as the assistance of the Weather Bureau. Mrs. McIntyre read from a little book entitled, "The Pennsylvania Railroad and the Farmer," of many things being done by that system to assist in the profitable marketing of crops. Many interesting contributions were brought out in the discussion.

Home Economics Conference

As guests of the Fortnightly Club of Winchester about 300 club women attended the conference of the Home Economics Department of the State Federation on Monday afternoon, March 18, in the Unitarian church, that place. Mrs. Mabel G. Nichols, president of the Hostess club, greeted the visitors in the name of her club and turned the meeting over to the Mrs. Hattie M. Douglas, chairman of the department, who presided during the afternoon.

The first speaker was Mrs. Bertha June Richardson Lucas and her topic, "The Woman who Spends." Where women fall in their spending, she said is in not having a plan. We do not know where we stand, if we do not have a plan. The clubs are taking up larger and larger subjects and are reaching out into many fields, we are going to get a great many bumps unless our undertakings are based on some plan. But we are often confronted with the fact that our plans have a dreadful way of not working, but it does not pay to be discouraged if it doesn't work. One of the essential things is to have a well ordered system of accounts. It is not necessary to have an elaborate system with many parallel columns, but have a small book to carry around with you to enter things immediately and then at the end of the month collect into a larger book with not too many columns. She said she did not care about the balancing; that is not the purpose of accounts. What you teach you in regard to your own spending is the important thing. Mrs. Lucas dwelt upon the necessity of a woman's knowing what is in her own ice box and preventing waste. And urged the dignity of spending for the things that are worth while. We have got to get home economics home, into our own clutches. She deplored the tendency of women toward bargain sales. When we get things cheap, it does not come out of the store, it comes out of the worker. Mrs. Lucas admitted the difficulty for one woman to tell another how to spend her money, but she urged the making out of a budget and developing intelligence in regard to it and if it does not work, to be able to change it. Whatever you do, see to it that you spend wisely.

During a short period allotted for discussion the fact that the children today are not trained in their own spending was deplored.

Miss Helen Louise Johnson was the next speaker, and her subject, "The Club Woman's Responsibility." She emphasized the necessity of a plan, for until you make your plan you have nothing by which to measure your expenditures. The standard which economists have set as to the division of the income, is as follows: Rent 25 per cent, food 25 per cent, operating expenses 15 per cent, and the rest divided between clothing and the "higher life." She, too, pointed out the value of household accounts. There has always been a problem of living, she said, how to retain health, strength and power, how to be efficient for our task. Life should yield these results and the world be better because we live in it. A tendency of the day among the young people is the valuing money as money and not for its purchasing power. A man in keeping his accounts is doing it to see his profits, while with a woman, and this is one of the reasons why a woman does not keep accounts,—there is never anything left on the profit side. What she has made is written in the book of the angels. The 1095 meals, served during a year, are often considered as so many opportunities for drudgery, on the other hand, they should be considered as 1095 opportunities to make good.

In speaking of standards she said that woman's first responsibility is the voicing or forming of standards, to show that the source of real power is never in human possessions, but in what you want to do and be, in your expression and attitude towards life. To distinguish the real from the false and not mistake the means for the end.

Miss Anna Barrows of Columbia was the last speaker and presented the Page Bill now before Congress, which provides for increased work along home economic lines and encourages the study of agriculture. She urged the necessity of getting back to simpler standards, and of the bringing up of every part of our life to the same standard. She expressed the desire to write an essay upon "Lace Curtains and Back Yards." She warned the women that it was bad not to have a plan, but it was worse to let the plan ride us. We should have dishes that cannot be broken, but plans that may be.

The conference was then adjourned for a social hour with the hostess club.

The annual "gentlemen's night" of the West Newton Women's Educational Club, held in the Newton Club house, was thoroughly enjoyed by a large number of members and guests. The rooms were beautifully decorated with pinks. In the receiving line were the club officers; Mrs. Thomas M. Elwell, the president; Mrs. Henry Young and Mrs. Fred Young, vice-presidents; Mrs. Walter A. Beedle, recording secretary; Mrs. Harry S. Wells, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Maurice Beardsley, treasurer.

Mrs. Leutz orchestra furnished the music and Miss Iva Roberts, who gave the romantic four-act comedy, "Betsey of Baltimore," delighted all who heard her. The play was given with remarkable dramatic force, the presentation of the many different

FINE CONCERT

Last week Thursday evening the Dodge-Torollo Quintet, assisted by Ernest W. Harrison, pianist, and Howard White, basso cantante, provided an excellent concert at Players' Hall.

The first number on the program was the Dvorak Quintet in G major—in 3 movements. Allegro con fuoco—Poco andante and Scherzo. It was an interesting performance in many ways, for presented for the first time to Newton audiences Antony Torollo, the Kreisler of the contra bass. Mr. Torollo made a favorable impression in this first number, although the honors should go to Mr. William F. Dodge, who played the leading themes with much virility in the opening number which revealed the constructive qualities of Dvorak's mind in writing this composition. The andante movement was a real inspiration and one always heard with pleasure for each part teemed with expressive interest and the weaving and counter weaving of the many melodies all in all, gave an agreeable sense of beauty to the audience.

The final or scherzo movement of the quintet proved to be a passionate, yet graceful work and the treatment it received at this performance did it ample justice.

Mr. William F. Dodge rendered the Saint Saens "Rondo Capriccioso" for his solo number. To many who have heard him in past seasons, his work on this evening was a surprise and pleasure, for Mr. Dodge has matured with that pleasing maturity which has lost none of its brilliancy, but with the maturity that has added strength to his tone and beauty to every note that he plays. He was encored and played the "Thale," "Meditation" in a charming, well interpreted manner.

Mr. Howard White, the basso cantante sang in a delightful manner a group of songs that gave much pleasure; they were in direct contrast to the instrumental numbers. Mr. White owns a beautiful basso cantante voice; he has a charming mannerism of singing as though he enjoyed to sing and without stiffness or restraint; he sang as people like to hear singers, free and open; his diction was clear and his tones sympathetic where required and broad where necessary. His first number, "Mother o' Mine," by Tours, was the prettiest of the group, although the "Pipes of Gordon's Men" displayed his ability more, both as a singer and an actor, for Mr. White is dramatic to a pleasing extent.

Antony Torollo was the lion of the program. He rendered Bottesini's "Variations" in a manner that proved unbelievable; that is, not considered possible on such an unwieldy instrument. Yet the clear tones, the smoothness and quality were most astounding—Mr. Torollo's art was displayed in every phase—as an executionist—as a producer of "cello-like" tones—as a musician with every musical requirement.

The last group of solos by Mr. White proved most interesting; especially "Uncle Rome," by Homer. It was a characteristic number and well received and enjoyed. Mr. White responded to an encore by singing and playing a composition of his own.

The final number on the program was a sextette for all strings and the piano. It was a fitting close to a brilliant program. The number was divided into two portions—the Andante Espressivo and the Allegro Energico. The harmony was unusual in many ways, yet pleasing and the Allegro movement proved to be full of gaiety with many a quaint touch and original thought which loudly proclaim Bolshoff as the composer. Mr. Harrison's work in this number introduced him in a new sphere to Newton audiences—yet one he is well qualified to fill. His playing was with much abandon. It is true, yet he exercised that true musicianly intimate acquaintance with his art that made every one wish for a repetition of the number. The concert was under the direction of A. H. Handley.

KNEISEL QUARTET

This evening the final concert of the Hatfield-Burroughs Subscription Series will occur in Players' Hall, West Newton.

The Kneseel Quartet, the most famous American Chamber Concert organization, has prepared an exceptionally interesting program for their offering—including the Mozart Quartet in C major; two movements from the Debussy Quartet in G minor and the whole of Schubert's Quartet in A minor, opus 29. In addition to these quartet numbers, Mr. Willem Willeke will play two violoncello solos, Raff's Larghetto and Napolitaine by Casella.

Mozart's quartet in C major was one of the three quartets played before Haydn which prompted the remarkable words spoken by Haydn to Mozart's father on that occasion—"I declare to you before God, as a man of honor, that your son is the greatest composer that I know either personally, or by reputation, he has taste and beyond that, the most consummate knowledge of the art of composition."

The Debussy Quartet in G minor of course represents today's school of chamber concert compositions, being published in 1895 and in it, the cyclic treatment, which he used so frequently in all of his compositions written at this period, is especially marked. The form consists in using a few themes which are modified and expanded in many ways, and these again developed, but the main themes are kept intact throughout. While this composition is treated in a rather classic manner, it is broad and romantic and full of the suggestive atmosphere of the old enchantments.

The Schubert Quartet in A minor is of the school of 1824, and was the only one issued during Schubert's life time. The chief theme is one of undeniable charm and all four of the movements will prove a pleasurable study to musical students.

In addition to the quartet numbers Willem Willeke will undoubtedly prove an interesting change to the quartet program by his playing of two well-known solos. This will be the first solo engagement he has played in Newton, which adds much to the interest.

The concert will be under the direction of Mr. A. H. Handley.

ESPERANTO

Because of the interest and discussion aroused by the introduction of House Resolution 220 into the United States House of Representatives by the Hon. Richard Bartholdt, the Esperanto Association of North America is going to distribute free one million copies of "A Glimpse of Esperanto" (a pamphlet outlining the purpose of the international language and giving a general synopsis of the grammar). This will be sent to any of your readers sending name, address and stamp to The Esperanto Office, Washington, D. C.

House Resolution 220 reads as follows: "RESOLVED, That the Committee on Education be, and the same is, hereby authorized and directed to cause an investigation to be made by the Committee on Education, or a sub-committee thereof, touching the practicability of the study of Esperanto as an auxiliary language and a means of facilitating the social and commercial intercourse of the people of the United States and those of other countries, the committee to submit its report at the second session of the Sixty-second Congress."

This resolution, passed by the House of Representatives, is now before the Committee on Education.

NEWTON CLUB

There was a large gathering at the Stag Round Up of Saturday 16th. The various departments were fully occupied till 10 P. M., when a vaudeville was put on in the auditorium and a Dutch Supper served. The professional talent consisted of Miss Agnes Champney, soprano songs, Mr. John Smallman, Jr., baritone, and Bold and Lorraine with sketches and recitations.

Dowling continues in full swing. The Interboro matches have started. Newtonville team won 3 out of 4 points from Newton and on Tuesday last lost all 4 to Newton Centre—West Newton. This last combination put up some very high strings and a strong team will be needed to cut down their lead.

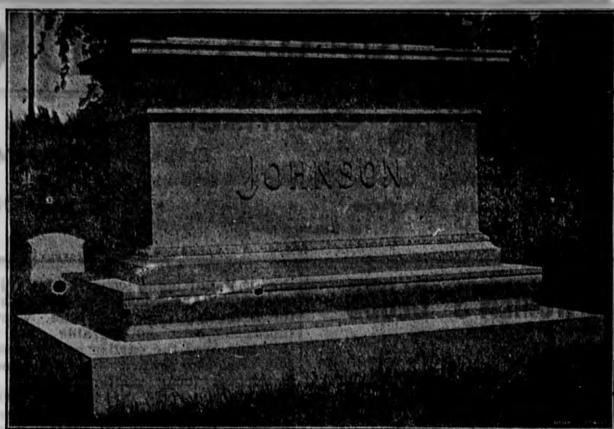

A very successful Bridge was held on Wednesday at which prizes in order named were taken by Mesdames H. L. Herrington, C. A. Boutelle and C. F. Daniels. The gentlemen winning were Dr. C. H. Veo, C. B. Somers and Dr. H. W. Thayer.

LODGES

Newton Lodge, I. O. O. F., gave a fine entertainment Monday evening in their lodge hall, West Newton, with "A Dress Rehearsal of the Pumpkin Hollow Brass Band" as the principal feature. There was a large attendance. Mr. John C. Skelton was chairman of the committee in charge.

CITY HALL

LABOR TROUBLES SETTLED

News of the Saxony Worsteds and Saco-Pettee Strikes

At a meeting of the operatives held on Friday, it was voted 272 to 57 to refuse the offer made that day by Mr. Frank J. Hale. There was a largely attended meeting of the English-speaking operatives in Wade Hall Monday night. Trouble was feared, as one of the L. W. W. speakers had advised the foreign employees to attend that meeting and use force if necessary. There was no trouble, however. Remarks were made by Mr. O. E. Nutter for the company and Rev. T. J. Danahy of the Catholic Church strongly advised the men to return to work. It was then decided to accept the proposition made by Mr. Hale by a vote of 129 to 106.

A delegation of the strikers Tuesday met the officials of the shop in conference and seemed willing to accept the compromise. It was stated at the conference that if 200 men would resume work the shop would re-open on Monday. At that time it is expected that all the skilled laborers will be in their places. The compromise of one cent an hour increase will take effect throughout the mill. The mauling and snagging departments will work 60 hours a week and the rest of the shop on a 55 hours a week basis.

The 550 employees of the Saxony Worsteds Co., with a factory on Chapel street, Nonantum, went on a strike Monday afternoon. The company has recently granted an increase of 5 per cent to all employees earning $8 a week or less, and the operatives, who are mostly French and Italians, demand 10 per cent. Most of the strikers are women, and on Tuesday about 200 formed a parade, with flags and banners with the words "Ten percent or no work," and marched about the village, then to Watertown, where the employees of Lewandows were invited to join them, then to the Aetna Mills at Bemis, where the same invitation was extended. When the parade came into the city limits again it was broken up by the police. Tuesday night, one of the women still employed at the mill, was assaulted as she was leaving the gate, and slightly injured.

Wednesday morning a delegation of the strikers met the officials and were informed that unless the operatives returned to work, the mill would shut down for the next six months. The strikers then came to the conclusion that they had better quit and all returned to work on Wednesday afternoon. The company manufactures a high grade of worsted yarn.

GIRL ATHLETES

Successful Indoor Meet at High School Gymnasium

The girls of the Newton High schools held an interesting and successful indoor meet last Friday afternoon at the high school gymnasium. There was a large attendance of parents and friends and the winners of the events were roundly applauded. The affair was in charge of the physical director, Miss Grace Shephardson, and her assistant, Miss Westgate.

About three hundred girls took part, all dressed alike in white blouses, dark blue bloomers, black stockings and shoes, the various classes being distinguished by the color of the loosely knotted tie, the seniors, being yellow, the juniors, blue, the sophomores a dark green and the freshmen, red. The girls made a fine appearance as they marched into the hall, filling a double row on three sides of the building and all sitting down cross legged at the word of command.

The floor work was marked with all the snap and precision of the Swedish movements and was given in a splendid manner by all four classes, and indicated the character of work done by Miss Shephardson and Miss Westgate. The judges, Miss Shaw, Miss Chaplin, Miss Spencer and Miss Bouve had great difficulty awarding first place to the juniors, with the seniors and sophomores tied. The other events were as follows:—

Rotary hand travelling, Miss Bruner '13, Miss Keth '13.
Plain hand travelling, Miss Hunter '14, Miss Valentine '14.
Rope climb, Miss Collins '12, Miss Brodick '14.
High standing at home, Miss Spinozola, '15, Miss Caldwell '13.
Ladder, Miss Helene Moore, '13.
Miss Proctor '13.
Saddle Vault, Miss Allen '14, Miss Condon '14.
Oblique Vault, Miss Dewey '13, Miss Alice Shumway '12.
Parallel vault, Miss Dewey '13, Miss Eleanor Shumway '15.
Box vault, Miss Ness '15, Miss Valentine '14.

Ball relay, the sophomores defeated the seniors in the final.
Arch ball relay, the sophomores defeated the juniors in the final.
Wand race, the sophomores defeated the juniors in the final.
Relay race, the seniors defeated the sophomores in the final.

The last numbers of the program consisted of fancy dancing by the different classes. The Irish lilt was most gracefully done by eight juniors, the girls wearing long green skirts, velvet bodice over white and the hair in two long braids in front. This was followed by the freshmen in a pretty schottische, sixteen taking part. The sophomores executed the Tarantella (Italian) and the Wooden shoes (Dutch) and the last and best number of all was given by the seniors and juniors dressed in white waists and black accorcion skirts in the Autumn leaves and Christmas waltz.

As Mr. Adams, the principal of the school announced the winners of each event there was long and loud applause and the juniors went wild when awarded the first place in the meet. The sophomores were given second place. The various classes then gave their class cheer and some of the more enthusiastic carried the more popular winners about the building on their shoulders.

Those who make light of the educated pig seem to forget that he is a crackjack when it comes to square root.

NEWTON CLUB

Leap Year Society Vaudeville a Great Success

Last Wednesday evening, the Entertainment Committee at the Newton Club, presented for the pleasure and edification of its members, one of the most novel, unique and entertaining programs of the season, consisting of a Leap Year Society Vaudeville. All of the artists were of the fair sex and the program was not only replete with unusual novelty, but also sterling worth, comprising as it did, classical and humorous readings, monologues, harp solos, vocal solos, numbers by a most excellent quartet of young society ladies and piano numbers by Jessie Downer-Eaton, as well as fancy dancing by Miss Burnham. The program was given under the direction of A. H. Handley and opened with a Waltz Song, "Carmena" by the quartet. An insistent encore was given to which the young ladies responded by singing a Scotch melody, unaccompanied. Miss Phyllis Hammond, the harpist, has only just returned from a tour of the country and received a warm welcome; her numbers were played with the regular Schuecker proficiency, for she is Mr. Schuecker's favorite pupil. Miss Erdine Cowlishaw read a scene from the famous Edison play, "Strongheart" and also gave one of O. Henry's readings entitled "By Courier." Both of these numbers were gems and encored heartily. Miss Conley, alto of the ladies' quartet sang "I Love You." Miss Conley was the vocal hit of the evening, her pure cello-like tones giving much pleasure. Her encore number was a pleasing South-dance, one from the famous "Coppelia Ballet" by Delibes and the other a "Tarantelle" of the Spanish order. Miss Burnham was a fascinating little body and pleased every one with her fascinating display of her art. Miss Beatty, the soprano of the quartet sang very nicely two soprano solos. The last one, "Philosophy" by Emmel being far above the order of the general soprano solo. It was given with vim, and virility; her diction being clear and distinct. Mrs. Jessie Downer-Eaton was the artistic success of the evening. Her own gavotte receiving a hearty response and the playing of her final number, a French Valse by Schott bringing an unusual program to a close. But notwithstanding the fact that this number was supposed to close the evening's entertainment, an encore was demanded, to which Mrs. Eaton played one of the lighter of Debussy's compositions. The whole program was a surprise in every way, its marked excellence and the beauty and ability of all who took part in it, making the evening a delightful one to all who were present.

His Honor, Mayor Charles E. Hatfield will give an illustrated talk next Wednesday evening. Subject, "Newton and its Assets."

H. M. S. PINAFORE

Governor Foss a Delightful Spectator at the Players' Hall

Players' Hall was crowded to the doors on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings by enthusiastic audiences to witness the elaborate production of Gilbert and Sullivan's ever new "Pinafore," given for the benefit of the hall. In fact the demand for seats was so great that several hundred persons attended the dress rehearsal on Saturday evening of last week, while the Wednesday evening's performance was honored by the presence of His Excellency the Governor, accompanied by Mrs. Foss and Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Foss.

There is no question but that this is the most elaborate amateur production ever given in this city and it is only fair to the management and participants to say that it would be hard to find a professional performance that would go any smoother and better than the three just given. The parts were well allotted and exceedingly well done. Mr. Thos. E. Stinson as "Sir Joseph Porter, K. C. B.," had ample opportunity for the display of his well-known histrionic abilities. As the foppish Lord of the Admiralty he was at his best and added new laurels to those already won. The "Captain Corcoran" of Mr. Chas W. Cole was full of dash and, while he looked the part to perfection, he sang it equally as well. His rendition of "Fair Moon" was greeted with enthusiastic applause.

Miss Elizabeth Upham, who appeared in the prima-donna role of "The Captain's Daughter," "Josephine," delighted the audience with her singing and merited the loud applause which she received. Miss Upham, who studied under Sebastiani, the celebrated Italian teacher, is the possessor of a soprano voice of exceptionally full and rich quality; she is well known as a vocalist in musical circles and sang with perfect mastery of voice and emotions entirely unconscious of effort or self.

"Ralph Rackstraw" was sung by Mr. Albert Pickernell, one of the first tenors of the Harvard Glee Club, and soloist at Grace Church. He made a handsome lover, and while at times he might have been a little more ardent in his love making, yet any shortcomings in this regard were more than offset by the beauty and grace of his singing.

"Little Buttercup" is a thankless part, but by no means an insignificant or easy one. That it was played most successfully by Miss Alice Sampson is saying much. She certainly acted and looked the part and lost no opportunity to make the most of it musically. She has a rich contralto voice which was heard to excellent advantage and her duet with Capt. Corcoran received a well-deserved encore.

As "Dick Deadeye" Mr. Ralph Somers made one of the decided hits of the show. His make-up was perfect and in playing the part gave evidence of a thorough knowledge of its character, and his musical numbers showed a baritone voice of fine timbre and quality. This was also his first appearance in this line of work, and our congratulations are most heartily offered.

Miss Marion L. Clapp made a charming "Hebe" to look at, while her acting and singing were fully equal to all the requirements of the part.

To Mr. E. I. Locke and Mr. Harold B. Stanton were assigned the parts of the Boatwain and Carpenter's mate, respectively, and both of these gentlemen deserve more than passing comment for their successful performance, while Miss Eleanor D. Lowe made one of the cutest "Middys" ever seen.

If much praise has been given the principals, certainly much more is due the large chorus. It seems the universal opinion of the audiences, that it would be hard to find upon the professional stage a chorus of thirty-eight ladies and gentlemen which would surpass that which has really "made" these performances of "Pinafore." For snap and dash there is nothing that could surpass their singing, while for volume when required, and balance of tone on the various parts they will be hard to equal. They were at all times attentive to the baton of the conductor and responsive to his wishes, and we venture the assertion that their equal in appearance, dramatic action, and vocally, has never been seen in Newton, and is rarely seen in professional productions.

To Miss Lillian Harrington is due a very large measure of praise for the success of the performances. She was "Mistress of the Dance," and originator of all four of the special dances which were interpolated into the performance. As a solo dancer she is unexcelled and she was remarkably successful in instilling a charm and grace into the work of the ladies and gentlemen of the chorus who participated in this part of the program. Her Spanish Dance in the first act, and her illustration of "The Merry Maiden and the Tar," in which latter she was assisted by Mr. Harold Whitney of Boston, were inimitable and was encored again and again.

The moonlight dance which was given by fourteen ladies of the chorus led by Miss Elsie Harrington, was one of the prettiest and daintiest bits of fancy dancing ever seen here, while the Octet dance was very enthusiastically received.

Too much cannot be said in praise of the work of the orchestra, which was made up of fourteen ladies and gentlemen from the Newtons, Brookline, Allston, Cambridge and Somerville. It is very easy for an orchestra to mar the best performance, but this one played at all times in tune, in the spirit of the music with a careful and intelligent reading of the score, and while giving adequate support to soloists and chorus, never covered them up.

The stage settings were elaborate and the costumes unusually fetching and harmonious. The blending of colors made a charming picture which in the dances and second act was greatly enhanced by the lighting effects which were in charge of Mr. Arthur Hosmer.

Certainly most hearty congratulations are due Miss Ethel Howland, who was the stage and business manager, and to Mr. Wm. G. Hambleton, the musical director—but they were able to present "Pinafore" to the Newton public in such an elaborate and successful manner.

A very attractive souvenir and advertising program was issued, and doubtless added very greatly to the financial success of the production, through the energies of Hon. Chas. E. Hatfield and Mr. Harry L. Burrage, who had this matter in charge.

EVENING SCHOOL CLOSSES

The evening school which has been conducted all winter at the Horace Mann School, gave its graduating exercises on Monday night. The program included recitations by Larry Cellucci, Fannie Colantuono, Joseph Amandala, Lillie Colantuono, solos by Margaret Howley, Joseph McGlinchey, and Fred Rosey, original compositions by Oda Nielson (in Danish and English), Veronica Lalleman (in German and English), and by Olive Jensen, a medley of nations by Bronislava Maruka, Esther White, Lydia Perander, Anna Sahlin, Ellen Hagen, George Seakavellos, Henri Pateau, George Boollam, Patrick Cannon and John Sanguinetti, and a Longfellow exercise by Mary Lowrey. At the conclusion of the program diplomas were presented by Mr. Albert M. Lyon of the school committee to these graduates, Mollie Berry, Helen Boudrot, Thomas Burke, Mildred Charlton, John DeCourcy, Katherine Delaney, Florence Dory, Katherine Dupell, Royano Guzzi, Mary Loughlin, Mary Lowrey, Daniel MacDonald, Katherine Maher, William Marchand, Josephine Nally, Lillian Pendergast, Edmund Richard, Philip Thompson and Elizabeth Turner.

GENTLEMEN'S NIGHT

The D. M. C. Club of Newton entertained their friends at a very delightful Leap Year Party Tuesday evening at the Winsor Club, Watertown. About thirty couples enjoyed dancing and whist, the music being furnished by Mr. Miller of Cambridge. The hall was tastefully decorated with apple-blossoms and college pennants. The dance opened with a cotillion and included a Favor German, the ladies being presented with heart-shaped pin balls, made in the club colors, orange and dark blue, while the men received boutonnières of violets. During intermission, refreshments were served and the party closed with a cotillion dance. The party was in charge of Mrs. Walter Moore, assisted by Miss Florence Burnham, Miss Margery Webster and Miss Bertha Moore.

MRS LAWRENCE DEAD

On Monday evening, March 26, Mrs. Georgiana, wife of Mr. Charles Lawrence of 174 Newtonville avenue, Newton, passed quietly away. Mrs. Lawrence has lived in Newton twenty-five years and made many friends because of her neighborly spirit and beautiful life. She identified herself with the Newton Methodist Episcopal Church on moving here from Cambridge and has been a very useful member of that society. She was for twenty-five years Superintendent of the Junior League and a great worker in the Primary Department of the Sunday School. She made friends easily and kept them by her faithful friendship. She had the grace of optimism and always saw the bright side of life and was able to put that same hopeful spirit into others. She was charitable and generous and never paraded the good work she tried to do. She was seventy-three years of age, but kept young and hopeful in her spirit even unto the last. She and her husband celebrated their golden wedding December 24, 1907. She leaves her husband, a son, Mr. J. E. Lawrence of Boston, and a daughter, Mrs. Geo. W. Barbee of Newton. The funeral was held at the late residence, 174 Newtonville avenue, Thursday afternoon at two o'clock. The service was conducted by Rev. Geo. S. Butters, D. D. and there was singing by a male quartet. The burial was in the family lot in the Cambridge Cemetery.

HUNNEWELL CLUB

Twenty-seven tables were filled at the ladies' matinee bridge on Friday afternoon, the prize winners being Mrs. Ridgely, Mrs. Hathaway, Mrs. Robinson, Miss Wilcox and Mrs. Coffin. Mrs. James F. Bothfield was in charge.

A nominating committee, consisting of Messrs. C. H. Barney, Abram Byfield, Dr. Edward Mellus, Ralph C. Emery, T. F. Murray, Howard Norton and G. S. Sprague were chosen last Saturday night.

A GIFT

And What It Brought

By F. A. MITCHEL

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

"Mother," said Edith Maynard, a girl of sixteen and just entering the age of romance, "I wish you would tell me a love story. Tell me one that really happened."

"Very well, dear, I know one that happened right in the family. I'll tell you about it. One summer day a little girl—we'll call her Emma, though that wasn't her real name—was about to go to the store of the village in which she lived to buy a dress. Her birthday was soon to come round, and her father had given her a five dollar gold piece to buy the dress for her birthday present. The day was hot, and she took care to keep under the shade of the trees that lined the road. Presently she came upon a boy—he looked to be about fifteen—lying asleep in the grass under one of the trees.

"Emma stopped to look at him. He was a handsome lad, slender and tall for his age, with a profusion of black curly hair tumbling over his forehead. His suit was open at the neck, exposing his throat. His whole figure was relaxed as only can occur in slumber.

"But even in sleep his face was troubled. His clothes had evidently been good when new, but they were now shabby. Emma wondered who he was and what troubled him. There is something very winning about a sleeper. Perhaps it is that relaxation which is so endearing in innocent children. At any rate, Emma, as she stood looking down at him, took him right into her heart.

"She would like to do something for him to take that troubled look off his face and replace it with a smile. It occurred to her to drop her gold piece into his fattened straw hat that lay beside him, then stand off and watch his expression when he awoke and saw it lying there shining in the sunlight flickering through the trees. But if she did this she must go without her dress. She involuntarily clutched the half eagle in a tighter grip. Again she pictured the boy awakening and his pleasure at seeing the coin in his hat. And thus she wavered till her sympathy and the pleasure of giving pleasure triumphed, and she dropped her gold piece into the hat. Then she climbed the fence beside the road and hid in some tall wheat which was nearly ready to be harvested.

"She waited nearly half an hour, not daring to take her eyes off the boy for an instant, fearing she would miss that first look of surprise she was giving treasure to see. At last he stretched himself, rubbed his eyes with his fists and sat up. He seemed to be trying to nerve himself to get up and go on, but was too tired to do so. Presently, with a sigh, he reached for his hat and saw the half eagle.

"It is questionable which would have been more delightful to a third person, the look of surprise of the boy or the expression of the little girl hidden in the wheat, clasping her hands over her breast as if to still the beating of her little heart, her eyes beaming with pleasure and expectancy.

"His eyes were fixed on the coin for a moment, then he began to look about him for the donor. Emma enjoyed it all immensely for awhile, then she began to think about what she should do. Would she make herself known or remain in hiding and let the boy go away with her treasure without knowing who had given it to him? If she took the former course he would return the gold piece. If she took the latter she would have given away her birthday present to one who could not even know her as the giver of it.

"But Emma was not a girl to go this far in doing a kindness and turn back. She kept very still, watching the boy, and it seemed as if she could read his thoughts. She fancied him saying, holding the coin in his hand and looking at it, 'I'm going to invest this money and work and save and make a fortune out of it.' Then, standing on his feet after looking all about him, he put the coin in his pocket and reluctantly went on.

"A great many years passed. 'How many years, mother?' 'Let me see. Emma had grown to be twenty-five years old, and she was about twelve when she gave away her birthday present. That means thirteen years.

"One day she heard that a man had offered to build a social clubhouse and give it to the town. The reason he offered it was that when a poor boy on his way to the city to look for a situation he had gone to sleep on the outskirts of the village and some one had dropped a five dollar gold piece into his hat. He had made lucky investments with the money, and it had grown from $5 to $20,000. But more than this, it had given him hope and courage, and he had succeeded in other directions. He wished to return the gift with interest, and, not knowing the donor, would give it to the town.

"Well, Emma met this man and became very much interested in him and he in her. One day when they were together—

"I know the end of the story," interrupted Edith. "He was the boy to whom Emma had given the half eagle."

"That isn't all there is to it," replied the mother.

"What else is there?"

"He was father and I am Emma."

SETTING THE LAKE AFIRE

By LAURA IDA ROSS

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

On one of the Vermont lakes there is a house one end of which projects over the water. Farmer Enoch Dale occupied the place with his family, consisting of his wife and children. His oldest daughter, Daisy, was a daisy indeed—straight, comely, and a pleasant smile usually played about her lips whenever she spoke.

"The only trouble about Daisy," said her father to his friend Hickson, "is that she's got a lover. I don't like him. He's a good boy, but there's no and in him. Nobody will ever accuse Dan Potter of setting the lake afire."

"Pears to me," replied Hickson, "that most gals at your darter's age have a lover if they can get one, and as for Dan Potter, I don't remember you or I ever settin' the lake afire."

"That may be," responded Dale, "but I'm not goin' to give Daisy to anybody that isn't well fixed nohow."

One night Dan was awakened by a glare of light shining in at his window, and, raising himself on his elbow, he looked out to see about it. It was across the lake and was either Farmer Dale's or one of two other houses that were built close together. A flame was just breaking out of one of the upper windows.

The first thought that entered Dan's head was that Farmer Dale would be burned to a char, and he hoped he would. The second thought was that Daisy might be burned, too, and this jumped him out of bed. Hurrying on his clothes, he ran down to the water edge, catching up a pair of oars as he went, got into a boat and started across the lake.

The distance was a mile, the burning house not being directly opposite Dan's starting point. As he drew near enough to get his bearings he saw that the house was Farmer Dale's. The light of the flames lit up the faces of persons standing about. A line had been formed to pass buckets of water, but the work had evidently been stopped by something appalling. The lookers on were running about wildly to no purpose, and Dan could see Farmer and Mrs. Dale with several of their children about them, wringing their hands. Daisy was not there.

The explanation was this: When the fire was discovered Farmer Dale took the smaller children, his wife carrying the youngest, and got them safely downstairs and out of the house. It was only then that he thought of Daisy, who occupied a room in that part of the house that overhung the lake.

Dale went upstairs again, but the fire, that had been caused by a defective chimney running up through the center of the building, had acquired such a headway at that point that it cut him off from Daisy's room. He ran downstairs and went about frantically, vainly looking for some way of reaching that portion of the house where Daisy slept. It being an extension over water prevented a ladder being raised, and the wind being off the shore the flames and smoke were blown so as to envelop the part he wished to reach.

While the shore was lighted by the flames Dan was in darkness and partly obscured by smoke. He was ignorant that Daisy was supposed to be still in the burning building, but he knew very well where her room was located, for he had often while out on the lake seen a white handkerchief waving to him from her window.

Perhaps it was this that led him instinctively to pull in as near as possible to the burning house. When he came so near as to feel the heat he turned the boat around and kept on slowly backing in. Then above the crackling, the roar and the shouts of those on the shore he heard a cry. He could see nothing for the smoke, but he backed his boat in to within some twenty yards of the house. Then he heard a splash in front of him, and he backed right in under flame and smoke till within a few feet of the house.

Suddenly something rose right up out of the water beside him. He seized it and held garments. Pulling the thing partly up out of the water, he realized that he held a human being. With difficulty he pulled the figure into the boat, and it lay limp in the bottom. Then, taking up the oars, he backed away from the heat and smoke that had become intolerable.

Reaching a point where the light, unobscured by smoke, enabled him to use his eyes, he saw that the figure in his boat was a woman in a nightgown. Turning up the face, he exclaimed:

"Great heavens! It's Daisy!"

Seizing the oars again, he pulled the boat with a few vigorous strokes to the shore some distance away from the burning building and gave a shout. Several persons heard him, Farmer Dale among them, and ran toward him.

"I've got Daisy here," he said. "She jumped into the lake and I picked her up."

Daisy was soon brought back to consciousness and was looked upon by her parents as one raised from the dead.

"Waal, Dale," said Hickson later, "since yer tried to set the lake afire and failed, I reckon yer don't expect as much of Dan Potter?"

"No, I don't," Dale replied.

"Goin' to give her to him?"

"Reckon she's his'n anyway, seein' if it hadn't been for him she wouldn't a' been alive."

FINE EXHIBITION

At First Annual Gymnasium Meet of
Y. M. C. A.

The fine work being done by Physical Director William Macpherson and his assistant, Mr. H. A. Loomis, in the gymnasium of the Newton Y. M. C. A. was strikingly manifested this week when the first annual exhibition in the new building was held on Wednesday and Thursday evenings with large audiences present on both nights.

The junior classes, numbering over 60 boys, gave an exhibition of marching and maze running under the leadership of Frank Hawkins and there were mass drills by the juniors and seniors, a striking dumb bell drill, a wand drill by the employed boys, a graceful schottische dance by the junior class, and a fine sailors hornpipe by the seniors.

In addition the program included work on the horizontal bar by the seniors, Mr. E. Johnson leader, on the parallel bars by the seniors, T. H. Morton leader, on the horse and springboard by the juniors, F. Caverley leader, on the mat by the juniors, A. Wilson leader, and on the rings by the employed boys, L. Lamb leader. A feather relay race by the juniors, where the object was to blow a feather across the hall and back again, caused lots of fun and an unknown clown added considerably to the pleasure of the evening, and incidentally bothered the boys in a good natured way. On Wednesday night there was a game of ring hockey and Thursday night, a game of indoor baseball. More special work was done on Thursday night, with some outside talent. Teams from Salem, Lynn and Boston were present and gave some fine exhibitions on the parallel bars, and horizontal bars, including the spectacular giant swing.

Mr. Ross Browning gave a fine solo dance and there was dancing by the junior class and a medley dance by the seniors. Exhibitions of boxing, wrestling and fencing were also interesting. Thursday night's exhibition was marred by an accident to Mr. Byron Porter of Lynn, who slipped on the parallel bars and fractured his wrist.

Mr. C. L. Ellison presented Association watch fobs to the members of the Bible class making the best record for attendance and lessons. The class, led by Edwin Fairweather, with 616 1-2 points, won, the other members being Donald Moore, Wallace Edmonds, Warren Sperl, Bertram Morgan and Everett Pinkham.

While Malcolm Willoughby broke all records in scoring 743 points, the championship cup was awarded to Leverett Woodworth, with 664 1-2 points, as Willoughby won the cup last year and was not eligible. Certificates were also awarded by Mr. Macpherson to Caverly, Tyrrell, Stebbins, W. Clark, McIntosh, J. Blanchard, Sullivan, Davis, Leach, Gooch and Hawkins.

Auburndale

The stereopticon lecture given Saturday evening at the Centenary parish house was a great success and a large audience enjoyed the fine presentation of the picture play, Longfellow's "Hiawatha" which was graphically illustrated by Mr. A. J. Kempton. The proceeds are for the benefit of the Boys' Club.

—Mrs. Lizzie H. Soule, widow of the late Enoch Soule, died Thursday, March 21st at the age of 71 years. Funeral services were held Saturday at 2.30 P. M. at her late residence on Lexington street and were largely attended. Rev. William C. Gordon, pastor of the Congregational Church officiated. The interment was at Portland, Me.

WRIGHTINGTON-JEWETT

Miss Marlon Douglass Jewett, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lawrence Jewett of West Newton was married Wednesday evening at her home on Berkeley street, to Mr. Sydney Russell Wrightington of Lexington. The ceremony was performed at 7.30 o'clock by Rev. Julian C. Jaynes of the Unitarian Church, with only the immediate families present. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Margaret E. Jewett, as maid of honor, and Mr. Richard B. Carter of West Newton was the best man. A reception followed until ten o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Wrightington will make their home in Lexington.

NOTED CLERGYMAN DEAD

After a brief illness Rev. Benjamin W. Atwell, D.D., died at his residence, 90 Washington street, Newton, Mass., Thursday morning, March 23, aged 73.

Dr. Atwell was born in Wakefield, Mass., August, 1838. In his childhood the family removed to Lowell, Mass., where he received his early education, graduating from the Lowell High School. Thence he went to St. Lawrence University, at Canton, N. Y., where he took both the collegiate and theological courses, and was ordained to the ministry of the Universalist Church. After a short time he retired and was received into the Episcopal Church, in due time taking Holy Orders. He was ordained by the celebrated Bishop Clark of Rhode Island, and became his assistant at Grace Church, Providence. From that charge he was called to St. Stephen's Church, Lynn, Mass., and next to St. Thomas' Church, Camden, Me. Thence he went to Potomac, Pa., and after a few years there took charge of the missionary work of the Diocese of Vermont, as Diocesan Missionary—or Archdeacon. His last rectorate was at Shelburne, Vt. A few years ago he retired from the active work of the ministry, and removed to Newton.

Dr. Atwell was a teacher of elocution in his earlier days, and, besides training a number of men who became prominent in public life, taught in several schools and gave public readings. He wrote Atwell's "Elocution of Elocution," a book much used in the last generation.

His wife died last October and he is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Edward E. Dearborn of Newton, and one sister, Mrs. A. F. Hurd of Stoneham, Mass.

Funeral services will be held Monday morning at 10.45 o'clock at the Grace Church.

FORMER RESIDENT DEAD

Mr. George Linder, who died at his home in Brookline last Sunday, at the age of 68 years, was a well known former resident of this city, where he lived until six years ago. Mr. Linder was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., and was the son of George and Matilda (Smallwood) Linder. He married Mary H. Farlow of this city and is survived by her two daughters, Mrs. Mary Goodwin of Brookline, Mrs. Dwight M. Prouty of Boston, and two sons, George Linder of Seattle, Wash., and John F. Linder of Canton. Funeral services were held Tuesday, the burial being at the Newton Cemetery.

GETHSEMANE COMMANDERY

Knights Templars Entertain Four Hundred Guests

The officers of Gethsemane Commandery for the present year are: Sir Asa C. Jewett, Commander; Sir Edward P. Hatch, Generalissimo; Sir Charles J. Shepard, Captain General; Sir George Breeden, Prelate; Rev. Sir John Matteson, Associate Prelate; Sir Charles D. Burrage, Senior Warden; Sir A. H. Decatur, Junior Warden; Sir E. J. B. Fuller, Treasurer; Sir A. S. Bryant, Recorder; Sir C. W. Henderson, Jr., Standard Bearer; Sir George H. Dale, Sword Bearer; Sir D. F. Lord, Warder; Sir Carl B. Horton, 3d Principal Guard; Sir Abbott W. Blodgett, 2d Principal Guard; Sir George L. Sleep-

Building, Newtonville, and was one of the prettiest and jolliest parties ever held in this city. The program included a pop concert, whist and dance and over four hundred Sir Knights and their ladies were present. While Atwood's Orchestra rendered popular music from the balcony of Temple Hall, the Commandery served their guests with light refreshments. While the coffee was being served, every person in the hall received a large paper bag containing a paper head dress of some fanciful design, and the hall was made gay with gorgeous colors. The guests were then furnished with paper horns, whistles and clappers, and when some genius began to blow up the paper bags and explode them, a miniature Fourth of July was created. Confetti added the final touch and when the tangle was unwound, the party adjourned to the asylum up-

The third and last in the series of entertainments given by Gethsemane Commandery, Knights Templar, was held last evening in the Masonic stalls, while the hall was made ready for dancing. The Commandery escort under command of Adjutant Albert E. Billings gave an exhibition drill, and the Eminent Commander of Massachusetts and Rhode Island, Lafayette G. Blair, made a few remarks.

Dancing was enjoyed until midnight, with Sir Knight C. W. Henderson as floor director.

The whist was under the direction of Sir Knight D. Frank Lord and the beautiful prizes of cut glass were won by Mrs. F. S. Baston of Norwood, Mrs. Evans of Boston, Dr. W. E. Peterson and J. C. Brimblecom.

THEATRES

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.—Robert Edson, who is admittedly one of the most popular stars who visit Boston, has created a lot of discussion because of his temerity in departing from the line of characterizations with which his name has long been associated. Everybody remembers how Mr. Edson has been the popular hero of all his plays, the one who could be depended upon at the eleventh hour to say the right word and do the right thing. Yet in his latest stellar vehicle, "The Indiscretion of Truth," Mr. Edson plays the character of Bruce Darrell, a college athlete, who has nothing to recommend him to public favor save his prowess as an athlete. The role is very strong in its acting capabilities, and Mr. Edson convinces by his complete mastery of its difficulties that he is not a one-line actor, as so many become who have stayed for years in roles of a similar nature. "The Indiscretion of Truth" is a most refreshing entertainment of comedy and drama, about evenly divided. It is replete with epigrammatic wit and startling dramatic situations. The Hollis Street Theatre has not housed a better company in a more pleasing play for a long while. The usual matinee will be given next week on Wednesday and Saturday.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.—"The Prince and the Pauper" is among the most popular of Mark Twain's stories, and it has been no less popular on the stage. It has not been given at the Castle Square before, and its coming next week will therefore be in the nature of a decided novelty. Throughout the play there is a constant succession of scenes of strong dramatic power, interspersed with comic incidents that add to its liveliness and variety. The work of impersonating the dual roles of the Prince and Tom Canty will be entrusted to Miss Henrietta McDannel, who will be remembered for her acting of Peter in "The End of the Bridge," of Cedric Errol in "Little Lord Fauntleroy," and Skippy Hinks in "The Product of the Mill." Mr. Craig will appear as Miles Hendon, and to fill out the other characters, the leading members of the Castle Square players have been chosen.

THE NEWTON HIGH SCHOOLS

The Seniors of the Technical High School will give a play on April 12th and 13th.

A petition has been circulated and signed by all the pupils of the High School requesting that better food be served in the lunch room at noon.

Members of the Girls' Glee Club sang Wednesday morning in the Assembly Hall.

As more money is needed for the Newtonian, the annual paper of the High School, the seniors will give an entertainment the latter part of April for the benefit of the paper.

The Senior Reception will be held on Saturday evening, April 27, in Temple Hall, Newtonville.

Members of the girls' basketball and hockey teams had their pictures taken Monday at Nichols studio.

Wednesday morning the Tech. College Senior, Junior and Sophomore divisions assembled in the hall and were entertained by the French department. Extracts from "Terri-chorn" were presented in French and were highly appreciated by the audience. After the play the "Marselles" was sung by the girls.

The Senior play is to be held on April 12th and 13th at 7.45 in the assembly hall of the Technical High. The play is called "A Fool For Luck," and is expected to be an even greater success than last year's play. Tickets are 35 and 50 cents.

The High School was entertained on last Wednesday morning by the Rev. E. J. Sullivan of Newton Centre. The Girls' Glee Club sang several selections.

The Senior class has elected the following officers for graduation day: Girls' Prophet, Miss MacLure; Boys' Prophet, Leonard; and Statistician, Tapley. Miss Clapp is valedictorian.

H. M. S. PINAFORE

After the curtain had rung down on the Wednesday evening's performance Miss Howland was presented with a beautiful bracelet set with pearls and emeralds, by the cast, while the proprietors of the hall, Messrs. Hatfield and Burrage, also presented her with a beautiful silver vase.

It is hoped these performances are only a beginning and that another year may witness a still greater success along the same lines under the same auspices.

COSTLY SUBWAYS

The public is rejoicing in the opening last Saturday of the Cambridge subway. There is a financial side to this subway proposition, however, which it is altogether suitable to consider, even at the risk of introducing a discordant note into a chorus of thanksgiving.

The Cambridge subway has cost $11,750,000 including the Boston end or "Cambridge connection" as it is called by the rapid transit commission. This enormous sum of money represents an addition to fixed charges of at least $750,000 per annum, including only moderate allowances for depreciation of rolling stock and incidental repairs, plus an allowance of say 5 per cent for interest on the principal. Probably the new money for the enterprise has cost rather over than under 5 per cent. Assuming, however, that $750,000 is a fair allowance for the carrying charge of the new rapid transit route, it is entirely within the facts to state that the subway must produce at least $1,500,000 of new gross business to even pay for itself.

This would be an addition of 10 per cent to the present revenues of the elevated system. It would represent the expenditure of $10 more yearly by every one of the 150,000 persons whom the subway will serve above what they are now paying for transportation to the elevated. Considering the fact that the per capita expenditure for elevated transportation in the district served by the Elevated is only $13 to $14 per annum, it is clear at a glance that the new subway must at the outset produce a very small fraction of the $750,000 carrying charge. The burden will fall directly on the Boston Elevated net earnings.

The public but faintly understands how enormous is the capital investment which Boston Elevated has made in the Cambridge district. The company has, including this subway, a total of $18,000,000 invested in this portion of the greater metropolitan district. This is the greatest bulk of capital serving a similar population with rapid transit facilities in any equal portion of the world. It figures out an investment of $1400 for each dwelling house in Cambridge. Or stated even more strikingly it means that for each minute of time which the new route will save there has been invested a total of $688,000 of capital.

When the East Cambridge extension is finished, there will be added $1,750,000 to the present $18,000,000 Cambridge investment, making a total of $20,000,000 for this portion of the Elevated territory.

The moral of these figures is obviously that while rapid transit may possess its popular side, it is also exceedingly expensive and pushed beyond certain limits it is an invitation to financial breakdown.—Boston News Bureau.

ALCOHOL CHAT

A prominent druggist recently said to us, "you have the goods, but people don't know it." This expression contains some slang it is true, but it explains why we are using newspaper space to convince you that we make Alcohol that can be depended upon, the kind that you will enjoy using, the kind that is refreshing to smell of, and will never have any objectionable odor when used in the sick room. The next time you have occasion to buy any Alcohol, ask your druggist for Graves' Grain Alcohol, and when you get it see that the firm signature, Chester H. Graves & Sons is on the face and neck label over the cork.

Little Johnny visiting his relatives on the farm heard a great deal of talk about cutworms. "But why do you cut them?" he asked. "Why don't you sell 'em whole?"

Secret Baseball Signals.

"Perhaps you never realized that there is an exact science in coaching and signaling," says Hugh S. Fullerton, writing on the secret tricks of baseball coaching in the American Magazine; "that the two men out there near first and third bases, who seem to be making fools of themselves or trying to annoy the majestic man in blue serge, are the wigwag men signaling to runners or batters just what the general sitting on the bench wants them to try to do. Sometimes the general is on the lines himself, looking just as foolish as the wigwag men or more so, but somewhere, hidden in his meaningless or hackneyed phrases or his wild gestures, there is a meaning. He is telling the batter not to hit the next ball or to bunt it or informing him that the next will be a straight fast ball and at the same time informing the base runner that the batter intends to hit and that he must start at top speed when the pitcher starts to wind up."

Salt Water Bathing.

Dr. Copeman of Brighton, London, writing in the Practitioner, London, gives some advice on sea bathing. "The best time to bathe is about two hours after breakfast, the period of greatest vital activity," says Dr. Copeman. "The one time which must be avoided by all is after a full meal. During the process of digestion the vessels of the internal organs are already engorged with blood, and the shock of the cold water is apt to produce a very dangerous condition of congestion, the least of many penalties that may accrue being an acute attack of indigestion. With many keen bathers it is an article of faith to bathe before breakfast. But business men, after months of unremitting toil, those who are below par or who are getting on in years, should avoid taxing their system by bathing at such a time. Even the most robust would be wise to partake of a cup of hot milk before leaving the house."

Salt.

Salt production is about the oldest industry in the world. In Italy, the cradle of the salt industry, it has been manufactured commercially for 2,500 years. Salt is so necessary to existence that in some parts of the world tribes will sell the members of their families in exchange for salt. Salt has been the cause of wars, and so important has it always been considered that in some places the passing of salt is established as a token of friendship, and women throw salt on a visitor as a friendly greeting. In some countries salt is so scarce that it is obtained through the ashes of grasses and a species of palm and other plants. While salt is produced in almost every country in the world, it is stated that nowhere can salt of such purity be obtained at anything like the cost for mining as in Louisiana.—Manufacturers' Record.

A Real Gas Plant.

There are two varieties of gas plant. One is a manufacturing establishment where coal is converted into gas for illuminating and heating purposes. The other variety is a real growing plant called the fraxinella. Few know why the fraxinella is called the "gas plant." This is because at certain times it releases a volatile oil that actually ignites if allowed to come in contact with a lighted match. The fraxinella is also noted for its fragrance and longevity if not disturbed. One plant in a New England garden is doing its best to outlive a third generation, and elsewhere a clump is still flourishing after no less than thirty-seven years on a grave—one of the most difficult of places for a perennial to keep up a long struggle for existence, let alone a normal life.—New York World.

Gifted.

"I don't know what I'm ever going to make of that son of mine," complained a prominent Cleveland business man the other day. The old chap is self-made, a graduate of the university of hard knocks and all that, and it naturally grieves him to have a son who is not aggressive. "Maybe your son hasn't found himself yet," he consoled. "Isn't he gifted in any way?" "Gifted? I should say he is! He ain't got a darned thing that wasn't given to him."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Big William Penn.

The statue of William Penn at the city hall in Philadelphia weighs thirty tons and is thirty-seven feet high. Some other dimensions are: Hat rim, twenty-three feet in circumference; nose, thirteen inches long; eyes, twelve inches long and four inches wide; hair, four feet long; arms, twelve feet six inches long; waist, twenty-four feet in circumference; legs, from ankle to knee, ten feet; calf, eight feet eight inches in circumference.

Beats a Good Wife.

An orator holding forth in favor of woman—dear, divine woman—concluded thus: "Oh, my friends, depend upon it, nothing beats a good wife." "I beg your pardon," replied a woman. "Sure, a bad husband always does."—London Telegraph.

Early Rising.

The difference between rising in the morning at 6 and 7 o'clock in the space of forty years—supposing a man to go to bed at the same hour at night—is nearly equivalent to the addition of ten years to a life of three-score years and ten.

Where is the man who has the power and skill to stem the torrent of a woman's will?—Old English Proverb.

It was a masterpiece. When Mrs. Everett again favors Boston, she will receive a warm welcome from Newton ladies and their friends.

CAN WE BELIEVE THE DEITY OF JESUS CHRIST?

Despite the exceedingly inclement weather a large congregation welcomed the Rev. Julian K. Smyth of New York, lecturing in answer to the question, "Can we Believe the Deity of Jesus Christ?" at the Church of the New Jerusalem, Newtonville, last Sunday evening. The lecture was in Mr. Smyth's own strong and convincing style, and made a deep impression upon the minds of his hearers.

It began with a reference to the attitude of the apostolic Christians toward the question, "Who was Christ?" They had no theological difficulties. They thought of Him as their Redeemer and Lord, and that was enough. Their faith in Him was such that neither tortures nor prison nor death could shake it. It was the guiding power of their lives. And through it they conquered the world.

But with this conquest a new development began. Having defeated men's passions and prejudices, Christianity began to come into conflict with their doubts. And so theology was born, the tri-personal theology; and a religious reign of terror followed as men fought and persecuted one another in defense of personal interpretations. Sect after sect arose, and has continued to arise till now.

Did this mean that Christ's coming was a failure? No, for he Himself predicted it. He said that "the love of many would wax cold." He even likened this to the end of the world. But He also said that He would come again, "not with observation," not visibly, but spiritually. He said that his coming would be that of the "Spirit of Truth," who should lead men into all truth.

The New Church believes the only interpretation of the phenomena of modern life to be that we are living in the time of the Second Coming. It bases this belief upon the fact that a new method of interpreting the Scriptures has been given to the world, and that through it Christ is once more clearly made to be God, the one true object of the Church's faith and devotion.

It was in the opening of the Scriptures that the apostles of old found their wondrous power. After the crucifixion and burial of their Master, hope and expectation were dead in their hearts. They were but a parcel of ignorant and broken-hearted men. But after His memorable appearance, and still more after the Pentecostal illumination, they became world-conquering heroes. It is this element and power in primitive Christianity which the historical critics, with all their erudition, have never adequately explained. What mere man could have claimed to be the hope of a whole nation, to have had all the details of His life foretold in the religious Scriptures of a race without an appearance of offensive egotism? What man, making such a claim, would have had any hope of its being accepted for two thousand years, of its being the inspiration of the greatest religious movement in history? Yet it was just this claim that gave to primitive Christianity its force and power.

"The Christ of modern criticism and of liberal Protestantism is the Christ of the Gospels with all that really makes Him Christ left out. Let such a Christ do such good as he can; but in our efforts to be charitable to such a conception, and to those who are trying to be satisfied with it, let us not forget the Christ that made Christianity, the Christ of the gospels. That is a Christ of very different proportions: divine in origin; divine in love; divine in wisdom; divine in authority; the Word made flesh; having all power in heaven and on earth; human in all that pertained to the nature which He assumed by incarnation, but absolutely, infinitely above us in the inmost essence of His being; the forthcoming of Deity, God with us."

Affirming that this is the view of Christ which is and will be always taken by the New Church, the lecturer closed with a quotation from a poem called "The Crystal," by Sidney Lanier. After eulogizing the great men of history, yet finding in each some flaw or imperfection, the poet says,

"What 'if' or 'yet,' what mote, what flaw, what lapse, What least defect, or shadow of defect, What rumor, tattled by an enemy, Of inference loose, what lack of grace, Even in torture's grasp, or sleep's, or death's, Oh, what amies may I forgive in Thee, Jesus, good Paragon, thou Crystal Christ?"

PLAYGROUND IMPROVEMENTS

Forest Commissioner Bucknam has made plans for greatly improving the public playgrounds in the city. Two more tennis courts will be constructed on the Newton Centre playground, two at Upper Falls, two at Lower Falls, and two at Boyd Park. In addition there will be iron framed swings placed on the Stearns playground and sand boxes and see-saws for the children. At the new playground at Newton Highlands a metal frame backstop for the ball players is being erected, and a sanitary drinking fountain will be placed there as soon as the frost leaves the ground.

POLITICAL NOTES

Rival papers for district delegates to the Republican national convention have been circulated about the city this week, those for President Taft, bear the names of Councillor J. Stearns Cushing of Norwood and Senator George L. Barnes of Weymouth as delegates and Louis E. Flye of Holbrook and Wendell Williams of Milford as alternates. The Roosevelt ticket has the names of James W. French of Newton and Frank H. Morrill of Norwood as principals and Alderman Franklin T. Miller of Newton and C. Edson Abbott of Franklin as alternates.

TRANSFUSION FAILS

Mrs. Josephine V. Furdon, the wife of Thomas E. Furdon of Pine street, West Newton, died Friday at the Newton Hospital. Her husband endangered his own life by having a quart of blood transfused into the body of his wife in a vain attempt to revive her strength. Mrs. Furdon is survived by two small children. Funeral services were held Monday morning at St. Bernard's church.

HE WOULDN'T BE A HERO

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1911, by Associated Literary Press

Joe Harper was a sturdy young farmer, and Ellen Taylor was the daughter of another, and they were engaged to be married. All their friends said it would be a sensible match. Joe was given the credit of lots of "horse sense," and no one could say that the young woman was a bit frivolous. That is, they couldn't until after a certain girl friend of hers from town had made her a three weeks' visit and left four or five novels behind her when she departed.

Those novels were about heroes, cavaliers, chevaliers and knights. They told of perils, combats and rescues. Mrs. Taylor would have chuckled them into the stove had she found them and boxed her daughter's ears besides, but she didn't find them. They were read at night after the rest of the family was asleep. By the time she had finished the second one the girl was looking askance at Joe. He was sunburned and freckled; his ears were rather large; instead of saying prithies, he said by gosh. In all the novels the chevaliers had plumes in their hats; Joe didn't even wear a hen's feather in his old straw. He had a hoe on his shoulder instead of a lance, and he plowed corn with an old scabbitten mare instead of riding around on an Arabian steed.

No, Joe didn't size up for shucks, compared to the chevaliers.

In the meadow, near the field where Joe was plowing corn, a colony of bumble bees had taken up their quarters in a tuft of grass. This fact was known to the Taylor family, and the farmer intended to rout them out some evening. Bumble bees are not chevaliers, but they are the next thing to it. At 2 o'clock one afternoon, when it was seen that Joe and the old mare were hard at work, Miss Ellen put on her bonnet and walked out to that bumblebee caucus. At five feet from it she halted and screamed and danced around.

The scream reached Joe Harper's ears, and he let go of the plow handles and made for the fence. In an instant he realized the situation, but he didn't dash forward and fall over several stumps. Instead of doing he sat on the fence and called out:

"Ellen, why in thunder don't you run away?"

"Oh, the bumble bees!" she shouted.

"Yes, but don't stand there like an idiot! Make for the house!"

A week had passed and the stings had been cured, when Joe got another chance. At 2 o'clock one afternoon Miss Ellen sat on the veranda sewing and wondering how Joe would look in armor and on horseback, when she caught sight of a big dog coming along the highway on the gallop. She screamed for Joe again. He dropped his hoe and came running, but paused as he reached the fence to ask what was the matter.

"Mad dog! Mad dog!" she shouted.

"Then climb up that ladder on to the roof of the kitchen!"

No rushing to the rescue, no beating the dog's brains out, no remarks worth leaving to posterity. Miss Ellen was furious with him. That was the reason a rung of the ladder broke as she was descending and precipitated her on an ashheap. Within an hour the chevalier of the hoe received word that he need never show up at the Taylor house again. The engagement was off.

"Now look at that!" he exclaimed when he had been made to understand. "There was that ladder handy to climb. I saw the dog coming and knew it belonged to Perkins. Was there any need for me to break my other suspender? And if it had been a real mad dog would it have helped the case any for both of us to have been bitten?"

Joe stayed away. He had been told to and he obeyed. At the end of two weeks he took a day off to go fishing. Miss Ellen heard through her brother that he was going, and she made a little plan. She had got over being mad at the man who wouldn't be a hero. In fact, she wanted to "make up." She would go a-dabbling too. She wouldn't fish for fish, but for Joe Harper. The lover of other and zappier days was fishing from a shady bank when she came into view, but he was on the other side of the stream. He watched her walk out on a strand and said to himself:

"If she gets a bite and jerks up her pole she'll sure go off that log."

Two minutes later the thing happened. There was a nibble, a jerk and a yelp, and after the yelp a yell for Joe. He had been seen. The water was only about three feet deep, and it was the girl gulped her feet after the yelp she was called to:

"Don't get skeart, Ellen!"

"Oh, Joe—Joe!"

"You can wade ashore easy enough."

"Joe, I shall—shall!"

"No, you won't."

In the six weeks following the bet she was ten to one that Joe and Ellen would never marry, but those who have the odds lamented it. The two met on the highway, and after pre-arranging not to see each other they halted, and the girl said:

"Joe, I wanted to marry a hero."

"Well, I ain't one."

"I wanted to marry a hero, but I guess I'll have to take up with a great, big, good natured, staided farmer."

"Looks that way to me, Ellen," smiled Joe, and that evening the marriage day was set.

EDITORIAL

For President,
WILLIAM H. TAFT

President Taft has done a great service in calling attention to the fact that the majority of the voters are but a small portion of the population, and that the rights of the people to life, liberty and happiness require a constitution for their protection. In this connection it is interesting to note that Mayor Hatfield was chosen mayor last December by a vote of 5290, less than half the registered voters of the city, about 30 per cent of the adult male population of the city and about 9 per cent of the population. Governor Foss was elected governor last fall by a vote of less than 7 per cent of the population, and President Taft received in 1908 about 8 per cent of the population. With these significant facts in mind I believe the people of this country should act cautiously on any proposition which will endanger the rights of so many persons,
now governed by such a small portion of the population.

The Aldermen have acted wisely in voting to hold the coming presidential primaries by precincts or groups of precincts. Newton is so situated that one voting place in a ward often prevents many citizens from casting their ballots on account of the distance from their homes to the polling place. As the coming primaries promise to be of considerable interest to both parties, it is well to ensure a large expression of opinion.

The evening schools which have just closed for the present season are doing splendid work in educating men, women and children, who will benefit themselves and the entire community in far larger proportion than the education given the so-called better classes.

The epidemic of strikes all around us shows the great need of educating the foreign born to American ideas and ideals.

In the approaching contest in this state between adherents of President Taft and ex-president Roosevelt,
let us not forget that we are all Republicans and will support the nominee of the June convention whoever he may be. Acrimony should have no part in settling the question as to the better man to nominate and elect
as president of these United States.

FORTNIGHTLY CLUB, NEWTON CENTRE

The meeting on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Robert E.
Anderson on The Ledges road was of particular interest to the club members, because Mrs. W. N. Donovan, one of the members gave her delightful lecture-recital on "Little Folks of Yesterday and Today." The lecture differs widely from "Childlife in Poem and Song" which Mrs. Donovan gave before this club last year, but is quite as charming in its way. Her sketches of the children of the different periods of the last century was pleasingly illustrated by songs varying from the "Daisy and Cowslip" collection of 1807 to the modern ones
of Kipling, Stevenson, and Peabody.
Miss Bertha Forbes assisted at the plans. Mrs. Arthur C. Badger of Oak Hill had charge of the tea table.

The annual luncheon will be held on Wednesday the 10th of April at the home of Mrs. Burton Payne Gray.

"I'm tired of laying eggs," complained the hen. "And I'm tired of laying about them," chimed in the dealer
in the cold-storage product.

Riding a Giraffe.

General Wood of the English army was the hero of many adventures, but the one he called the strangest in the time he rode a giraffe in India. With a party of friends he was being entertained by the rajah of Jowra, who exhibited his rare collection of wild animals to his guests. General (then Major) Wood was a daring horseman and on a wager offered to ride the giraffe with no bridle save a rope.
The rajah warned him of the danger,
but he would not listen. So the giraffe was brought to a balcony, from which the major vaulted on its back. Instantly the great creature was off like the wind, and, once fairly started, it settled down into a curious gallop that soon made the rider so sick and dizzy
that he fell off like a log, receiving a blow on the head from the animal's knee and then in the face from its foot. He was unconscious for an hour, and the first use he made of his voice
was to resolve that he would never ride a giraffe again.

Morgan as a Mathematician.

J. P. Morgan was almost bred a mathematician. While at Göttingen Morgan specialized in mathematics,
and with the professor of mathematics he would spend long hours at problems. Some years ago a number of New Yorkers who had been at the Göttingen university together held a dinner and invited their old professor of mathematics, who happened to be visiting this country, to be present.
The German stood his ground—he gave them his own idea. Looking at Mr. Morgan, he said that he was indeed very glad his old pupil had succeeded so well as a banker. "But I regret," he went on, "that you did not remain at the university. Had you stayed with me you would have been my assistant as long as I lived, and unquestionably at my death you would have been appointed professor of mathematics in my place."—Metropolitan Magazine.

Dust Whirls.

Seaward flowing waters are not alone responsible for the denudation of soils. Those who have watched dark dust storms approaching will be interested to know that estimates of solid material suspended in the air run from 100 to 120,000 tons per cubic miles of air where such storms are prevalent. The neolian geologist, Udden, taking conservative values and using fairly accurate data for the number, velocity and duration of the dust storms in the western states, concluded that "on the average about 850,000,000 tons of dust are carried 1,440 miles each year, thus doing in this region alone about 1,225,000,000, 000 mile tons of transport." The dust whirls run each an average distance of 218 miles.

Millepedes.

The little creature which possesses
the distinction of having more legs than any other animal is that which belongs to the family of insects known as millepedes or thousand footed. There are several different species of these,
but they all possess the common characteristic of having segmented bodies,
each segment of which is provided with its own pair of feet. These are set so closely along the body as to resemble hairs, and when they move one after another with perfect regularity
the effect is precisely the same on a small scale as that of a field of oats undulating under the influence of the wind. Some species of millepedes have as many as 350 separate and distinct legs. They are all perfectly harmless.

Encouragement Enough.

"But why should you be so dreadfully surprised and disappointed when I decline your offer?" she asked recently. "I am certain that I never gave you the least encouragement to propose to me."

"You did!" he cried bitterly. "You gave me the greatest encouragement."

"When?"

"When you told me your income was $25,000 a year."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Sarcastic Wills.

One eccentric Frenchman directed that a new cooking recipe should be passed on to his tomb every day, and another Frenchman, who was a lawyer, left $50,000 to a lunatic asylum, declaring that it was simply an act of restitution to the clients who were insane enough to employ his services.

Staging a Play.

"I can give you the part of a butler."

"I couldn't take a small part like that."

"You are evidently not used to society drama. The butler has his share of the epigrams."—Pittsburg Post.

His Intentions.

Mrs. Rusher-Hill, Mr. Goldstein, with whom you have been dancing all
the evening, at last declared his intentions. Mabel? Mabel—Yes, aunt. Mrs.
Rusher—I am so glad! And what did he say? Mabel—He declared he would never marry.—Vogue.

Trinidad's Pitch Lake.

All efforts to ascertain the depth of the famous pitch lake of Trinidad has been unsuccessful. At the sides of the lake the pitch is hard and cold,
but at the center it is almost constantly boiling.

Happiness.

Happiness is rather a negative than a positive term in this world and consists more in the absence of somethings than in the presence of others.
—Sam Slick.

Fine manners need the support of the manners of others.—Emerson.

Dr. Johnson and Fruit.

The return of the strawberry season
was always heartily welcomed by Dr.
Johnson, for, as he once declared, of strawberries and cream he never could have too much. Fortunately he sometimes had opportunity to indulge his taste to the full, for his friend, Dr.
Taylor of Litchfield, whom he considered when possible to visit at strawberry time, was rather a noted fruit grower, and when at his house it was,
as Johnson said, with gusto, "Strawberries and cream, toujours strawberries and cream!" A voracious eater at any time, Johnson's appetite for fruit
was almost limitless. Mrs. Thrale tells us that he used often to eat half a dozen peaches before breakfast, and then frequently she had heard him complain that never in all his life had he quite as much wall fruit as he desired, save once. The exceptional occasion was during a visit to Lord Sandys' sent at Ombersley. The exact quantity he then devoured has not been recorded, but he was accused of clearing a whole wall side.—Fall Mail Gazette.

The Light of Crystals.

All diamonds do not shine in the dark after exposure to sunlight or electric light, but some do to a remarkable degree. A diamond rubbed with a woolen cloth or against a hard surface will sometimes shine brilliantly.
The emission of light is a property belonging to many if not all kinds of crystals.

A variety of white marble found at Hastings-on-the-Hudson, N. Y., gives out a flame colored glow when pounded and bright flashes when scratched with steel. In northern New York is found a kind of stone known locally
as "hell fire rock," which exhibits bright sulphur colored streaks when scratched in the dark. Pieces of rose quartz rubbed together exhibit brilliant flashes, sometimes bright enough to illuminate the hands of the person holding them. Smoked quartz and other varieties sometimes show a similar phenomenon. —Chicago Record-Herald.

Not Lively.

Anna Maria Wilhelmina Pickering,
in her memoirs, edited by her son,
tells a Yorkshire incident which contains a great deal of human nature.
Variety spices life. The plan is monotonous until its extent entitles it to the name of prairie or desert and it gains interest through vastness.

There was an old couple in the village whom I used often to go to see.
One day when I found them sitting,
one on each side of the fire, the old man said to me:

"Well, t'missis and me, we've been married nigh on fifty years, and we've never had one quarrel!"

The old woman looked at me with a twinkle in her eye and said:
"It war varrie conscientious, but varrie dool!"

The Bloody Hand.

The noted English family of the Holtes has for its badge a bloody hand,
and this sinister badge commemorates
a wager that ended in a crime. Sir Thomas Holte one day in 1612 was hunting. He invited his comrades home with him to dinner, and as he rode along he made a heavy bet on his cook's punctuality. But the cook failed him for once. When he got home dinner was not ready. The jeers of his companions at this failure, together with his huge loss in the matter of the wager, enraged him so that he ran into the kitchen, seized a cleaver and split
the cook's head open with it. Afterward his family, to keep this crime alive, adopted for its crest the bloody hand of the cook killer.

An Eskimo's Dwelling.

We do not look for any great amount of inventive genius among the Eskimos, but for years they have employed a rather complete respirator, used in the preparation and taking of a vapor bath, as a means of protection from the dense smoke. This Eskimo respirator is a little basket woven of twisted strands of fine grass. It is placed with its shallow side against the mouth, and a wooden peg, which arises from the center of the basket, is held between the teeth. For this purpose water is evaporated over a big fire in a very low hut, which is tightly closed to keep in the heat. In this stifling atmosphere the employment of a respirator is absolutely necessary.—London Globe.

The Tyrolean.

You may find the artistic temperament among the peasants in the villages of Bavarian Tyrol. They talk still of the King Ludwig, who lavished money on palaces and died an insane suicide and murderer. You remind them that they are still paying off the debts of the mad king. They reply cheerfully that they are glad of it, for Ludwig loved music and gave us Wagner.—London Chronicle.

A Stirring Appeal.

The following epistle was sent by an angry tenant to his landlord:
Dear Sir—I want them cellar steps fixed right off. My wife fell down last nite and like to broke her blame neck. Please send blumber and figs our bath tub it will soon be time now for us to use him agen
and oblige. Yours truly, —Everybody's.

Meals and Medicine.

Doctor—You are debilitated. Take one of these pills three times a day before meals. Poet—If I could get the meals I wouldn't need the pills.—Town Topics.

Thought Reading.

"Can I see you apart for a moment?"
"You mean alone, don't you?"
"Exactly. I want the loan of a lover."—London Wistander.

Lower Falls

—Mr. George Warren from the Associated Charity Bureau of Boston, addressed the Lower Falls A. A. on "Tramps." His talk was most interesting as he described the tramps he meets in his daily work.

—The choir of St. Mary's Church will give a concert in the Parish house, April 9.

—Alderman Bernard Early returns
this week from a trip to Philadelphia.

—The engagement of Dr. Willard T. Perrin, formerly of Wellesley, to preach at the Lower Falls Methodist Church, was postponed to next Sunday, March 31, 10.45 A. M. The quarter will sing.

ALL SORTS

When a young minister, with no
regular charge, I was invited to preach
one Sunday in a Westchester County village, the regular minister having gone on a vacation. To my horror, the local paper appeared the following week with this item:

"The Rev. Blank preached last Sunday in the _____ Church. There will be no services next Sunday in order that the church may be thoroughly renovated."

There are some husbands who are such poor providers that they can not furnish even an excuse.

An unfortunate man whose name is
E. Z. Money has petitioned the Legislature to change his name because he can not live up to it.

How doth the little busy bee
Delight to make a noise,
And with his buzzy-buzzy buz
To frighten little boys.

While the grown-ups were engaged in talking over old times, Bobby drew near the parrot's cage, bent on making friends. Presently there was a squawk from the parrot and a little frightened
cry from Bobbie, who ran to his father, exhibiting a bleeding forehead. The little man was brave. He brushed away his tears, and said, "My papa, but that bird has a hard face!"—Harper's Monthly.

A spoken bull in French is apt to be something different from the Irish variety, something more like a betise, and it is difficult to retain the flavor in translation. "Ce sont toujours les memes soldats qui se font tuer," says Marshal Bugeaud of his army. This loses
a little when one translates, "It is always the same soldiers who get themselves killed."

Vacation is a good time, not merely
for the minister to pursue avocations,
but for other folk to discover how human he is. We recently heard of a small boy who came home from a Sunday-school picnic and reported to his mother what he had found out about the pastor. "O mamma," said the youngster, "he can run, and holler, and climb
a tree, and eat!"—Congregationalist.

When it was the fashion for young Englishmen to go up in balloons with Green, the well-known aeronaut, Albert
Smith, a friend of Dickens and esteemed a wit, ascended one day before an afterward, and he asked, "What's the his hand to a young lady, an acquaintance of his, as he was starting, he said,
"If I come down again, I will bring you a Skye terrier." He came down again, and without the terrier. "We didn't quite make the dog star," he said
in explanation.

A teacher had told a class of juvenile pupils that Milton, the poet, was blind.
The next day she asked if any of them
could remember what Milton's great affliction was. "Yes'm," replied one little fellow. "He was a poet."

"Say you," cried the victim in the crowded trolley car, glaring up at the transgressor, "my feet are not made to stand on." "That's so," replied the other, pleasantly. "You don't need them for that while you've got a seat, do you?"— Philadelphia Press.

work done in the past and of the good that might be done in the future. The toastmaster then with a few pleasing remarks introduced the speaker of the evening, Bishop William Burt, D.D., LL.D., president of the New England Conference. The class rose in a body and greeted him with three cheers. His subject was "Methodism in Europe." He spoke of his recent visits to Bulgaria, Hungary, Austria, Italy, Switzerland, Germany, Scandinavia, Finland and Russia. At the close of his address he was elected an honorary member of the class. The toastmaster in his closing remarks told of the modesty of the Bishop and the good work he had accomplished for Methodism.
Great credit is due the committee of arrangements which was composed of Walter Chesley, F. T. Probert, C. A.
Chadwick, William Kestle and James W. Lupien. James W. McNealey had charge of the decorations.

CAMP UTOPIA

Boyhood days must pass away.
Years of work must follow play.
But in the years that are to be
Our hearts, Utopia, will turn to thee.

Chorus:
Utopia, Utopia, thy sons in legion sing,
Utopia, Utopia, long shall thy praises ring.

At thy fair name our hearts shall beat,
Utopia, that knowest no defeat.

See, now beneath thy banner old,
Thy sons are forming true and bold,
And come what may on land or sea,
Our hearts, Utopia, will turn to thee.

And when we face life's bitter fight,
And when around us is the night,
Then thy fair banner ever bright,
And thou, Utopia, shall be our light.

Written at random by Robert Bas-sall Fitzgerald, 16-year-old son of our Advisory Director, M. E. Fitzgerald,
Principal of Oliver Wendell Holmes School, Dorchester, Mass.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

Miss GRACE M. BURT, Editor.

Is there anything opprobrious in being styled a "club woman"? The Club Editor asks this question in all due seriousness, for more than once she has met the remark, "But you know, I am not a club woman." And the same person is a member of some very good, reputable club, is perhaps a member of its executive board or an energetic worker on some important committee. If that does not make her a "club woman," what does? Wherein lies the difference? Certain remarks have led the Club Editor to believe that such a one considers, that, if she is merely a member of a local club and confines her interest to her own immediate vicinity, she escapes being a club woman, as if that were something she would not be under any circumstances. The workings of that woman's mind the Club Editor is at present unable to fathom, perhaps she may at some future time. If a woman joins a club she inevitably identifies herself with the club movement and she is bound, if she be a true woman, to be interested in the work which it is trying to do. If that club belongs to a local Federation, as many of our clubs here do, then she has no business not to be intelligent at least with the aims and purposes of that Federation; and if her club also belongs to the State and General Federations, she should in some measure acquaint herself with what they are doing. Certainly no person should assume the presidency of a local club, which is a part of these outside organizations, without assuming also her responsibility toward them. Her indifference or lack of knowledge should not allow her club to be a broken cog in the system. Before accepting the position she should have considered all these matters and made her decision with full knowledge of what lies before her. Every woman in joining a club is becoming a part of a movement, whether she will or no, that is fitting her or those who will come after for responsibilities that American women will have to face in the onward march of time.

Local Announcements

A large whist party under the auspices of the Ladies' Home Circle will be given in Norumbega Hall, Auburn, on Friday evening, March 29th, from 8 to 10, for the benefit of the Bureau of Newton Activities. The use of both halls has been generously contributed. The committee are most enthusiastic in making preparations and hope for a liberal patronage.

The Monday Club of Newton Highlands will meet with Mrs. Joseph W. Moore of 39 Chester street on Monday, April first.

The C. L. S. C. meets with Mrs. William T. Logan of 45 Forest street, Newton Highlands, on April first.

Mrs. Hubert Carter of Otis street will entertain the Mother's Club on Monday afternoon. Mrs. Florence Kelley of the National Consumers' League will speak upon "Child Labor."

On Tuesday afternoon the Newtonville Woman's Guild will hold a Dickens Party in charge of Mrs. Wallace C. Boyden.

The Social Science Club will hold its monthly business meeting on Wednesday, April 3d. Membership fees for the coming year are due at this time.

The annual meeting of the Newton Ladies' Home Circle will be held in G. A. R. Hall, Newtonville, on the afternoon of Thursday, April 4th. Election of officers, final arrangements for the Rummage Sale and other important business require a large attendance.

On Thursday afternoon, April 4, the Parliamentary Law Club will hold a whist at the home of Mrs. W. D. Tripp, Boyd street.

Local Happenings

Mrs. George St. Amant, chairman of the department of education of the West Newton Women's Educational Club, had charge of the meeting on Friday, March 22d. Miss Claire Rockwood Kane with Miss Ruth Lincoln Woodbury as accompanist, rendered the following group of songs: "Ecstasy," by Mrs. H. H. A. Beach; "Mellande in the Wood," by Alma Goetz; and "The Year at the Spring," by Mrs. H. H. A. Beach. Miss Grace Chamberlain presented Mrs. Marks' "The Piper," with great dramatic effectiveness and won repeated applause from her hearers. A social hour followed, during which refreshments were served under the direction of Mrs. Arthur B. Munroe, chairman of the hospitality committee, assisted by Mrs. C. E. Conant, Mrs. Fred Ward, Mrs. E. F. Robinson, Mrs. Robert Van Wart, Mrs. F. E. Noyers and Mrs. Samuel Darling.

The travel class of the club met at the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston on Monday, March 25th, when the exhibition of French Renaissance paintings and also that of the Flemish tapestries were studied.

At the meeting of the Newton Centre Woman's Club on Thursday afternoon, Mr. Edward Avis gave a stereoscopic lecture on "Birds." His pictures of birds, fields and woods were very attractive and the bird notes imitated upon the violin and by whistling were wonderfully good representations. A social hour with refreshments followed the lecture. The teachers of Newton Centre and the children of club members were present.

The C. L. S. C. of Newton Highlands met on Monday afternoon with Dr. Caroline Wentworth of Lincoln street. Mrs. Robert Clark read a paper on Browning's "Cleon," and a discussion of the subject followed.

The meeting of the Parliamentary Law Club on Tuesday morning was largely attended and the time was spent in parliamentary practice.

At the meeting of the Social Science Club on Wednesday morning a large number of members and guests were present to enjoy an interesting and instructive lecture upon "Flax, Linen, Suggestions to Housekeepers," by Mr. Fred H. Tucker. He spoke of the weaving of flax as an ancient industry 4000 years old. After flax leaves went out of fashion, the skins of animals were used for clothing, then linen was made from flax even before the time of Moses. Egypt was the first country to raise flax. Hand looms were used, but only a few are in existence today.

Flax grows to a height of about three feet. Its flower is bright in color and a field of flax somewhat resembles one of forget-me-nots. At the proper stage of maturity the plants are pulled and laid in piles. The roots are left on in order that the sap may be retained. The long silky fibre is removed from the stalk by means of soaking in vats of water where fermentation takes place. After its removal from the vats it is allowed to dry. Heckling and combing separates the short from the long fibre. The long fibre is used for the fine grades of linen and the short for the coarse, uneven varieties.

All fine table linen is made from water-spun flax, water being absolutely essential to its manufacture. Vapor has been tried, but unsuccessfully. Since the days of the Egyptians the process has changed very little. The linen made by them and wrapped about the bodies of mummies is often found in an excellent state of preservation today.

There is no grass bleached linen at present, it being too slow a process; therefore, chemicals are used to shorten the work. In this process Scotland excels. Linen is manufactured in Ireland, Scotland, Belgium, Holland and France, that of Scotland being perhaps the best of any in the world. Very little is manufactured in the United States, because our dry crisp climate contains too little moisture, a warm moist climate being absolutely necessary.

The finest lawns and handkerchiefs are made in Ireland, while Scotch linens wear probably better than any. Straight line patterns do not wear as well as figures with rounded edges. Table linen should always be washed at home with mild soap, clear water, and never starched. In single thread damask the same number of threads run each way; in double thread, there are twice the number in the web and this doubles the wear.

The subject was of great interest, many questions were asked and a large number remained to examine the specimens of flax, the long and short fibre, and the pieces of fine linen which Mr. Tucker exhibited.

At the regular meeting of the Review Club of Auburn held at the home of Mrs. E. C. Hammond on Tuesday, in its study of the development of the English drama the club has reached the work of authors of the present day, and the play of the morning was Sir Arthur Pinero's "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray." The different characters were represented by Mrs. William Fuller, Mrs. Charles Valentine, Mrs. E. J. Frost, Miss Elizabeth Rider, and Mrs. Henry Hill-dreth. Each one played her part admirably and the entire play was unusually well rendered.

Fairies, Dutch children, rough riders, members of the Mother Goose family, and many other artistically costumed boys and girls, wearing masks, were guests of the Waban Woman's Club Thursday afternoon, in Bessey Hall. By a special invitation all the children of Waban were bidden to masquerade and attend the party prepared for their pleasure. The festivities began with a Grand March so all might be viewed and then followed a program of fancy dancing, after which delicious ice cream and cake were served. Informal dancing concluded the afternoon's enjoyment.

At the meeting of the Newton Centre Woman's Club on Thursday afternoon, Mr. Edward Avis gave a stereoscopic lecture on "Birds." His pictures of birds, fields and woods were very attractive and the bird notes imitated upon the violin and by whistling were wonderfully good representations. A social hour with refreshments followed the lecture. The teachers of Newton Centre and the children of club members were present.

UNDER THE GILDED DOME

No action towards the actual dredging of the Charles river will be taken this year by the General Court, although it is expected that measures will be taken to ascertain the value of the mill rights in the river now owned by manufacturing plants in Newton and Waltham, and the sources of pollution of the water. This information is to be ready for the next Legislature, and as it is understood that all three of our present representatives are willing to serve another year at the State House, there is a strong possibility of practical relief next year of the present river nuisance. It would also help enormously, if Governor Foss would only appoint a new chairman of the Metropolitan park commission this year.

The congressional redistricting plan to provide for the two additional congressmen given the state by the last apportionment, has been reported in the Senate and assigned for next Monday. The committee plan will radically change the Newton district, eliminating many towns in Norfolk and Worcester counties now in the present 12th district and adding the lower portion of Middlesex county, one town in Worcester county, Southboro, and the Brighton district of Boston. The number is changed to 13, which will not prove a hoodoo to Congressman Weeks, as the district should be Republican by about 3500 majority. At the same time I do not believe there will be many tears shed by anyone in Newton if the plan fails of passage and the additional congressmen are chosen at large. Indeed, with present political conditions in this state, the at large plan seems by far the most feasible.

The Senate has substituted for an adverse report, the bill to authorize cities and towns to furnish food and clothing for needy pupils. The vote was close, 18 to 17, and its passage by the House is problematical.

Alderman Gray's bill to correct the law governing liquor transportation permits, which was killed, a week or so ago, will probably be included in a codification of the liquor laws which is coming to the next Legislature.

A bill has been reported by the Election laws committee to remedy a condition which has been noted in this as well as in other cities. It prevents the nomination at primaries of persons whose names are not printed on the official ballot, unless such nomination is accepted in writing. Last fall at our city primary, several persons were involuntary nominated for Democratic candidates by one or two voters writing their names in the ballot. This action made it necessary for these gentlemen to make a formal withdrawal, and as it might be possible for such a person to have no knowledge of the nomination, he would be forced to be an involuntary candidate at the polls.

Mr. Ellis and Mr. White were recorded against the bill to abolish the charge for gas meters. Mr. Bothfield not being recorded. All three representatives were against the bill to prohibit charges for use of meters for electricity, against the bill for reduction of street betterments in East Boston and in favor of a bill relative to locations for gas pipes against the enlargement of the Boston School committee, against the bill to license barbers, against the bill relative to appointment of probation officers, and against the bill to prevent discrimination in the sale of commodities.

Propositions to change our present method of appointing judges for life have met a merited fate, bills to provide for an elective judiciary and for a limited term of office for judges being decisively beaten in the House.

Considerable fun was had over the bill to tax bachelors, the House adopting the bill at first and then reconsidering that foolish action and backing up the adverse report of the committee.

The Senate gave leave to withdraw on the various bills for women's suffrage, by a vote of 17 to 20 and the House has assigned consideration for next Tuesday.

The resolutions favoring the direct election of United States senators was adopted yesterday by the House by a large majority, the vote being 167 to 32, and sad to say, all three Newton representatives were paired against the measure. The Senate has killed the biennial election amendment, only 8 votes being in favor.

SUNSHINE SOCIETY WORK

The Massachusetts Division of the International Sunshine Society has chosen a new set of officers with Mrs. Clara J. Kimball of Arlington as President. Headquarters continue at 29 Temple place, where Mrs. Kimball will be glad to receive callers on Tuesdays and Fridays from 10 to 4. Mrs. Morrill, the first vice president, will be at headquarters daily.
One of the first requests which the new president received was for sleeping bags for the infants' hospital at Jamaica Plain. Sunshiners promptly made these from the patterns supplied.
Mrs. Morrill has designed a sleeping cap for out of door sleepers and a club of girls in Newton has undertaken to make these.
"Passed on" magazines and clothing and toys have never been received in a way to equal the requests, and yet many of them are handled by Mrs. Shepard, the treasurer, in the course of the year.
This society is not a charity, but it does the same work the charitable societies do. It is non-sectarian, but it has branches in many churches. It is in Massachusetts entirely in charge of women, but has among its helpers several prominent business men. The general plan of society work is to follow the advice of the President General, Mrs. Cynthia Westover Alden, and "Do something for somebody quick!"

The society paper, The Sunshine Bulletin, is published monthly. Among the interesting columns is one devoted to birthdays of members over 80 years old. This is known as The Four-Score Branch, and the society takes much interest in making things sunny for these aged people. Shut-ins and invalids are also especially interesting to these "distributors of brightness," and lists of such sufferers are kept by the members who frequently send letters or small gifts just to "make things pleasant."

An amusement box for invalids was sent to headquarters and has visited several homes where it was greatly enjoyed.
Novel ideas for entertaining the sick are constantly looked for and gladly welcomed by the leaders.

The International Sunshine Society is to hold a sale in Gilbert Hall, Tremont Temple, April 13 for the benefit of Good Cheer Camp for Girls.

A GALA DAY IN ERIN

On St. Patrick's Night, March 17th, in the basement hall of St. John's Church, Newton Lower Falls, an original Operetta was given, entitled "A Gala Day in Erin." One hundred and twenty-five people were engaged in the cast of characters. The Operetta was the joint work of Fr. Callanan and Professor Langman of Dorchester. Eight hundred people were in the audience, and fully as many more were turned away from the doors from lack of room.

Fr. Callanan has yielded to the insistent demand of the public, and will have a repetition of the Operetta on Thursday night, April 11th, following Easter Sunday. Already two hundred reservations for seats have been recorded, and applications for seats should be made at once by phone or otherwise to Fr. Callanan, Phone, Westley 45.

New features will be introduced in keeping with the Happy Easter Time, and Fr. Callanan promises an improvement on the last operetta, if such were possible.

The Operetta centers around the loss of an Irish Colleen and the action of the musical drama gives opportunity for many novel and interesting stage scenes, such as the Irish Fairies in their dances; the Irish Gypsies in their songs and dances; the Irish Peasants in St. Patrick's day jigs, reels and horn-pipes; the Leprechauns and Imps of the Irish Glens. Incidental to the above will be given grand choruses of Irish songs and gems of Irish wit.

IN A PERSIAN GARDEN

Palestine Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star entertained a large number of friends Monday evening at Temple Hall, Newtonville. The principal attraction was the singing of "In a Persian Garden," the well-known song cycle, by a quartet consisting of Miss Mary E. Harger, soprano, Miss Marguerite Harding contralto, Charles F. Atwood, tenor and Edmund B. Snow, bass, with Mrs. Dorothy Sprague at the piano. There were also solos by the members of the quartet, which elicited much enthusiastic applause. Dancing followed the concert.

MR. FISHER SURPRISED

Mr. Emory B. Fisher of Austin street was agreeably surprised Sunday afternoon when he was called upon by Miss Ellis and Miss Ruth Campbell, who presented him with a beautiful china plate, cup and saucer in behalf of the Sunday School of the Methodist Episcopal Church. They are exact reproductions of the China used at the White House during Abraham Lincoln's administration. Mr. Fisher was taken prisoner in the first long raid made in the Civil War under Gen. J. B. Stuart and Colonel Lee of the Ninth Cavalry of Virginia and was ordered to fall in the rear of the command with the rest of the prisoners. After riding two days and two nights, they arrived at Libby Prison, Richmond, in June, 1862 and were ordered up stairs with the other prisoners. While confined there, what is known in history as the seven days' fighting front of Richmond took place. Twenty of the prisoners were selected for a special exchange and kept separate from the other prisoners and Mr. Fisher was among the number. While there the Camp of Belle Isle was organized and the prisoners were placed in a room which was used as a hospital until recovered sufficiently to be sent home under flag of truce. It was through Lincoln he was liberated so the gift by the Sunday School was greatly prized and appreciated by Mr. Fisher.

DANDY DICK

The last in the series of entertainments by the Auburndale Village Improvement Society was given Monday and Tuesday evenings in Norumbega Hall. "Dandy Dick," the three-act comedy, by Pineroy, was admirably presented, a large audience being in attendance on both evenings. The leading role was taken by Mr. C. W. Blood as the "Dean of St. Marvells," and it was in good hands. Mr. Sisk scored a success as "Blondie the butler." Miss Peloubet and Miss Sawyer as "the Dean's daughters," played the parts assigned them in an exceedingly pleasing manner. Miss Goodrich as "the Dean's sister," was one of the best in the cast. With perfect ease she played the part, her lines being well delivered, and Miss Underwood, as "Hannah Topping," was another of the clever ones, her part being nicely interpreted. The musical selections were finely rendered and were furnished by Mrs. Nelson Freeman, pianist, and Miss Miriam Herriot, violinist. The play was given under the direction of C. E. Kennedy. H. L. Blackwell was stage manager and L. S. Walling, assistant stage manager. Dancing followed the performance.

A DRESS REHEARSAL

The Channing Clan gave a pleasing entertainment on Friday evening at Channing Church parlors. The program consisted of the musical sketch "A Dress Rehearsal" and was capably done by the Misses Ruth Cutler, Barbara Wellington, Doris Holmes, Margaret Crocker, Margaret Clarke, Dorothy Wellington, Janet Brimblecom, Marjorie Warren, Charlotte Bruner, Bernice Wilbur, Elizabeth Bartlett, Doris Cutler and Ruth Wellington. Miss Cutler, as the prim Miss Jones made a hit the moment she came on the stage and the greeting given Miss Bruner as Mrs. Jarley, who wore a most eccentric costume, was also enthusiastic. The spiteful sisters, Miss Warren and Miss Brimblecom, quarrelled in a most realistic fashion and Miss Clarke as the greedy girl was considerably in evidence. The other parts were also well taken and the girls should be congratulated on their success. Miss Marjorie Holmes was the accompanist and Miss Katherine Stone played the violin. The play will be repeated tomorrow afternoon at the same place.

N. H. S. CLUB OF HARVARD

The Newton High school club of Harvard University has been recently formed at Cambridge to promote comradeship between graduates of the Newton High school at that college and to further the common interests of the High school and the University. These officers were elected: Marshall W. Cox, 1st year, president; Stephen T. Hopkins '14, vice president; Schuyler Adams '14, secretary; Paul H. Smart '14, treasurer. An open meeting will be held in the near future which the seniors and juniors of the Newton High school will be invited to attend.

NEW POLICE PATROL WAGON

The new automobile patrol wagon and ambulance for the police department has reached West Newton, and will be put in commission in the very near future. The machine was built by the Knox Co. in accordance with plans suggested by Chief Mitchell. It is finished in dark blue and built especially for this kind of work. The wheel base measures 134 inches and is equipped with Flske Demountable Rim Tires. The machine is lighted by electricity throughout and has an especially arranged dome light on the inside and a large acetylene head light which is illuminated from a press button on the seat. An emergency kit to be used in first aid for the injured is included in the equipment. The interior of the car is so arranged that 14 passengers may be comfortably seated and the machine is able to attain a speed of 40 miles an hour.

CALL IN THE DOCTOR.

Then He and the Patient Found They Were Two of a Kind.
 In the Metropolitan theater the house physician has a seat given him for each performance. He is supposed to be there every evening. Naturally there comes a time when the play begins to pull on him. One evening not long ago the stage manager of a local playhouse rushed down the aisle to the doctor's seat and whispered:
 "Come back at once. The leading lady has had an attack."
 In the lady's dressing room all was confusion. "What'll we do, doc?" cried
 the stage manager.
 "Have you poured water on her head?"
 "Yes, a whole bucket, out of the one that says 'Not to be used except in case of fire.'"
 "Then don't pour any more. I fear you have made a fatal mistake. Run out to the drug store and get this fluid."
 When they had run out the lady opened her eyes. "Doc," she gasped,
 "you're a good fellow, ain't you? I know you know there's nothing the matter with me. I want a day off,
 and I don't want to go on in this act.
 Can you fix it?"
 "I sure can," he answered, wringing
 her hand sympathetically. "I ain't a doctor. I came in on his ticket. We'll fix it."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

ARMLESS PAINTERS.

Sarah Biffen, For Instance, Who Made Remarkable Miniatures.
 Miss Sarah Biffen was a conspicuous example of the skill which armless people sometimes acquire in spite of their affliction. She was miniature painter to Queen Victoria, and her work was widely known for its beauty and delicacy.
 She was born without arms, but as a girl, having a great wish to become an artist, she worked earnestly for years until she could paint by holding the brush in her teeth. In 1821, according to the Raja Yoga Messenger,
 the judges, without any knowledge of the means she was compelled to use, awarded her the gold medal of the Society of Arts, a prize sought by hundreds of others.
 M. de Mentibus and Bertram Hiles
 were other artists who were deprived of the use of their arms. The former had only one foot, which he used to paint with.
 Mr. Hiles lost both his arms in an accident, being run over by a street car when he was only eight years old and when he was just beginning to acquire skill in drawing. He spent two years in patient toil learning to draw by holding the pencil in his teeth, at the end of which time he won a first class certificate from a local art school.

An Antidote Handy.

The woman was the author of a cookbook that had been published at her request with wide margins and occasional blank pages for notes and occasional recipes. Often she had expressed a wish to see an old copy of the book and find out to what use the blank spaces had been put. One day in a secondhand bookstore her husband unearthed an old volume. Noticing that it had been annotated frequently, he bought it. After a day or two he said:
 "How about the notes in that cookbook? Were they interesting?"
 "No," she said curtly; "they didn't amount to anything."
 When he got a chance he looked through the book himself. Every note the book contained was a remedy for dyspepsia and stomach trouble.—New York Times.

A Regular Sherlock Holmes.

Under the caption "A Triumph of Reason," "Jugend" tells this story: "In the lower court of a small town in Saxony William had served faithfully and well as attendant to the presiding judge for many years without ever having received any reward aside from his usual stipend. On the day of adjustment for the season, when visitors had retired, the judge, who was about to leave, asked, 'William,
 do you smoke? Seeing a square box
 under the judge's arm, he answered respectfully, 'Yes, your honor.' 'I knew it by the smell of your coat,'
 said the judge as he walked out."

First Title of "Vanity Fair."

Brighton, England, holds memories of Thackeray. It was while staying at the Old Ship that he commenced a novel which was to be called "Pencil Sketches of English Society." One night as he was lying in bed a better
 title suddenly occurred to him.
 "I jumped out of bed," he told Miss Perry afterward, "and ran three times round my room, uttering as I went,
 'Vanity Fair, 'Vanity Fair, 'Vanity Fair.'"

Protection.

"I understand that you don't speak
 to your neighbors."
 "Not any more than necessary," replied Mr. Groucher. "Of course they are the neighbors, but we also have a few cooks, and we don't care to have them get acquainted with her."—Washington Star.

Recompense.

Miss Passy—You have saved my life, young man. How can I repay
 you? How can I show my gratitude?
 Are you married? Young Man—Yes;
 and she is a cook for us.—Woman's Home Companion.

Chilly.

"Meet any icebergs on your way across?"
 "No, but several of us tried to flirt
 with a Boston girl who was on board."
 —Louisville Courier-Journal.

KNEISEL CONCERT

It was a large, appreciative audience that greeted the Kneisel Quartet
 last Friday evening at the final subscription concert of the Hatfield-Wurtember series in Players' Hall, West Newton.
 This series of concerts has become known all over musical America as the finest course in the country; at no town, city or institution, musical or otherwise, are attractions of such sterling worth and reputation, provided for the entertainment or education of an audience.

During the past few seasons such artists as compose the Adamowski Trio, The Pionazey Quartet, The Kneisel Quartet, the Boston Philharmonic Orchestra, the Dodge-Torillo
 Quintet, not to mention Frangie Mc-Millen, Mary Hissom, De Noss, and many others, have appeared, all giving programs of highest musical merit.
 The program provided by the Knei-sels last Friday evening was no exception to those rendered earlier in the season, details of which were given in last week's issue; it only now remains to speak of the performance itself.

Of course, it is but natural to compare the Kneisels with the Pionazeys; but this is not at all possible
 for they represent two entirely different schools. The Pionazey Quartet, on one hand, adheres almost rigidly to compositions of the romantic school; no solos whatsoever are performed by any of them—their work is entirely different—it is brilliant, and exaggerated on one hand—while delicacy abounds to some extent—yet not to that extent as is found in the performances of the Kneisels; the tone of the Pionazey is attractive—but does not possess the rich, mellowness,
 or the ripe, loving smoothness of the Kneisels. Comparisons are said to be out of order in many cases, and,
 for man, in comparing these two quartets—it would be hard to make a final decision, for what pleases one hearer, does not satisfy the other and so we might go on.

Perhaps in the whole musical world
 there is not another such first violin
 as Franz Kneisel; it is his tone we speak of when we mention richness, warmth, depth and sympathy; there is nothing hard about it; Mr. Kneisel lives every moment that he plays; he lives to play and that is about all.
 His life, even when the concert
 master of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, was first for his quartet. It is only proper and obligatory to state that perhaps the largest influence in our musical improvement has been the playing of this very quartet. No musical organization in America, or even Europe, holds a higher place in the development of chamber music than the Kneisels and one of the hopeful signs of the times is the devoted public rallying every year to the support of the quartet.

The Mozart Quartet in C major
 which was described fully last week,
 was given with the Kneisels' usual interpretation—that of a band of artists, and its rendition was certainly replete with the sophistry of musical pleasure. It would be difficult to pick out any one movement as the best although history tells us that the introductory passage is said to have given offence to a marked degree to the purists of the time of its publication, on account of the unusual harmony which even today sounds quite modern.

The Debussy Quartet in G minor,
 of which two movements were played
 was of course the piece de resistance because of its being an example of the modern school. The themes sounded odd to us, but very pleasing for the work is treated in a classic manner, being broad and full of romance and enchantment.

The solo group played by Mr. Willeke was rather a disappointment.
 There seemed to be too much vibrato,
 which is out of place with cellists of today. Yet it must be remembered that it is indeed a difficult task to sit in a quartet and play a quartet program and then practically tear one's mind and thought away from the work in hand, which is entirely in a different mood, and compose one's self to play or perform solos. Never has the Casella "Napoliante" been played better here. It was the performance of an artist—the performance of a man
 knowing his instrument—is capabilities and its limits—and he displayed them all to the utmost. The Raff
 "Larghetto" played first—was a dainty and tempting display of sound production of true cello tones. Mr. Willeke's reception must have pleased him for his encore was given in an even better vein than his solos, if such were possible.

The final number of the program—
 the Schubert Quartet in A minor was another display of "criticless" artistry.
 It was supreme music, justly played—nothing sacrificed to produce force or tone, but everything subser-vied to properly interpret art, as it should be. The second movement being especially sweet and expressive,
 and after a brief modulation, of which
 no one but Beethoven or Schubert
 would have thought, the double bar appears and the whole repeated in the usual way. A beautiful Andante movement then follows, in C major,
 a real inspiration, for even though
 the construction is of simple design,
 each part teems with expressive interest. The final Allegro Moderato is full of gaiety, containing many a quaint touch—which of course means that Schubert was the composer.

The whole concert was a delight in every way and it is too bad that more people cannot avail themselves of the opportunities that are offered in Newton to hear the musical lions of the country.

The concert was under the musical direction of Mr. A. H. Handley.

The tourist who after many hours
 of tireless climbing reached the top of Pike's Peak, looked inquiringly around and demanded: "Now show us what this man Pike looked at?"
 Saphend, living in the city, wrote to a farmer stating that having arranged
 to spend the summer in the country,
 he desired to purchase an ice-cream
 cow. The farmer replied by the next mail, saying that he had a nice cream
 cow that would just suit him.

A TEN- YEAR LIGHTING CONTRACT
 At a largely attended town meeting held in South Framingham Tuesday evening, March 19, the citizens voted overwhelmingly against the establishment of a municipal electric lighting plant for the town. At the same meeting, under another Article,
 it was voted unanimously to authorize the Board of Selectmen to make a contract with The Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston for lighting the streets and municipal buildings for a period of ten years.
 This is the end of a long and bitter fight on the part of a few citizens of the town for the establishment of a municipal plant. A Municipal Lighting Committee has been at work for two years gathering data and compiling reports purporting to show the advantages and success of municipal plants in different parts of New England and the United States. About seven years ago the town began refusing the Selectmen permission to enter into a contract for lighting for more than one year at a time, with the result that, according to the Edison Company's municipal schedule,
 the town has lost much money that might have been gained through the ten per cent. discount on a ten-year contract. Both the Municipal Lighting Committee and the Boston Edison Company have submitted letters and statistics through the daily papers of the town; and these have been read with great interest, and with the result shown in the first paragraph.

BOYLSTON ST. SUBWAY
 The merchants along Boylston and Tremont streets and the thousands of shoppers who patronize the stores along these thoroughfares are deeply interested in the building of the new Boylston-street subway. Additional information relative to the new underground tube shows that the length of the subway will be two miles and length of the first section 1900 feet.
 This section will cost $532,000.
 There will be stations at Boylston
 and Tremont streets, Copley square and at Massachusetts avenue and Boylston street. The estimated time required to complete the subway is three years. It is said that the first section will be finished by April 1, 1913. The contract for this section has already been awarded, and the Transit Commissioners are working on the plans and specifications for the rest of the work.
 In building the station in Copley square the Transit Commissioners are taking great care that the architectural beauty of the square will be maintained.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE.—On next Monday Miss Gertrude Elliott will begin the last week of her engagement at the Plymouth Theatre, Boston, in Sir Arthur Wing Pinero's delightful
 comedy "Preserving Mr. Panmure."
 The play was enthusiastically received on its first presentation and proves the most entertaining play that Miss Elliott has had since she became a star. The play is a comedy of middle-class English life, built upon the rather broad lines of Pinero's earlier work, and moves with the rapidity of a farce. "The whole piece is a most clever and amusing farce and is a most successful fun producer," says
 the Boston Post. The story resolves itself into a country house puzzle—
 who killed the governess?—is the author's chief concern and that of his characters throughout the four acts of rapid action.
